IKE ISSUES WARNING

Syrian Regime Lashes Out At U. S. Airlift Plan

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Sept. 7 (UP)—Syria's leftist regime lashed out angrily at the United States today for its plans to airlift arms to Jordan and other anti-Communist Middle East Nations. At the same time, King Saud of Saudi Arabia made a surprise flying visit to Lebanon for talks on the tense situation.

The new developments occurred as President Eisenhower sternly warned Russia the United States is prepared to intervene if Moscow should "push Syria into any acts of aggression against her neighbors."

An official Syrian government statement issued in Damascus warned the United States that Syria "will not tolerate any action against her security." It was Syria's first official reaction to the announcement that the U. S. would begin airlifting arms to Jordan Monday.

Will "Tear Up Belt"

Simultaneously, Syrian President Shukri El Kuwatly was quoted in Cairo as saying that Syria would "bear up the belt being clamped around it."

The Syrian statement said "Syria does not intend to attack anybody."

It was issued at almost the same time that Eisenhower served blunt notice in a Washington statement that he is prepared to "exercise as needed" the authority conferred on him by last spring's congressional Middle East resolution. This could include use of armed forces.

Eisenhower, who interrupted his vacation for Washington talks on the Syrian crisis, affirmed his intention to carry out the policies expressed in the Eisenhower Doctrine to aid Middle East nations threatened by communism.

In Moscow, the Soviet Communist party newspaper "Pravda" declared that Russia's new Middle East note was a "serious warning" to the West to keep out of Arab affairs.

At the same time, two more Russian warships — a cruiser and a destroyer — passed through the Straits of Gibraltar today to join the ever-growing fleet of Soviet

Missles Are Being Worked On By Experts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—Defense Department experts are working on two types of 1500-mile ballistic missiles — offensive and defensive — to counter Russia's forthcoming international rocket.

But department sources said today there is no disposition to embark on a "crash" program for either weapon because American officials are still not convinced by intelligence reports that the United States trails Russia in missiles development.

The weapons are among several pointed at matching or surpassing whatever Russia produces. The Russians announced two weeks ago that they had successfully fired a long-range missile. Other sources said they also were successfully testing intermediate range (1500-mile) missiles.

Hammering Out Plans

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson has three experts hammering out plans for the most effective IRBM, or 1500-mile-range missile. They are William M. Holaday, Maj. Gen. B. A. Schriever, commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, and Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commander of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency.

Their job is to decide, on Wilson's orders, whether this country should produce the Army's Jupiter missile, the Air Force's Thor, or a combination of both.

Wilson wants their recommendations soon so he can end the longstanding inter-service dispute over the two missiles before he leaves office late this month or early in October.

Studying Merits

The three-man committee is said to be studying the merits of the two missiles, the estimated cost of producing each and the

Judge Promises Decision On Negro Boycott

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Sept. 7 (AP)—Circuit Judge Will O. Walton promised a decision "at the earliest possible time" on a motion to end a temporary injunction aimed at a Negro boycott of white Tuskegee merchants.

He took the matter under advisement yesterday following legal arguments on the restraining order issued three weeks ago at the request of Atty. Gen. John Patterson.

A crowd of Negroes estimated at more than 1,000 overflowed the courtroom and halls of the Macon County courthouse during the hearing.

The judge announced that both sides will have 10 days to file briefs in support of their arguments before he makes his decision.

Patterson Urged

Patterson urged that the injunction against the Tuskegee Civic Assn., its members and followers be continued and made permanent to protect the community from an illegal trade boycott.

He said the TCA campaign to withhold Negro patronage from white merchants is a "public nuisance" and designed "to cripple and destroy the economy of an entire city and county."

The injunction prohibits the Negro organization and others from "using any force, threats, intimidation and coercion" to keep Negroes from trading with any Tuskegee merchant.

Spokesman for Tuskegee Negroes have denied that threats or intimidation has been used in support of the campaign to switch patronage to Negro merchants where possible.

They also have denied that there is any organized boycott within the meaning of Alabama's anti-boycott law.

Patterson read several sworn statements of Tuskegee Negroes who claimed they were threatened and intimidated by supporters of the TCA's "economic action" campaign, seeking to keep them out of white stores.

Gulf Disturbance Brews As 'Carrie' Swirls Westward

SAN JUAN, P. R., Sept. 7 (AP) — Hurricane Carrie swirled westward at 15 miles per hour from its mid-Atlantic birthplace today, attended by 100-mile winds.

An Air Force plane set out from Bermuda to try to pick up the storm on radar but Carrie was still too far away for pilots to fly into the storm itself.

A noon advisory placed the hurricane, third of the season, about 1,525 miles southeast of here. The location is based on reports from ships. However, just one vessel has been close to Carrie's center and weathermen said information is too sparse to pinpoint its location exactly.

No Immediate Threat

The storm presents no immediate threat to land areas but shipping in its path is warned to exercise caution

Its 15 mile an hour speed and westward course is expected to be maintained today and tonight. No immediate increase in intensity and size is forecast.

The 100 mile winds are confined to an area near the the center with hurricane force winds extending 75 miles to the north and 50 miles to the south. Gale force winds extend 100 miles from the center.

From present reports, the storm would be located due east of St. Thomas in the Virgin Island. The scanty information available makes it impossible to tell whether Carrie has shown any marked signs of curving toward the north.

The Miami Weather Bureau said its present course is due west for all practical purposes although there are indications it may be moving along a line five degrees north of west.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 (AP) — The New Orleans weather bureau tonight issued the following Warning No. 1 Debbie at 10 p.m. (CST):

Faubus Stands Firm, Negroes Back Down

Judge Rules Race-Mixing Immediately

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 7 (UP)—A federal judge insisted today on immediate integration of a high school here in a stern order that gave Gov. Orval E. Faubus the choice to remove National Guardsmen from the campus or face contempt of court charges.

In a day of fast-breaking developments, the outside possibility also arose of a clash later between the troops and the city police of Little Rock.

President Eisenhower and the Justice Department were keeping in close touch by telephone with the Little Rock school crisis but no further action was expected from the national level for the present.

Bluntly Rejected Request

District Judge Ronald E. Davies bluntly rejected a request for delay in the admission of nine Negroes to Central high school. Faubus has kept troops there since Tuesday and indicated they would return next week. He did not comment on the jurist's madate but will tell his side of the story on a television program (ABC 7:30 p.m. (CST) tomorrow.

Little Rock Mayor Woodrow Mann said Faubus had created "a powder keg waiting to be ignited by a planned incident at the school."

He said a "state or anarchy" existed and asked the Attorney General Bruce Bennett for a ruling on the governor's authority to use the guard in the present situation. No ruling was expected before Monday at the earliest.

Mann told Bennett he wants to know whether he can order his police force to clear the streets around the school of all persons including the National Guard.

By late Saturday it began to appear unlikely that any of the Negro pupils would show up at Central high until and unless the National Guard is removed.

Guardsmen To Be Kept At School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 7 (AP)—An Arkansas NAACP official said tonight that nine Negro students who were barred from Central High School by armed militiamen will not try to go back Monday morning.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the state branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said:

"What's the point of walking up to the National Guard and being turned back again?"

She indicated that the Negroes, who were refused admission to the school last Wednesday, would "wait for the situation to clear."

A newsman asked Mrs. Bates whether a request would be made for federal protection of Negro students. She replied: "The attorney general (U.S. Atty. Gen. Brownell) is aware of the situation. If he is interested in giving the children protection, he will make it known."

Pressed further, Mrs. Bates said any request for federal protection would have to come either from the school board or the parents of the children. It would not come from our organization."

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 7 (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said tonight that his National Guardsmen still have orders to keep Negroes from entering Central High School.

The governor made this statement in an exclusive interview with an Arkansas Democrat newsman about seven hours after a federal judge refused to delay integration at the school.

Faubus had not been seen since a news conference here Wednesday morning. The brief interview of the governor by George Douhit of the Democrat was held at an undisclosed place.

Faubus was asked to state his position after U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies' ruling and he replied: "It is unchanged."

Then he was asked if the National Guard still was under orders to bar Negroes from Central High School.

Orders Unchanged

He answered: "The orders to the National Guard have not been changed from this past week."

Faubus was asked if the full force of the National Guard would go back on duty at Central High Monday morning with the same orders to prevent Negroes from entering.

"I wouldn't want to say now what will take place Monday because this situation could change any time, but as of tonight they still have those orders I gave

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 7 (AP)—The Arkansas Democrat tonight quoted its Washington correspondent as saying that President Eisenhower is considering the possibility of federalizing the Arkansas National Guard.

The Democrat story said the Joint Chiefs of Staff had recommended in a closed meeting that the President might take such action if Gov. Orval Faubus continues to use state militiamen in the Little Rock school integration crisis.

Jack Cleland, the correspondent, said the JCS meeting took place yesterday and that the recommendation reportedly was forwarded to Eisenhower at his Newport, R.I. vacation headquarters.

CAMPUS MENACE

Piecemeal Efforts Directed At Pond

Only piecemeal efforts continue to be made to fill a dangerous, filth-ridden, nine-foot deep slough on the campus of the newly-opened North Monroe Junior High School, a survey showed yesterday.

The quagmirish ravine is located at the intersection of North 19th street and Roggerson road, a dirt thoroughfare that leads down behind the new junior high school. The pond runs eastward along Roggerson road.

Dr. Carroll Summer, director of the local public health unit, has branded the slough a menace to health and safety and he has strongly recommended that the pond be filled immediately.

Dr. Summer said the slough in addition to inviting danger for school children, has served as a breeding place for mosquitoes, frogs, snakes and turtles.

The health unit director described the odor coming from the pond as obnoxious and said it was caused by decaying of considerable rubbish and other vegetable matter used in an effort to fill the hole.

The stifling smell is noticeable several hundred feet away and even in the building at times.

"I plan to keep in close contact with the situation and watch the progress of the operation." Dr. Summer said, adding that the slough was a dangerous situation and that it should be covered immediately.

Officials involved admitted that under the present setup, it will be several weeks before the situation is corrected.

Meanwhile, a temporary fence was being erected on the school side of the murky pond in hope that it will provide sufficient protection to prevent a tragedy.

The obligation to correcting the situation, it was learned, is entirely up to the Monroe City School Board. School boards are responsible for the upkeep of their property.

T. H. Scott, president of the school board, said the "front section of the pond will be filled in

Patrols Hunt Remnants Of Rebel Force

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 7 (AP)—Troops and police in tanks and armored cars sealed off all entrances today to the battle-scarred naval base city of Cienfuegos in south-central Cuba.

Heavily armed patrols hunted for remnants of a band of 400 rebels that failed after nearly 24 hours of bloody fighting to capture the sugar shipping port.

Possible 150 Casualties

Residents of Cienfuegos said casualties in the fighting, which broke out Thursday and continued into Friday, might reach 150.

They said the best information available indicated a total of 75 rebels and troops and police were killed and at least another 75 wounded. Some of the seriously wounded were sent to hospitals in Havana.

All transportation and public services within the city were operating normally. But troops barred the entry of private cars and buses, and all commercial airline flights were still suspended.

Police and troops seized anyone attempting to take photographs of the bombed and machinegunned public buildings where rebels had holed up.

A Cuban newsreel cameraman and a photographer were arrested early today but later released.

Soldiers held at gunpoint all persons who attempted to get close to the scene of the fighting.

Red Cross workers still were gathering up bodies and aiding wounded.

There was an unconfirmed report the revolt leader Jose San Roman Toledo, a former navy lieutenant, had been shot and killed while attempting to flee the city.

Cubans in Cienfuegos said San Roman apparently had mustered 150 or more men of the Cayo Loco station in launching his assault upon the city Thursday.

Beauty Title Won By Tall Colo. Blonde

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 7 (AP) — Marilyn Elaine Van Derbur, tall blonde, green-eyed organist from Denver, Colo., tonight was selected Miss America of 1958.

The 5-foot-8¼, 20-year-old beauty, former University of Colorado student, beat out 50 other contestants for the title worth $60,000 to $85,000 in scholarships and personal appearance fees. Miss Van Derbur, a music lover, swimmer and skier, measures 35-25-36.

Enthroned

She was enthroned by last year's winner, Marian Ann McKnight of Manning, S.C., before a nationwide television audience — CBS — and a Convention Hall crowd of 20,000.

Jody Elizabeth Shattuck of Atlanta, Ga., a 20-year-old, blue-eyed blonde, was chose first runner-up and won a $3,000 scholarship.

Mary Nancy Denner, a brown-eyed brunette of 21 from Alva, Okla., was second runner-up and awarded a $2,500 scholarship.

Lorna M. Anderson, 18-year-old blonde from Sacramento, Calif., was given third place and Miss Florida, Dorothy Maria Steiner, 20, of Boca Raton, was fourth runner-up. Both received $2,000 scholarships.

Presented Crown

The new Miss America was presented her crown, scepter and robe by Miss McKnight. Miss Van Derber then walked down the 120-foot runway in Convention Hall before a wildly applauding audience.

The Denver beauty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis S. Van Derbur of 2100 E. 8th Ave. Van Derbur owns a life insurance company and a mortuary.

The new Miss America is the second to be chosen from Colorado. The other was Sharon Kay Ritchie, Miss America of 1956.

More Raincoat Weather Likely

Another day of raincoat weather is in prospect for the Twin Cities area according to the federal forecaster. The outlook for today is for light thundershowers and a little cooler.

The maximum temperature recorded at Selman Field yesterday was 89. The low was 66. Rainfall was measured at .40 of an inch.

Partly cloudy and mild is expected in Arkansas today.

'INFLATIONARY'

Pay Boost For 1,500,000 Vetoed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—President Eisenhower today vetoed as inflationary two bills to raise the pay of more than 1,500,000 postal and Civil Service employes.

The raises would have cost the federal government 817 million dollars a year, according to administration estimates.

Eisenhower announced he was killing the bills by pocket veto because they would spur inflation and might force him to ask for another increase in the federal debt limit — now 275 billion dollars.

Passed By Heavy Margins

Congress passed the bills by heavy margins shortly before adjournment.

One would have given 500,000 postal employes a pay increase averaging 12½ per cent, including a flat $546 annually to all field service employes except rural carriers.

The other would have given an 11 per cent pay rise to one million federal civil service workers.

Eisenhower said the government would be setting a bad example in the fight against inflation if it granted the raises. Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn had charged previously that the Democratic-controlled Congress played "callous politics" in approving the raises.

50 Years

Yesterday was an important day for Sam Smith, well known and popular member of the staff of a Monroe bank, for it marked 50 years since the day he timidly started as "runner" for this bank then housed in their new, somewhat towering banking home on South Grand street.

In the intervening 50 years, many changes have come to Monroe and unusual progress has marked the Twin Cities.

We congratulate him for his excellent career with the local bank and hope that he continues there many years. He and his fine family are much appreciated in the Twin Cities.

SUNDAY PICTORIAL SAYS:

Princess Vows To Marry No One But Capt. Townsend

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Sunday Pictorial said tonight Princess Margaret has taken a vow never to marry anyone but Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

"At last the bitter truth about Princess Margaret can be told," it said.

The paper devoted its entire front page to a story that Margaret and Townsend made a pact never to marry. A few members of the royal family had known it, the Pictorial said.

In October two years ago, Princess Margaret publicly rejected Townsend's love—and his reported eagerness to marry her—for her duty to her country.

At that time the pretty princess and the divorced World War II hero were constantly in one another's company. Many persons expected an announcement that they would wed.

Instead, there was Margaret's dramatic rejection.

"She has taken a vow never to marry anyone else," said the Pictorial.

It gave "a friend of Townsend" as the source of its information.

This informant, not identified by name, was quoted as saying:

"Townsend was then a shattered man. He told us quietly—'as we cannot marry each other, then neither of us will ever marry anyone else.'"

What is more, the paper said, Margaret and Townsend never expect to see one another again.

Margaret, the story said, has never been the same since she and Townsend said goodbye on a cold October evening in 1955.

Broken

Missing Grandmother Is International Mystery

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 7 (UP)—A 71-year-old grandmother who disappeared on a flight from communism to the free world was the center of an international mystery today.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Grecia Friedman, who vanished while en route from Odessa, Russia, to Argentina to join her daughter. Her grandson, Gregory Virnick, said she may have fallen into the hands of Soviet secret police.

Virnick said the Soviets already had made one attempt to stop her but failed. He said Swiss police snatched her from Soviet diplomats Aug. 29 when she landed at Zurich's Kloted airport en route here.

Put on Airline

He said Mrs. Friedman was then put aboard Swissair Flight 460 for Sao Paulo, Brazil, the same day, with a letter of recommendation to the airline manager there.

The old lady arrived in that city with all her belongings packed in a wooden box, showing obvious fear and distrust of the strange new free world.

She was reported especially frightened by the number of uniformed men at the Sao Paulo airport, including airline officials, police and customs officers.

However, she allowed policemen to escort her to a taxi. The next day she was reported to have continued her trip to Buenos Aires aboard Pan American Flight 201, although she said her daughter lived in Santa Fe, Argentina.

Mann told Bennett he wants to know whether he can order his police force to clear the streets around the school of all persons including the National Guard.

By late Saturday it began to appear unlikely that any of the Nego pupils would show up at Central high until and unless the National Guard is removed.

Patrols Hunt Remnants Of Rebel Force

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 7 (AP)—Troops and police in tanks and armored cars sealed off all entrances today to the battle-scarred naval base city of Cienfuegos in south-central Cuba.

Heavily armed patrols hunted for remnan s of a band of 400 rebels that failed after nearly 24 hours of bloody fighting to capture the sugar shipping port.

Possible 150 Casualties

Residents of Cienfuegos said casualties in the figh ing, which broke out Thursday and continued into Friday, might reach 150.

They said the best information available indicated a total of 75 rebels and troops and police were killed and at least another 75 wounded. Some of the seriously wounded were sent to hospitals in Havana.

All transportation and public services within the city were operating normally. But troops barred the entry of private cars and buses, and all commercial airline flights were still suspended.

Police and troops seized anyone attempting to take photographs of the bombed and machinegunned public buildings where rebels had holed up.

A Cuban newsreel cameraman and a photographer were arrested early today but later released.

Soldiers held at gunpoint all persons who attempted to get close to the scene of the fighting.

There was an unconfirmed report the revolt leader Jose San Roman Toledo, a former navy lieutenant, had been shot and killed while attempting to flee the city.

Cubans in Cienfuegos said San Roman apparently had mus ered 150 or more men of the Cayo Loco station in launching his assault upon the city Thursday.

Guardsmen To Be Kept At School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 7 (AP)—An Arkansas NAACP official said tonight that nine Negro students who were barred from Central High School by armed militiamen will not try to go back Monday morning.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the state branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said:

"What's the point of walking up to the National Guard and being turned back again?"

She indicated that the Negroes, who were refused admission to the school last Wednesday, would "wait for the situation to clear."

A newsman asked Mrs. Bates whether a request would be made for federal protection of Negro students. She replied: "The attorney general (U.S. Atty. Gen. Brownell) is aware of the situation. If he is interested in giving the children protection, he will make it known."

Pressed further, Mrs. Bates said any request for federal protection would have to come either from the school board or the parents of the children. It would not come from our organization."

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 7 (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus said tonight that his National Guardsmen still have orders to keep Negroes from entering Central High School.

The governor made this statement in an exclusive interview with an Arkansas Democrat newsman about seven hours after a federal judge refused to delay integration at the school.

Faubus had not been seen since a news conference here Wednesday morning. The brief interview of the governor by George Douhit of the Democrat was held at an undisclosed place.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 7 (AP)—The Arkansas Democrat tonight quoted its Washington correspondent as saying that President Eisenhower is considering the possibility of federalizing the Arkansas National Guard.

The Democrat story said the Joint Chiefs of Staff had recommended in a closed meeting that the President might take such action if Gov. Orval Faubus continues to use state militiamen in the Little Rock school integration crisis.

Jack Cleland, the correspondent, said the JCS meeting took place yesterday and that the recommendation reportedly was forwarded to Eisenhower at his Newport, R.I. vacation headquarters.

Faubus was asked to state his position after U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies' ruling and he replied: "It is unchanged."

Then he was asked if the National Guard still was under orders to bar Negroes from Central High School.

Orders Unchanged

He answered: "The orders to the National Guard have not been changed from this past week."

Faubus was asked if the full force of the National Guard would go back on duty at Central High Monday morning with the same orders to prevent Negroes from entering.

"I wouldn't want to say now what will take place Monday because this situation could change any time, but as of tonight they still have those orders I gave

More Raincoat Weather Likely

Another day of raincoat weather is in prospect for the Twin Cities area according to the federal forecaster. The outlook for today is for light thundershowers and a little cooler.

The maximum temperature recorded at Selman Field yesterday was 89. The low was 66. Rainfall was measured at 40 of an inch.

Partly cloudy and mild is expected in Arkansas today.

'INFLATIONARY'

Pay Boost For 1,500,000 Vetoed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—President Eisenhower today vetoed as inflationary two bills to raise the pay of more than 1,500,000 postal and Civil Service employes.

The raises would have cost the federal government 817 million dollars a year, according to administration estimates.

Eisenhower announced he was killing the bills by pocket veto because they would spur inflation and might force him to ask for another increase in the federal debt limit — now 275 billion dollars.

Passed By Heavy Margins

Congress passed the bills by heavy margins shortly before adjournment.

One would have given 500,000 postal employes a pay increase averaging 12½ per cent, including a flat $546 annually to all field service employes except rural carriers.

The other would have given an 11 per cent pay rise to one million federal civil service workers.

Eisenhower said the government would be setting a bad example in the fight against inflation if it granted the raises. Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn had charged previously that the Democratic-controlled Congress played "callous politics" in approving the raises.

50 Years

Yesterday was an important day for Sam Smith, well known and popular member of the staff of a Monroe bank, for it marked 50 years since the day he timidly started as "runner" for this bank then housed in their new, somewhat towering banking home on South Grand street.

In the intervening 50 years, many changes have come to Monroe and unusual progress has marked the Twin Cities.

We congratulate him for his excellent career with the local bank and hope that he continues there many years. He and his fine family are much appreciated in the Twin Cities.

SUNDAY PICTORIAL SAYS:

Princess Vows To Marry No One But Capt. Townsend

LONDON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Sunday Pictorial said tonight Princess Margaret has taken a vow never to marry anyone but Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

"At last the bitter truth about Princess Margaret can be told," it said.

The paper devoted its entire front page to a story that Margaret and Townsend made a pact never to marry. A few members of the royal family had known it, the Pictorial said.

In October two years ago, Princess Margaret publicly rejected Townsend's love—and his reported eagerness to marry her—for her duty to her country.

At that time the pretty princess and the divorced World War II hero were constantly in one another's company. Many persons expected an announcement that they would wed.

Instead, there was Margaret's dramatic rejection.

"She has taken a vow never to marry anyone else," said the Pictorial.

It gave "a friend of Townsend" as the source of its information.

This informant, not identified by name, was quoted as saying:

"Townsend was then a shattered man. He told us quietly—'as we cannot marry each other, then neither of us will ever marry anyone else."

What is more, the paper said, Margaret and Townsend never expect to see one another again.

Margaret, the story said, has never been the same since she and Townsend said goodbye on a cold October evening in 1955.

Broken

Youngsters you do not need to worry lest the great American circus folds up, as some have predicted. That is by no means true. To be sure it won't show under a big top but it will show just the same.

Ringling Bros and Barnum and Bailey still exists and this season have been making good profits. The big top, the side show, the menagerie and parade wagons are gone, but today the circus travels in 15 trailer trucks, no longer does it require the 80 cars as formerly. The show this year played to enormous houses at Madison Square Gardens, New York, and at the fair in Toronto and at Cow Palace in Frisco.

Operating costs have been cut from $25,000 to $9,000 a day and this leaves a good profit for the great show. Everyone seems happy with the new set up.

Mrs. Virnick said this could possibly have been a coincidence of names. But she said she had checked with Argentine immigration authorities, who told her that her mother was the only Friedman whose entry had been sought.

Judge Rules Race-Mixing Immediately

the governor's drastic move, asked Bennett:

"Who has jurisdiction for the purpose of law enforcement on the city streets?

"Do I have legal authority. . . to use the city police force to clear the lanes of traffic and to keep the crowd moving to prevent blocking of traffic?

"If force should interfere with this, what legal remedy do we have?

"Is the governor's authority to use the National Guard unlimited?"

The most critical legal situation in the long civil rights controversy—outright defiance by a governor of federal court decrees—came to a head in a small and tensely packed courtroom where Davies cast aside a petition by the Little Rock school board that the integration be delayed.

Ultimate Confusion

The jurist gravely stated that "ultimate confusion and chaos" would result if "court decrees are flouted."

President Eisenhower and attorney General Herbert Brownell conferred in Washington today on the Arkansas crisis and decided against immediate federal intervention.

A court injunction against further blockading of Little Rock's central high school by Arkansas National Guardsmen was viewed as an early prospect next week should they still be on hand. A contempt of court citation against Faubus also was in prospect.

The Little Rock school board appealed in vain to Judge Davies to temporarily postpone the integration plan previously approved by the board.

The petition was based on these grounds:

"Teaching To An End"

— That the "spectacle" of National Guardsmen at the school has brought "teaching to an end" and children "can't receive education in a normal way while this question is being resolved."

Judge Davies called the petition and the arguments on its behalf "anemic."

Thurgood Marshall, special NAACP counsel, said it will be up to the individual Negro pupils and their parents whether they will try to enter the militia-ringed high school next week.

Carolotta Walls, 15, one of nine Negroes who were to have attended, said she will try to go to class Monday.

"I'll go if we are given protection from mobs," said another of the Negroes, Delores Ann Poindexter, 15.

The President interrupted his Newport, R. I., vacation and conferred at length with Brownell who has been running the legal developments from the Washington end. The President was notified immediately of Davies' ruling.

Up To Faubus, Court Or, Negroes

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Justice Department sources said Eisenhower and Brownell agreed to leave settlement of the explosive race issue in Little Rock — for the present— up to the federal district court, Faubus or the Negro plaintiffs.

Hagerty noted also that the FBI still is assembling data in Little Rock and that this may guide the judge in further decisions.

Faubus, by calling out the guard, has prevented the integration of Central High since Tuesday. He said he was not opposed to integration per se, but had to prevent it at Central High to forestall a riot.

The U.S. government now has to make Faubus allow integration or have the desegregation orders of its courts openly flouted by other southern states. The Justice Department has said that its showdown with Faubus will come in the courts.

'Constitutional Duty'

"....It must never be forgotten that I have a constitutional duty and obligation from which I shall not shrink," Davies said today.

"In an organized society there can be nothing but ultimate confusion and chaos if court decrees are flouted, whatever the pretext.

"We and each of us has a duty to conform to the law of the land and the decrees of its duly constituted courts."

Faubus declined to comment. He is scheduled to tell his story —he contends that he fears integration now would cause a bloody riot — in a national television broadcast tomorrow (ABC 3:30 p.m. (CST).

Davies said the school board, which asked for the delay he refused today, has presented "bald and unsupported" allegations in his petition.

'Anemic Argument'

He said that the school board's argument in court was "as anemic as the petition itself." He pointed out that the Little Rock integration plan was "originated and conceived by local citizens, acting through their own local school directors."

"The plan was approved by this court and by the circuit court of the Eighth Circuit," he said.

Mayor Woodrow Mann of Little Rock said Davies' decision means that "President Eisenhower intends to back up his statement that the federal Constitution will be defended with very legal means available."

"I would like to commend the U. S. government for its position in this matter, which was in the interest of law and order and democracy."

Collusion Claimed

But former State Sen. James D. Johnson, a Faubus opponent in the last election but a strong segregation leader, said the decision is "collusion between the federal court in Little Rock and the Justice Department in Washington.

"It is contrary to any concept of American jurisprudence for a federal judge to permit the Justice Department to instruct on what to do," he said.

"Herbert Brownell's aides have admitted that the attorney general has been in touch with the presiding jurist."

In brief, this was the history of the dispute:

Faubus, on Monday night, called out the National Guard to prevent integration of Central High School, which 1,800 white students attend.

He charged, in a television speech, that there had been heavy buying of guns and knives and violence was sure to result if the school were desegregated.

He thus went against two federal court orders. About 250 troops and state police guarded the school throughout the week. They turned back eight Negroes who tried to get in Wednesday.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. ordered the FBI to investigate the case; the FBI investigation is in progress now, or nearly finished. Faubus telegraphed Mr. Eisenhower that he feared his telephone was tapped and that U. S. marshals were going to arrest him.

Faubus called out two companies of National Guards to surround the executive mansion to "protect" him. President Eisenhower, stung by Faubus' releasing his telegram to newsmen before it got to the White House, finally answered personally.

No Basis for Fear

He told Faubus that there was no basis for supposing that his telephones were tapped or that he was going to be arrested. He urged him to obey the Constitution and the decision of the courts.

Faubus telegraphed the President again Friday that he wanted the FBI to see "certain evidence" which had caused him to call out the militia. Brownell ordered the FBI to look at the evidence.

The school board, in asking Davies to delay execution of his integration order, despite such a background, said feeling was so high that it would be almost impossible for integration to be accomplished.

Marriage Of Negro Soldiers To Whites Told

DALLAS, Sept 7 (AP)—State Rep. Joe Pool wired President Eisenhower last night that "our sense of decency" is shocked by reports that Negro soldiers united in "unnatural marriages" to whites may be brought to Texas.

Pool asked Eisenhower to prevent the Negroes of the 2nd Armored Division to bring their white wives to Ft. Hood from Germany in November.

He told the President Texas law against intermarriage is to "prevent mongrelization of the races."

A division spokesman said the Army recommended that such soldiers transfer out of the division to prevent embarrassment. He declined to say how many such marriages there were or what might happen if a Negro with a white German wife insisted on going to Texa. with the unit.

The white house has made no comment on the recommendation by division officials.

Rep. Diggs (D-Mich), a Negro congressman called on Army Secretary Brucker to investigate and rescind any such recommendation regarding Negroes married to white women.

American Is Sought In Jap Thefts

TOKYO, Sunday, Sept. 8 (AP) — Japanese police stepped up their search today for Robert H. Booth of Mathison, Miss., accused of forgery, fraud and complicity in an auto theft ring.

They said Booth may be hiding in Japan and a nationwide search for him was underway.

Booth disappeared while free on bail of $2,035 just before a Japanese court upheld on June 10 a 1955 indictment by a Tokyo district court. It was first believed that Booth had fled to the United States and extradition proceedings were begun.

The belief that the 31-year-old Booth had reached the United States was bolstered by the receipt in Japan of four letters from him, postmarked Mathiston. They were addressed to Booth's Japanese lawyers, Noboru Asano, and Japanese legal authorities.

The letters contained charges that Japanese authorities were persecuting Booth.

Later Booth's father in Memphis, Tenn., was quoted as saying that his son had mailed the letters to his parents for mailing back to Japan.

Police said that instead of skipping to the United States, Booth probably hid aboard a Panamanian ship, the Pacific Pearl, posing as a crew member. Later the ship was impounded and sold in Yokohama harbor for not paying port duties. When it became clear the ship would not be allowed to sail back to the United States, Booth was reported to have left the ship and gone into hiding on land.

Booth was known here as a magazine publisher, actor in Japanese movies, and former manager of the China Club in Yokohama.

The indictment accused him of defrauding the Tokyo Bowling Center of the equivalent of $11,112, defrauding another foreign national of $5,000, and acting as a broker for a gang stealing cars from U.S. Army camps.

Asano said he intends to withdraw from the case.

"Both has made me lose face in the courts of Japan," he complained.

STORE SALES CLIMB

DALLAS, Sept. 6 (UP) —Department store sales in Texas' five largest cities were up 6 per cent for the week ended Aug. 31 compared with the same week in 1956, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas reported today.

Houston showed the greatest increase in sales, 17 per cent over the same period of last year. El Paso sales were up 10 per cent, Dallas and San Antonio up 3 per cent and Fort Worth up 1 per cent.

Pan American Airways added another note of mystery by saying that a Zlata Friedman had arrived here the night of Aug. 30, and was booked at the Hotel International at Ezeiza airport because she was taking another flight the next day— perhaps to Santa Fe.

Mrs. Virnick said this could possibly have been a coincidence of names. But she said she had checked with Argentine immigration authorities, who told her that her mother was the only Friedman whose entry had been sought.

Judge Rules Race-Mixing Immediately

the governor's drastic move, asked Bennett:

"Who has jurisdiction for the purpose of law enforcement on the city streets?

"Do I have legal authority. . . to use the city police force to clear the lanes of traffic and to keep the crowd moving to prevent blocking of traffic?

"If force should interfere with this, what legal remedy do we have?

"Is the governor's authority to use the National Guard unlimited?"

The most critical legal situation in the long civil rights controversy—outright defiance by a governor of federal court decrees—came to a head in a small and tensely packed courtroom where Davies cast aside a petition by the Little Rock school board that the integration be delayed.

Ultimate Confusion

The jurist gravely stated that "ultimate confusion and chaos" would result if "court decrees are flouted."

President Eisenhower and attorney General Herbert Brownell conferred in Washington today on the Arkansas crisis and decided against immediate federal intervention.

A court injunction against further blockading of Little Rock's central high school by Arkansas National Guardsmen was viewed as an early prospect next week should they still be on hand. A contempt of court citation against Faubus also was in prospect.

The Little Rock school board appealed in vain to Judge Davies to temporarily postpone the integration plan previously approved by the board.

The petition was based on these grounds:

"Teaching To An End"

— That the "spectacle" of National Guardsmen at the school has brought "teaching to an end" and children "can't receive education in a normal way while this question is being resolved."

Judge Davies called the petition and the arguments on its behalf "anemic."

Thurgood Marshall, special NAACP counsel, said it will be up to the individual Negro pupils and their parents whether they will try to enter the militia-ringed high school next week.

Carolotta Walls, 15, one of nine Negroes who were to have attended, said she will try to go to class Monday.

"I'll go if we are given protection from mobs," said another of the Negroes, Delores Ann Poindexter, 15.

The President interrupted his Newport, R. I., vacation and conferred at length with Brownell who has been running the legal developments from the Washington end. The President was notified immediately of Davies' ruling.

Up To Faubus, Court Or, Negroes

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Justice Department sources said Eisenhower and Brownell agreed to leave settlement of the explosive race issue in Little Rock — for the present— up to the federal district court, Faubus or the Negro plaintiffs.

Hagerty noted also that the FBI still is assembling data in Little Rock and that this may guide the judge in further decisions.

Faubus, by calling out the guard, has prevented the integration of Central High since Tuesday. He said he was not opposed to integration per se, but had to prevent it at Central High to forestall a riot.

The U.S. government now has to make Faubus allow integration or have the desegregation orders of its courts openly flouted by other southern states. The Justice Department has said that its showdown with Faubus will come in the courts.

'Constitutional Duty'

"....It must never be forgotten that I have a constitutional duty and obligation from which I shall not shrink," Davies said today.

"In an organized society there can be nothing but ultimate confusion and chaos if court decrees are flouted, whatever the pretext.

"We and each of us has a duty to conform to the law of the land and the decrees of its duly constituted courts."

Faubus declined to comment. He is scheduled to tell his story —he contends that he fears integration now would cause a bloody riot — in a national television broadcast tomorrow (ABC 3:30 p.m. (CST).

Davies said the school board, which asked for the delay he refused today, has presented "bald and unsupported" allegations in his petition.

'Anemic Argument'

He said that the school board's argument in court was "as anemic as the petition itself." He pointed out that the Little Rock integration plan was "originated and conceived by local citizens, acting through their own local school directors."

"The plan was approved by this court and by the circuit court of the Eighth Circuit," he said.

Mayor Woodrow Mann of Little Rock said Davies' decision means that "President Eisenhower intends to back up his statement that the federal Constitution will be defended with very legal means available."

"I would like to commend the U. S. government for its position in this matter, which was in the interest of law and order and democracy."

Collusion Claimed

But former State Sen. James D. Johnson, a Faubus opponent in the last election but a strong segregation leader, said the decision is "collusion between the federal court in Little Rock and the Justice Department in Washington.

"It is contrary to any concept of American jurisprudence for a federal judge to permit the Justice Department to instruct on what to do," he said.

"Herbert Brownell's aides have admitted that the attorney general has been in touch with the presiding jurist."

In brief, this was the history of the dispute:

Faubus, on Monday night, called out the National Guard to prevent integration of Central High School, which 1,800 white students attend.

He charged, in a television speech, that there had been heavy buying of guns and knives and violence was sure to result if the school were desegregated.

He thus went against two federal court orders. About 250 troops and state police guarded the school throughout the week. They turned back eight Negroes who tried to get in Wednesday.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. ordered the FBI to investigate the case; the FBI investigation is in progress now, or nearly finished. Faubus telegraphed Mr. Eisenhower that he feared his telephone was tapped and that U. S. marshals were going to arrest him.

Faubus called out two companies of National Guards to surround the executive mansion to "protect" him. President Eisenhower, stung by Faubus' releasing his telegram to newsmen before it got to the White House, finally answered personally.

No Basis for Fear

He told Faubus that there was no basis for supposing that his telephones were tapped or that he was going to be arrested. He urged him to obey the Constitution and the decision of the courts.

Faubus telegraphed the President again Friday that he wanted the FBI to see "certain evidence" which had caused him to call out the militia. Brownell ordered the FBI to look at the evidence.

The school board, in asking Davies to delay execution of his integration order, despite such a background, said feeling was so high that it would be almost impossible for integration to be accomplished.

Marriage Of Negro Soldiers To Whites Told

DALLAS, Sept. 7 (AP)—State Rep. Joe Pool wired President Eisenhower last night that "our sense of decency" is shocked by reports that Negro soldiers united in "unnatural marriages" to whites may be brought to Texas.

Pool asked Eisenhower to prevent the Negroes of the 2nd Armored Division to bring their white wives to Ft. Hood from Germany in November.

He told the President Texas law against intermarriage is to "prevent mongrelization of the races."

A division spokesman said the Army recommended that such soldiers transfer out of the division to prevent embarrassment. He declined to say how many such marriages there were or what might happen if a Negro with a white German wife insisted on going to Texas with the unit.

The white house has made no comment on the recommendation by division officials.

Rep. Diggs (D-Mich), a Negro congressman called on Army Secretary Brucker to investigate and rescind any such recommendation regarding Negroes married to white women.

American Is Sought In Jap Thefts

TOKYO, Sunday, Sept. 8 (AP) — Japanese police stepped up their search today for Robert H. Booth of Mathison, Miss., accused of forgery, fraud and complicity in an auto theft ring.

They said Booth may be hiding in Japan and a nationwide search for him was underway.

Booth disappeared while free on bail of $2,035 just before a Japanese court upheld on June 10 a 1955 indictment by a Tokyo district court. It was first believed that Booth had fled to the United States and extradition proceedings were begun.

The belief that the 31-year-old Booth had reached the United States was bolstered by the receipt in Japan of four letters from him, postmarked Mathiston. They were addressed to Booth's Japanese lawyers, Noboru Asano, and Japanese legal authorities.

The letters contained charges that Japanese authorities were persecuting Booth.

Later Booth's father in Memphis, Tenn., was quoted as saying that his son had mailed the letters to his parents for mailing back to Japan.

Police said that instead of skipping to the United States, Booth probably hid aboard a Panamanian ship, the Pacific Pearl, posing as a crew member. Later the ship was impounded and sold in Yokohama harbor for not paying port duties. When it became clear the ship would not be allowed to sail back to the United States, Booth was reported to have left the ship and gone into hiding on land.

Booth was known here as a magazine publisher, actor in Japanese movies, and former manager of the China Club in Yokohama.

The indictment accused him of defrauding the Tokyo Bowling Center of the equivalent of $11,112, defrauding another foreign national of $5,000, and acting as a broker for a gang stealing cars from U.S. Army camps.

Asano said he intends to withdraw from the case.

"Both has made me lose face in the courts of Japan," he complained.

STORE SALES CLIMB

DALLAS, Sept. 6 (UP) —Department store sales in Texas' five largest cities were up 6 per cent for the week ended Aug. 31 compared with the same week in 1956, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas reported today.

Houston showed the greatest increase in sales, 17 per cent over the same period of last year. El Paso sales were up 10 per cent, Dallas and San Antonio up 3 per cent and Fort Worth up 1 per cent.

IN WAKE OF BILL

Anticipated Rights Lull Fails To Materialize

By EDWARD JAMIESON
(Special Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — When congress, after weeks of stormy debate and battling, passed the first civil rights bill in 82 years near the close of the past session many members felt that there would be a temporary lull on the civil rights front.

They were just getting away from the capital, however, when the new school integration bomb, triggered by Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas, burst.

Now, it is apparent that every step taken by President Eisenhower and Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., to implement the new civil rights measure, though legally it has nothing to do with the school integration question, will be closely watched.

Though the punitive provisions of the new measure apply only to interference with voting rights, due to senate changes in the bill originally adopted by the house of representatives it creates new government machinery with such broad powers that integration and other civil rights issues are certainly to be involved.

The lull that had been anticipated, but no longer looked for, was based upon the premises that it would require sometime to get the new government agencies into operation and that there are no state - wide primary or general elections this year.

Indications

Indications now are that Brownell, once the immediate integration issue is temporarily abated. may speed up the selection of an assistant attorney general in charge of the new civil rights division in the justice department authorized by the bill, so that he can ge the staff organized for earliest activity.

Such a move would mean that Brownell would look toward this new division in his department to work on the integration and other civil rights questions during the interim prior to development of possible cases under the new civil rights bill. There is nothing in the measure to limit the activities of the division to strictly voting rights cases.

Moreover, the compromise bill, hastily pa ched up by senate and house leaders without even committee consideration, is so ambiguous that it leaves a lot of room for administrative interpretation. Brownell, by obtaining an early appointment of his new assis ant, would have this extra time for drafting of such interpretations and statements of policy prior to the actual application of the law when critical 1958 elec ion year arrives.

May Be Postponed

Selection of the six members of the commission on civil rights, created by congress to investigate individual complaints of interference with their voting rights and generally study the civil rights problem for future consideration by congress, however, may be postponed until later this year.

Reason for this is that though congress, in the last minute rush, agreed to establishment of the commission, it did not appropriate a single dime for its operation. While the commissioners could be given recess appointments and probably be paid from later appropriations, no such provision is in the law for payment of its staff. As a result, it is unlikely that the commission will actually get to full - scale work until sometime early next year, after congress has given it some money.

Once the machinery begins to move next year, insofar as it relates to voting rights, it is anticipated that several cases will be developed, in tthe north as well as in the south, and then the courts will be called upon again.

Both supporters and opponents of the legislation charge that the bill is invalid, but for different but what the initial test cases will reasons, so there is no question finally reach the United S ates supreme court.

Under normal procedure, such tests require up to a year to complete, though they can be expedited under some circumstances.

Big question which unquestionably will not be answered by Brownell until the time comes is who her the justice department, and its corps of district attorneys throughout the country, will seek to enforce the law down to the last word during the period that the test cases are pending before the circuit courts and then the supreme court.

But odds are that all of the legal questions regarding the present measure will have been decided before the next real election year, 1960.

them last Tuesday," Faubus said.

The Democrat published the results of the interview in a copyrighted story. Douthit had asked a governor's aide if he and a photographer could take a picture of a North Little Rock grocer presenting Faubus with a scroll of 300 names endorsing the governor's position.

The aide arranged for Douthit and the photographer to meet with Faubus for a brief period and the picture was taken. Douthit managed to ask several questions.

Faubus laughingly said to Douthit when they first met: "Do you know you're the only newspaperman I have seen in how many hours?"

He was asked if there was any reason for his refusal to see the press and replied: "No comment.

Douthit said Faubus looked fit and healthy.

"Are you worried about this thing?" Douthit asked.

"Oh, I'm concerned about it," Faubus answered, "but I am not worried for myself, if that's what you mean."

"Do you think you can win?" the newsman inquired.

"On the record or off," Fauub asked.

Then he said: "On the record, no comment."

The governor also refused comment on half a dozen other questions.

Earlier today, in his ruling, Judge Davies had acidly termed the plea of the Little Rock School Board to delay integration "anemic" and left his previous order for immediate racial mixing of classes intact.

The Little Rock Crisis

A judge from North Dakota and, without doubt, working under direct orders from U.S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., has again ordered immediate integration in Little Rock, Ark.'s Central High School, despite a plea from the school board that race-mixing be postponed temporarily.

The dumping of a northern federal judge into a southern district with which he is entirely devoid of sympathy and understanding smacks of the reconstruction days immediately following the War Between the States, when northern officials, known as "carpetbaggers," ruthlessly imposed their will upon a crushed south.

U. S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies, who was transported from North Dakota to the Arkansas district which embraces Little Rock about two months ago, wears the robes of respectability and doubtless is a conscientious official but the effect of his ruling imposes dangerous and unwholesome conditions upon the south just as surely as did the carpetbag officials during reconstruction days.

There can be no doubt that Davies' assignment to the Arkansas district was a deliberate and premeditated plan by the federal government, the department of justice and the attorney general to override states' rights and southern traditions at all costs.

If violence should come in Little Rock as a result of decision of this judge that trouble will be upon the judge's head and upon the heads of the federal officials who are determined to play politics at all costs and to bludgeon the south immediately into an intolerable position before it has had time to make the necessary adjustments.

Both Arkansas Governor Orval E. Faubus and the Little Rock school board had pointed out to Judge Davies that sudden violent integration was likely to result in bloodshed. The school board had asked only for more time. The governor, aware of the imminent danger, had ordered out the National Guard as a safety measure.

Instead of viewing the situation from a standpoint of safety and humanitarian principles, either the judge or his superiors decided to make the only thing a question of whether or not the federal government is able to crush the authority of the governor of any individual state. The judge and his superiors have taken the position that any vestige of state authority must be destroyed if it happens to fall into a category in which the national government wants to take supreme command.

This is a violation of the United States Constitution and of the concepts under which it was set up. Our founding fathers established separate states, with separate and distinct powers for each state, for the purpose of preventing the establishment of a totalitarian country.

In the Arkansas situation those state rights are being dragged in the dust, the south is being trampled upon and the way is being opened for an all-powerful centralized government against which no state will dare raise its voice.

There is no justification for a claim of discrimination against the Negroes attempting to enter Little Rock's Central High School. Only a short distance from the quarter-century-old Central High School is the splendid, modern Horace Mann High School constructed only two years ago for Negroes. Many of the Negroes seeking government-propelled projection into the Central High School live nearer Horace Mann High school, where they would enjoy facilities at least equal to those at Central.

The preservation of order and peace within a state is the function of a state over which the federal government has no control unless the particular state in question asks for federal help.

This can only be done when the elected legislature of that state or any state or the chief executive of any state makes the request. Otherwise, the federal government, under the constitution, cannot send in federal troops.

There is also no right under the Constitution whereby the federal marshals or the federal courts can tell the governor of a state that he cannot call out state troops to maintain order and prevent violence.

For example, in the present situation at Little Rock, it would be a flagrant violation of the Constitution for any federal marshals to be ordered into Arkansas to prevent Gov. Faubus from carrying out his state responsibility in maintaining order.

Should they do so, it would be the proclamation of a dictatorship by the federal government.

Governor Faubus has announced repeatedly that he called out the National Guard to maintain order at the Little Rock Central High School because the evidence indicated violence would erupt if an integration plan at the school was carried out.

Up to now, the Supreme Court has neither "overruled" the constitution on the powers granted the chief executive of a state not interpreted it against the position now taken by Governor Faubus.

What may eventually happen in this case may be the opposite. The Supreme Court, if the case ever reaches it, and the stag s set for that, may hand down some more of its unique and amazing rulings. In effect it may rewrite the Constitution on this point as it has rewritten it on others.

A lot will depend on what Attorney General Brownell may desire and what he may tell President Eisenhower. If he so desires, the Supreme Court may rule that the federal government can intrude into the official actions of the Sovereign Executive of a Sovereign State.

So far the Constitution, as presently interpreted, has not allowed the individual judicial views of one judge, embraced in an injunction and court order, to supersede both constitutional and traditional authority of the Governor of a state to take what steps he thinks are best to quell or prevent violence.

This, in effect, is what Federal Judge Davies has done.

The Arkansas Gazette has bitterly condemned Governor Faubus for his action and contends that a majority of the people favor the proposed integration at Little Rock. This certainly is open to debate. No one in a state can say what is the will of the people unless the people themselves have actively expressed it. This the people of Arkansas have done in many ways.

In the state's general elections last November the statewide electorate took these steps:

1. Passed a Resolution of Interposition—An Arkansas procedure where the people can create a law, without legislative enactment, through petitions to place the proposed law on the ballot for statewide public approval or disapproval.

2. Passed a school placement constitutional amendment.

3. Passed a constitutional amendment of interposition against any steps toward integration and proclaimed the U. S. Supreme Court school desegration decision nullified.

In addition, the people have flooded Governor Faubus with telegrams and telephone calls backing his action.

Governor Faubus has contended, and rightly so, that the steps approved by the people in the election should have been passed on by federal courts before there was compulsory integration in any areas where the people do not want it.

But Judge Davies obviously had no intention of allowing this to be. In taking his latest action, he has failed to take into consideration the potential dangerous situation his decision created in Little Rock.

It is to be hoped that cool judgement will prevail at the national level and that national officials will understand that Governor Faubus is only using power granted to him under the constitution.

It is possible to flatter anybody these days merely by asking his opinion on the general situation.

There is no peace. In the absence of either a hot or a cold war, there still would be fighting in Washington.

D.A.R. And Constitution

Since Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard has proclaimed the week of September 17-23 as official Constitution Week and since local units of the Daughters of the American Revolution, along with those throughout the United States, are working to uphold the Constitution, some comment on the various ways in which the Constitution is being flouted seems appropriate.

Local observance of Constitution Week is being sponsored by the Fort Miro chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Pointing out that the United States supreme court has been guilty not only of sins of commission but of sins of omission in rulings concerning the Constitution, Mrs. Barclay Erb, high national official of the D.A.R., says:

"Our straying from the Constitution has been a steady, carefully-planned way to centralized government, totalitarianism and finally world government.

"When the school district sought help from the county, when the county looked for 'state aid,' when the state abdicated its sovereignty for federal 'grants-in-aid,' we were forsaking the Constitution and American tradition.

"In our day, perhaps the greatest offender is the federal government, which is committing us, with use of the taxpayers' money, to membership in international organizations whose authority is the greatest threat to our national sovereignty. There is here an important departure from the usual pattern. We can no longer look to 'grants-in-aid' from the international agencies to which we are sacrificing our national sovereignty. On the contrary, we are the largest contributors to their support, with American taxpayers' money.

"Much of the damage already done has come from our courts' departing from strict interpretation of the Constitution.

"The supreme court has refrained from passing on the constitutionality of foreign aid. No wonder, since it is reasonably contended that the use of American taxpayers' money to help defray expenses of foreign governments may be unconstitutional. The court would also hesitate, presumably, to pass on the constitutionality of any abdication by the president of his authority as commander in chief of the armed forces of the United States to such nations as NATO and the United Nations. But these issues exist."

Our supreme court, having adopted a policy of judgment by ideology, instead of by the Constitution, by law and by precedent, seems to have set itself up as a sort of master of ceremonies, "hearing" only those it chooses to hear and rendering judgments according to its own preconceived ideas.

The purpose of Constitution Week is to remind the people of their rights that exist under this Constitution and to awaken them to the dangers of losing these rights. The federal government and the supreme court have gone a long way toward nullification of constitutional rights.

Many Programs Newly Authorized By Congress Lost In Economy Shuffle

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 —(CQ)—Congress took President Eisenhower at his word when he said the only way to cut his budget was to eliminate programs that Congress itself had authorized.

The result was the scrapping of programs the lawmakers had rushed to enact in election year 1956, before "economy" replaced "progress" as a political watchword.

The campaign wounds of 1956 had hardly healed before Congress early in 1957 launched an almost unprecedented economy drive. When the session ended, the President's request for $64 billion in appropriations had undergone a $4.9 billion trimming.

Following are some of the programs Congress authorized in 1956, then killed or maimed by withholding appropriations in 1957:

An experimental program of Federal flood insurance, for which the Administration originally requested an appropriation of $100 million. The request later was reduced to $50 million, but Congress appropriated no money, and the House Appropriations Committee warned darkly that the request was "merely the initial step committing the taxpayers to a new subsidy program."

A long-range program to combat soil erosion in the Great Plains. The President's $20 million request was sliced in half.

A minerals purchase program under which the Government would subsidize domestic producers of certain minerals through stockpile purchase. Congress allowed only $6.7 million of a $40 million request, after disallowing entirely a $30 million deficiency request for fiscal 1957.

A program of assistance to the states in tree planting, part of the 1956 Soil Bank Act. The Administration asked for $4 million, finally was granted $500,000.

The President's Committee on Educatin Beyond the High School. Congress allowed only $50,000 of a $300,000 request. It disallowed entirely a $650,000 request for grants for similar committees on the state level.

Social security projects authorized under 1956 amendment to the Social Security Act. The Administration asked $2.5 million for grants to the states for training public welfare personnel, but no funds were granted. A request of $2,080,000 for social security research projects also was denied.

Not all of the programs caught in the economy drive were authorized in 1956, of course. A request for $130 million for the strategic and critical materials stockpiling program was denied, and a $94.5 million request for the long-range ship replacement program was cut to $3 million. In all agencies, construction funds were hard hit.

And, as if to prove itself no sport, Congress disallowed a $4.9 million request for the U.S. share of the 1959 Pan American Games to be held in Cleveland, Ohio.

In other cases, whole agencies felt the economy axe. No funds were appropriated for the Advisory Committee on Weather Control, an agency established in 1953 to study the possible role of the Government in cloud seeding and other weather modification activities.

Out Of Southland Comes Blues For Labor Unions

Meanwhile, back on the labor beat . . .

From out of the southland comes the birth of new blues for the nation's harassed labor chiefs. Call it the rank - and - file blues. Millions of unionists are restless, disturbed, wondering if they have been led by men devoted to the inner circle instead of to them.

With the honest union leaders trying to handle the hottest crisis since John Lewis first took a walk, many a local labor official has developed delusions of grandeur and a "meet - me - on-the - barricades" bluster. This means strikes and tough, damaging walkouts which can spread like Asian flu.

The wildcat epidemic has begun. It has hit at the pulsing heart of the land — the electric power industry. It threatens to darken many a city — a hundred cities, to be specific, between now and the end of the year. It hit first in the south while most of us were covering the rackets or flying across continents.

It hit the Florida Power and Light Co. on July 3. Members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers wanted a plant supervisor fired. He had a 30-year record with the company. There was a wildcat strike, the first in the public utility field in decades.

Some of the men sat in the plant. Some simply refused to work. Others picketed the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., plant. The state's two U. S. senators stood by, along with Pentagon officials, ready to introduce emergency legislation in the congress up north.

For some 10 days the Pentagon fretted. This company supplies power all the way from Miami to Coco — site of the Big Missile. Our military knew that the Russians had been firing red rockets. We have a timetable which could have been disrupted if power lines failed somewhere along the road.

But the governor, Leroy Collins, intervened. The national union leaders, Gordon Freeman and Joe Keenan, roared. The wildcat ended. But it was a warning. The regional leaders would be back.

They wanted a seven per cent increase — 18 cents in a field where the average is a nickel increase. No pajama game this. There's high voltage here. The contract is now being discused. Industry and labo, people I've just talked with say that some parts of southern Florida may go dark suddenly.

So may scores of cities in Alabama. There, the Alabama Power and Light Co. was struck by another IBEW local — counseled by the same legal mind now braintrusting the Florida utility union — Joe Jacobs of Atlanta.

The Alabama Power and Light Co. strike ended the other week only after the national union president telegraphed a tough warning to his people not to paralyze the state. Such a day would be known as the day Alabama stood still, but it would also be known as the day an angry nation would scream that it had enough.

Now contract negotiations between the local unions and the utility have broken off. Once again observers say that some of the nation's biggest steel and experimental defense installations may suddenly stop pulsating. A strike may break at any minute, despite its discouragement by the national leaders.

Alabama Power and Light covers the state's biggest cities, from Mobile to Birmingham and many points feeding into Huntsville, where some of the world's weightiest brains are working on the world's wightiest weapon — missiles.

From Kansas City, Mo., home of Kansas Power and Light, to the high voltage Niagara - Mohawk Co., which rushes power into the heavy concentration of steel, aircraft, tool, auto and some secret weapon plants, there's tough bargaining at the tables. Everywhere there is talk of strike.

Between this day and New Year's day, some 100 public utility contracts expire, as have those in the south where FBI men were alerted to head off a neurosis known as cable - slashing, which afflicts some people when a plant is shut down and there is little to while away the time.

Since there are about 400 electric utility contracts across this land, 100 expirations means that fully 25 per cent of the nation's power may be disrupted for a day or a week, sometime this year.

What disturbs observers is the militant barricade mentality of many local leaders. Surely there are grievances. Surely the regional chiefs have a right to ask for more money. But this union has traditionally been a responsible force in the public utility field. The power in the national leaders' hands has never gone to their heads.

Obviously the local leaders believe this is the time for defiance. Everybody's looking elsewhere. Not only in the electric industry. There are power plays coming in all fields.

Puzzled Expression Shown On Robert Fulton's Statue

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Robert Fulton's statue, a gift of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, sits in the Capitol with a model steamboat on his knee and a look of pleased but puzzled parenthood upon his marble brow. After passing the statue a hundred times, I pulled up short the other day. Where had I seen that same look on human faces? Answer: on some Navy and Air Force officers with professional interest in a new kind of boat — a 200 - ton, inter - continental jet transport seaplane.

Every schoolboy knows the story of the much - rejected Fulton's folly. After being turned down by American officials, Fulton tried to peddle the invention to a foreign power. Historians have speculated that if Napoleon had bought the steamboat, he might well have invaded Britain around 1812 and might have united all Europe under his crown.

Seaplanes have never succeeded, but their time may be approaching as the replacement for the cumbersome fleet of surface transports which our 43 - nation alliances force us to keep in existence. The Army chief of transportation, Major General Paul F. Yount, says: "We are interested in water - borne aircraft because we operate in areas where no runways or hangars are available." It would take 45 days to move three fully - equipped divisions to the Middle East. Seaplanes, it is estimated, could do the same job in 15 days. We now have 25,000 military personnel per day at sea in surface transports. Seaplanes would reduce the "in-transit" numbers to 1000 per day.

But seaplanes have a bad record for disaster, and shipbuilders have a strong lobby. There are always rocks in the channel for new ideas.

Another rocky channel is the one which finds Secretary Dulles chuting the foaming rapids of passport troubles. Is there a "right - to - travel?" The American courts appear to have said so in the Boudin case. The United Nations clearly says so in the Charter of Human Rights. But does not a sovereign nation have an inherent right to prevent travel? Should not the U. S. keep watch on movements by aliens within our borders and by nationals in other lands, for the "common defense" and "public welfare," as the Constitution quaintly puts it? Congress quit town with at least these half-dozen unfinished, unpublished ideas for passport legislation in the works:.

1. Require that any alien who enters the United States from a Communist or satellite country disclose at the port of entry any connection he may have had, at any time, with Communist espionage services. Some anti-Communist experts would like this requirement to apply to all aliens, not just those from Communist and satellite countries. But this would raise a howl from friendly nations and would "embarrass" some of the Olympic athletes.

2. Make it a criminal offense for an alien to enter the U. S. on a passport under an alias or under anything but his full and legal name — in other words, no abbreviations or nicknames, of which the Communists are very fond.

3. Make it an act of self-expatriation for an American citizen to accept an office or employment from the government of a Communist or satellite nation. This might mean that certain "tourists" to Red China could not return home, except to face trial.

4. Make it a criminal offense to enter into collusion with a foreign government for the purpose of evading the U. S. passport regulations.

5. Require as a condition for receiving a passport an agreement to give the State Department a truthful account of where the passport holder has travelled while abroad. This would make it a little harder for travellers to slip behind the Iron Curtain on business which they preferred to hide from their country's notice.

6. Establish some fixed and emphatic criteria on which the Secretary of State could refuse to issue a passport in the "best interests" of the nation. As matters now stand, the secretary's refusals are subject to appeal in the Circuit Courts where they rest on the whim of the judges. Some of these ideas were introduced in a bill offered by Senator Eastland just an hour before adjournment. One proposed piece of legislation would require that appeals be heard by a three judge court. This would shorten the way to final appeal in the Supreme Court. But the Supreme Court has been so erratic in its decisions that at least one Senator proposes to take away the right of extended appeal on passport cases. This has been done in the past on matters of price control.

The Little Rock Crisis

A judge from North Dakota and, without doubt, working under direct orders from U.S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., has again ordered immediate integration in Little Rock, Ark.'s Central High School, despite a plea from the school board that race-mixing be postponed temporarily.

The dumping of a northern federal judge into a southern district with which he is entirely devoid of sympathy and understanding smacks of the reconstruction days immediately following the War Between the States, when northern officials, known as "carpetbaggers," ruthlessly imposed their will upon a crushed south.

U. S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies, who was transported from North Dakota to the Arkansas district which embraces Little Rock about two months ago, wears the robes of respectability and doubtless is a conscientious official but the effect of his ruling imposes dangerous and unwholesome conditions upon the south just as surely as did the carpetbag officials during reconstruction days.

There can be no doubt that Davies' assignment to the Arkansas district was a deliberate and premeditated plan by the federal government, the department of justice and the attorney general to override states' rights and southern traditions at all costs.

If violence should come in Little Rock as a result of decision of this judge that trouble will be upon the judge's head and upon the heads of the federal officials who are determined to play politics at all costs and to bludgeon the south immediately into an intolerable position before it has had time to make the necessary adjustments.

Out Of Southland Comes Blues For Labor Unions

Meanwhile, back on the labor beat . . .

From out of the southland comes the birth of new blues for the nation's harassed labor chiefs. Call it the rank - and - file blues. Millions of unionists are restless, disturbed, wondering if they have been led by men devoted to the inner circle instead of to them.

With the honest union leaders trying to handle the hottest crisis since John Lewis first took a walk, many a local labor official has developed delusions of grandeur and a "meet - me - on-the - barricades" bluster. This means strikes and tough, damaging walkouts which can spread like Asian flu.

The wildcat epidemic has begun. It has hit at the pulsing heart of the land — the electric power industry. It threatens to darken many a city — a hundred cities, to be specific, between now and the end of the year. It hit first in the south while most of us were covering the rackets or flying across continents.

It hit the Florida Power and Light Co. on July 3. Members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers wanted a plant supervisor fired. He had a 30-year record with the company. There was a wildcat strike, the first in the public utility field in decades.

Some of the men sat in the plant. Some simply refused to work. Others picketed the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., plant. The state's two U. S. senators stood by, along with Pentagon officials, ready to introduce emergency legislation in the congress up north.

For some 10 days the Pentagon fretted. This company supplies power all the way from Miami to Coco — site of the Big Missile. Our military knew that the Russians had been firing red rockets. We have a timetable which could have been disrupted if power lines failed somewhere along the road.

But the governor, Leroy Collins, intervened. The national union leaders, Gordon Freeman and Joe Keenan, roared. The wildcat ended. But it was a warning. The regional leaders would be back.

They wanted a seven per cent increase — 18 cents in a field where the average is a nickel increase. No pajama game this. There's high voltage here. The contract is now being discused. Industry and labor people I've just talked with say that some parts of southern Florida may go dark suddenly.

So may scores of cities in Alabama. There, the Alabama Power and Light Co. was struck by another IBEW local — counseled by the same legal mind now braintrusting the Florida utility union — Joe Jacobs of Atlanta.

The Alabama Power and Light Co. strike ended the other week only after the national union president telegraphed a tough warning to his people not to paralyze the state. Such a day would be known as the day Alabama stood still, but it would also be known as the day an angry nation would scream that it had enough.

Now contract negotiations between the local unions and the utility have broken off. Once again observers say that some of the nation's biggest steel and experimental defense installations may suddenly stop pulsating. A strike may break at any minute, despite its discouragement by the national leaders.

Alabama Power and Light covers the state's biggest cities, from Mobile to Birmingham and many points feeding into Huntsville, where some of the world's weightiest brains are working on the world's wightiest weapon — missiles.

From Kansas City, Mo., home of Kansas Power and Light, to the high voltage Niagara - Mohawk Co., which rushes power into the heavy concentration of steel, aircraft, tool, auto and some secret weapon plants, there's tough bargaining at the tables. Everywhere there is talk of strike.

Between this day and New Year's day, some 100 public utility contracts expire, as have those in the south where FBI men were alerted to head off a neurosis known as cable - slashing, which afflicts some people when a plant is shut down and there is little to while away the time.

Since there are about 400 electric utility contracts across this land, 100 expirations means that fully 25 per cent of the nation's power may be disrupted for a day or a week, sometime this year.

What disturbs observers is the militant barricade mentality of many local leaders. Surely there are grievances. Surely the regional chiefs have a right to ask for more money. But this union has traditionally been a responsible force in the public utility field. The power in the national leaders' hands has never gone to their heads.

Obviously the local leaders believe this is the time for defiance. Everybody's looking elsewhere. Not only in the electric industry. There are power plays coming in all fields.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Puzzled Expression Shown On Robert Fulton's Statue

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Robert Fulton's statue, a gift of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, sits in the Capitol with a model steamboat on his knee and a look of pleased but puzzled parenthood upon his marble brow. After passing the statue a hundred times, I pulled up short the other day. Where had I seen that same look on human faces? Answer: on some Navy and Air Force officers with professional interest in a new kind of boat — a 200 - ton, inter - continental jet transport seaplane.

Every schoolboy knows the story of the much - rejected Fulton's folly. After being turned down by American officials, Fulton tried to peddle the invention to a foreign power. Historians have speculated that if Napoleon had bought the steamboat, he might well have invaded Britain around 1812 and might have united all Europe under his crown.

Seaplanes have never succeeded, but their time may be approaching as the replacement for the cumbersome fleet of surface transports which our 43 - nation alliances force us to keep in existence. The Army chief of transportation, Major General Paul F. Yount, says: "We are interested in water - borne aircraft because we operate in areas where no runways or hangars are available." It would take 45 days to move three fully - equipped divisions to the Middle East. Seaplanes, it is estimated, could do the same job in 15 days. We now have 25,000 military personnel per day at sea in surface transports. Seaplanes would reduce the "in-transit" numbers to 1000 per day.

But seaplanes have a bad record for disaster, and shipbuilders have a strong lobby. There are always rocks in the channel for new ideas.

Another rocky channel is the one which finds Secretary Dulles chuting the foaming rapids of passport troubles. Is there a "right - to - travel?" The American courts appear to have said so in the Boudin case. The United Nations clearly says so in the Charter of Human Rights. But does not a sovereign nation have an inherent right to prevent travel? Should not the U. S. keep watch on movements by aliens within our borders and by nationals in other lands, for the "common defense" and "public welfare," as the Constitution quaintly puts it? Congress quit town with at least these half-dozen unfinished, unpublished ideas for passport legislation in the works:.

1. Require that any alien who enters the United States from a Communist or satellite country disclose at the port of entry any connection he may have had, at any time, with Communist espionage services. Some anti-Communist experts would like this requirement to apply to all aliens, not just those from Communist and satellite countries. But this would raise a howl from friendly nations and would "embarrass" some of the Olympic athletes.

2. Make it a criminal offense for an alien to enter the U. S. on a passport under an alias or under anything but his full and legal name — in other words, no abbreviations or nicknames, of which the Communists are very fond.

3. Make it an act of self-expatriation for an American citizen to accept an office or employment from the government of a Communist or satellite nation. This might mean that certain "tourists" to Red China could not return home, except to face trial.

4. Make it a criminal offense to enter into collusion with a foreign government for the purpose of evading the U. S. passport regulations.

5. Require as a condition for receiving a passport an agreement to give the State Department a truthful account of where the passport holder has travelled while abroad. This would make it a little harder for travellers to slip behind the Iron Curtain on business which they preferred to hide from their country's notice.

6. Establish some fixed and emphatic criteria on which the Secretary of State could refuse to issue a passport in the "best interests" of the nation. As matters now stand, the secretary's refusals are subject to appeal in the Circuit Courts where they rest on the whim of the judges. Some of these ideas were introduced in a bill offered by Senator Eastland just an hour before adjournment. One proposed piece of legislation would require that appeals be heard by a three judge court. This would shorten the way to final appeal in the Supreme Court. But the Supreme Court has been so erratic in its decisions that at least one Senator proposes to take away the right of extended appeal on passport cases. This has been done in the past on matters of price control.

Delhi Schools Have Record Enrollment

DELHI (Special) — The 1957-58 school session opened last week with the white schools registering the highest enrollments in the community's history, Principal Carlton Johnson reported.

There were 249 enrolled in the high school departmen and 791 in the elementary grades, for a total of 1040 pupils.

The principal reported that a slight increase over these figures may be anticipated. Parish school authorities had expected an opening day enrollment this year of slightly less than the number that actually showed up for registration.

At the close of the last session of school, the enrollment of the local school was 959.

There were 111 children who entered for the first time this week, about in line with expectations of school authorities.

SCHEDULED SEPT. 27-28

Circus Advance Man Says Shrine Show 'Best Yet'

Happy Kellems, a top clown now doubling as advance press agent for the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Circus scheduled to appear here Sept. 27 and 28, sauntered into the newspaper office yesterday with a folder of publicity material and dozens of jokes.

Though he's advancing for the circus, dressed in a street suit and sport shirt, Happy betrays his true talent with every phrase. He makes a joke of practically everything he says.

He briefly traced his career in show business.

"I started out in a medicine show for $5 a week and all I could steal," he said, adding, "and when it comes to money I'll stoop as low as anybody."

Asked why the producers decided to send him as the advance man for the Monroe show, Happy twisted his face up and said: "Well, you see they were afraid to send a Yankee so they sent me."

"You see, I'm a Texan by birth, an Oklahoman by choice, a Republican by experience and a Democrat for financial reasons," Happy said in further identifying himself.

Painted Feet

"Back in Texas, when I was growing up, we were so poor I didn't have shoes. I painted my feet black and laced up my toes."

Happy's done well for himself though since his early days of poverty, which he now exaggerates on the show circuits of the nation.

Happy Kellems is one press agent that is received in a news office like he was a breath of fresh air. He goes strictly to work with his gimmicks and pleas for publicity, but never fails to spice his route with wit, wisdom and jokes.

Specifically and seriously, Happy said the Shrine circus here will be "a Jim Dandy hum-dinger." Happy put it this way: "In my 30 years in show business I've never seen a more entertaining show."

Guys, Dolls Fun Club Organized

An organizational meeting of the board of directors of the Guys and Dolls Fun Club was held at the home of the president, George Buckner. This club is a continuation of the program inaugurated in the seventh grade to provide adult supervised recreation for boys and girls on a junior high school level.

Two meetings of parents have been called, one for Monday, Sept. 16th at the North Side Junior High School and one on Tuesday, Sept. 17th at the South Side Junior High School. Each meeting will start at 7:00 p. m. and parents of both present and prospective members are urged to attend. The board will be present both evenings to explain the operation of the club. At this time all ideas and suggestions for a better year will be welcomed.

The board voted to award a prize valued at $20 to the boy and to the girl having the best attendance record at the eight parties. In case of a tie, a drawing will be held to name the winner. They also voted in order to encourage more active participation on the part of the boys to give a prize also valued at $20 to the present boy or girl member who recruits the largest number of new boy members for the coming year. Membership lists will be closed on Sept. 30th and not reopened for new members again until the midterm.

HEBERT VIEW

Tax Money Use Defense Mystery

By KAY RAY
(Special Corresponden)

WASHINGTON — Rep. F. Edward Hebert of New Orleans doubts the American people ever will know how much of their tax money has been needlessly paid to defense producers.

This is despite his own efforts, as chairman of the house armed services investigating subcommittee, to rip aside the public and official ignorance veiling negotiated defense contracts.

Armed with a barbed tongue and subcommittee authority, Herbert during subcommittee hearings tackled one of this country's mighiest industrial giants, General Motors. He announced it "received in excess of $17 million over contemplated profits" in a contract for construction of 600 F-84F's at GM'S Buick - Oldsmobile - Pontiac division in Kansas City.

The Louisianan said he based his estimate on general accounting office figures. He added that GAO figures also showed General Motors, in negotiating with the air force for the contract, knowingly overstated the cost of items obtained from subcontractors by $1,700,000.

Case Cited

"If we take the case of General Motors as an instance or an example there is no reason to believe this isn't a pattern of operation. We become shocked a every turn to learn such an efficient, reputable and successful corporation acted in such bad faith in dealing with the government on defense contracts," declared Hebert, whose zeal has won him the nickname, "Watchdog of the Armed Services."

The congressman maintained that when General Motors began negotiations with the air force for the F-84F's it already had the actual cost of items to be supplied by the subconstractors. This cost, said Hebert, was $1,700,000 below the figure used by GM negotiators.

"Their defense," the congressman said irately," was that accurate figures were available to the air force. Since the air force hadn't caught them, they weren't responsible."

There was "no intimation or any evidence in the testimony that General Motors acted outside the law. They kept strictly within the law and in doing so insisted on their pound of flesh every inch of the way," said the congressman.

He added, "To my mind, that is not the way for a defense contractor to act with the government. General Motors was producing defense weapons to protect not only the nation, but the system under which they were able to continue to make profit. Their contribution in this particular instance was no greater than that of the American boy who would climb into the plane and maybe give his life in defense of the system which allowed GM to make such a profit."

Hebert said that during the hearings, Vice - President John F. Gordon of GM's Buick - Oldsmobile - Pontiac division "emphasized and stressed the fact that the profit made on the contract was substantially under the profit GM makes on commercial business."

"What has that to do with it?" demanded the congressman. "Wha GM makes there is its business. It is the business of the public what it makes on defense contracts. The question here is not how commercial and defense profits compare but how does GM profits compare with others in the same field. The astounding truth is that General Motors 5.4 per cent profit after taxes is 100 per cent or double the average profit realized by the industry which was 2.7 per cent."

Hebert charged that General Motors had made much of the provision that the contract was subject to renegotiation if the government thought its profits to have been excessive.

"This statement undeniably gives the impression or belief that this contract per se is renegotiable and any excess profit recoverable," he went on.

"There is nothing further from all the facts. What is actually done in renegotiating is to consider all contracts as a whole. For instance, if General Motors is in a position to undercut another bidder on one contract with a known loss, profit on another contract would be used to set aside that. On the overall picture, such excess profits might not show up," he said.

The Air Force was not spared by the hard - hitting congressman. He said it can't "escape its responsibility but its lack of effective negotiation does not in any way relieve GM of its responsibility . . ."

Hebert caustically remarked that the Air Force had "bearded striplings doing business with toughskinned traders who could shave them without using soap. The American people probably will be shocked in the future if and when the facts are revealed as related to government negotiators and their background and training for such jobs."

"I can't help but think that General Motors has taken a leaf from P. T. Barnum's book and never given a sucker an even break," he concluded.

College Plans To Register Autos

The necessity for such action was brought about because of the parking situation on the school grounds.

Bobby Oden, director of student activities at the college, announced that anyone using an automobile on the campus must have a car sticker. These can be purchased in the registration line on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The student must be prepared to provide the vehicle owner's name and the vehicle's license number.

Smoking, Carelessness Caused Most Fires Here

Smoking and carelessness with matches contributed to more fires in Monroe than any other factor according to the August report by the city fire department.

Out of 44 alarms answered by the department 18 were caused by smoking nd carelessness with matches. Electricity and electrical equipment were responsible for nine alarms. The other 17 fires were attributed to miscellaneous causes.

A total of 73 calls were answered during August by the fire department. Sixty were alarms in the city and 13 were outside of Monroe.

A break-down of the figures reveal that there were 13 residential fires; one non - residential; one mercantile; 20 grass and nine auto and truck fires. Sixteen investigations were made by the department.

Alarms answered outside of Monroe included two residential fires; one mercantile and eight grass fires. Two investigations were reported.

Ninety - nine inspections were made by the bureau of fire prevention inspections. This covers inspections of theaters, schools and homes for the aged.

NEW YORK — (UP) — One manufacturer has the answer for the housewife who wishes she had eight arms when she does her housework. It's called the "Twin Sweep," and consists of several edges. All the brooms are attached to a lightweight aluminum handle which is equipped with swivel action.

Released After Being Overcome By Poison Gas

HOBOKEN, N.J., Sept. 7 (UP) —Actress Inger Stevens was released from a hospital today several hours after she and nearly 20 other persons were overcome by poisonous gas in a railroad tunnel beneath the Hudson River.

A defensive generator wafted carbon monoxide fumes from the area where scenes of her latest movie were being shot.

Justin Scoppa, 37, of Yonkers, N.Y. and Miss Stevens were detained at the hospital where the actors were released immediately upon treatment.

Circus Advance Man Says Shrine Show 'Best Yet'

Happy Kellems, a top clown now doubling as advance press agent for the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Circus scheduled to appear here Sept. 27 and 28, sauntered into the newspaper office yesterday with a folder of publicity material and dozens of jokes.

Though he's advancing for the circus, dressed in a street suit and sport shirt, Happy betrays his true talent with every phase. He makes a joke of practically everything he says.

He briefly traced his career in show business.

"I started out in a medicine show for $5 a week and all I could steal," he said, adding, "and when it comes to money I'll stoop as low as anybody."

Asked why the producers decided to send him as the advance man for the Monroe show, Happy twisted his face up and said: "Well, you see they were afraid to send a Yankee so they sent me."

"You see, I'm a Texan by birth, an Oklahoman by choice, a Republican by experience and a Democrat for financial reasons," Happy said in further identifying himself.

Painted Feet

"Back in Texas, when I was growing up, we were so poor I didn't have shoes. I painted my feet black and laced up my toes."

Happy's done well for himself though since his early days of poverty, which he now exaggerates on the show circuits of the nation.

Happy Kellems is one press agent that is received in a news office like he was a breath of fresh air. He goes strictly to work with his gimmicks and pleas for publicity, but never fails to spice his route with wit, wisdom and jokes.

Specifically and seriously, Happy said the Shrine circus here will be "a Jim Dandy hum-dinger." Happy put it this way: "In my 30 years in show business I've never seen a more entertaining show."

Guys, Dolls Fun Club Organized

An organizational meeting of the board of directors of the Guys and Dolls Fun Club was held at the home of the president, George Buckner. This club is a continuation of the program inaugurated in the seventh grade to provide adult supervised recreation for boys and girls on a junior high school level.

Two meetings of parents have been called, one for Monday, Sept. 16th at the North Side Junior High School and one on Tuesday, Sept. 17th at the South Side Junior High School. Each meeting will start at 7:00 p. m. and parents of both present and prospective members are urged to attend. The board will be present both evenings to explain the operation of the club. At this time all ideas and suggestions for a better year will be welcomed.

The board voted to award a prize valued at $20 to the boy and to the girl having the best attendance record at the eight parties. In case of a tie, a drawing will be held to name the winner. They also voted in order to encourage more active participation on the part of the boys to give a prize also valued at $20 to the present boy or girl member who recruits the largest number of new boy members for the coming year. Membership lists will be closed on Sept. 30th and not reopened for new members again until the mid-term.

HEBERT VIEW

Tax Money Use Defense Mystery

By KAY RAY
(Special Corresponden)

WASHINGTON — Rep. F. Edward Hebert of New Orleans doubts the American people ever will know how much of their tax money has been needlessly paid to defense producers.

This is despite his own efforts, as chairman of the house armed services investigating subcommittee, to rip aside the public and official ignorance veiling negotiated defense contracts.

Armed with a barbed tongue and subcommittee authority. Herbert during subcommittee hearings tackled one of this country's mighiest industrial giants, General Motors. He announced it "received in excess of $17 million over contemplated profits" in a contract for construction of 600 F-84F's at GM'S Buick - Oldsmobile - Pontiac division in Kansas City.

The Louisianan said he based his estimate on general accounting office figures. He added that GAO figures also showed General Motors, in negotiating with the air force for the contract, knowingly overstated the cos of items obtained from subcontractors by $1,700,000.

Case Cited

"If we take the case of General Motors as an instance or an example there is no reason to believe this isn't a pattern of operation. We become shocked a every turn to learn such an efficient, reputable and successful corporation acted in such bad faith in dealing with the government on defense contracts," declared Hebert, whose zeal has won him the nickname, "Watchdog of the Armed Services."

The congressman maintained that when General Motors began negotiations with the air force for the F-84F's it already had the actual cost of items to be supplied by the subconstractors. This cost, said Hebert, was $1,700,000 below the figure used by GM negotiators.

"Their defense," the congressman said irately," was that accurate figures were available to the air force. Since the air force hadn't caught them, they weren't responsible."

There was "no intimation or any evidence in the testimony that General Motors acted outside the law. They kept strictly withir the law and in doing so insisted on their pound of flesh every inch of the way," said the congressman.

He added, "To my mind, that is not the way for a defense contractor to act with the government. General Motors was producing defense weapons to protect not only the nation, but the system under which they were able to continue to make profit. Their contribution in this particular instance was no greater than that of the American boy who would climb into the plane and maybe give his life in defense of the system which allowed GM to make such a profit."

Hebert said that during the hearings, Vice - President John F. Gordon of GM's Buick - Oldsmobile - Pontiac division "emphasized and stressed the fact hat the profit made on the contract was substantially under the profit GM makes on commercial business."

"What has that to do with it?" demanded the congressman. "Wha GM makes there is its business. It is the business of the public what it makes on defense contracts. The question here is not how commercial and defense profits compare but how does GM profits compare with others in the same field. The astounding truth is hat General Motors 5.4 per cent profit after taxes is 100 per cent or double the average profit realized by the industry which was 2.7 per cent."

Hebert charged that General Motors had made much of the provision that the contract was subject to renegotiation if the government thought its profits to have been excessive.

"This statement undeniably gives the impression or belief hat this contract per se is renegotiable and any excess profit recoverable," he went on.

"There is nothing further from all the facts. What is actually done in renegotiating is to consider all contracts as a whole. For instance, if General Motors is in a position to undercut another bidder on one contract with a known loss, profit on another contract would be used to set aside that. On the overall picture, such excess profits might not show up," he said.

The Air Force was not spared by the hard - hitting congressman. He said it can't "escape its responsibility but its lack of effective negotiation does not in any way relieve GM of its responsibility . . ."

Hebert caustically remarked that the Air Force had "bearded striplings doing business with toughskinned traders who could shave them without using soap. The American people probably will be shocked in the future if and when the facts are revealed as related to government negotiators and their background and training for such jobs."

"I can't help but think that General Motors has taken a leaf from P. T. Barnum's book and never given a sucker an even break," he concluded.

College Plans To Register Autos

The necessity for such action was brought about because of the parking situation on the school grounds.

Bobby Oden, director of student activities at the college, announced that anyone using an automobile on the campus must have a car sticker. These can be purchased in the registration line on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The student must be prepared to provide the vehicle owner's name and the vehicle's license number.

Smoking, Carelessness Caused Most Fires Here

Smoking and carelessness with matches contributed to more fires in Monroe than any other factor according to the August report by the city fire department.

Out of 44 alarms answered by the department 18 were caused by smoking nd carelessness with matches. Electricity and electrical equipment were responsible for nine alarms. The other 17 fires were attributed to miscellaneous causes.

A total of 73 calls were answered during August by the fire department. Sixty were alarms in the city and 13 were outside of Monroe.

A break-down of the figures reveal that there were 13 residential fires; one non - residential; one mercantile; 20 grass and nine auto and truck fires. Sixteen investigations were made by the department.

Alarms answered outside of Monroe included two residential fires; one mercantile and eight grass fires. Two investigations were reported.

Ninety - nine inspections were made by the bureau of fire prevention inspections. This covers inspections of theaters, schools and homes for the aged.

NEW YORK — (UP) — One manufacturer has the answer for the housewife who wishes she had eight arms when she does her housework. It's called the "Twin Sweep," and consists of several edges. All the brooms are attached to a lightweight aluminum handle which is equipped with swivel action.

as soon as possible and then we'll leave the rest to be used as a 'restricted' dumping ground until it is filled in." By restricted dumping ground, Scott said he meant that only solid non-perishable materials would be permitted to be dumped in the area.

Efforts Hampered

He pointed out that wet weather had hampered efforts to fill the slough as well as the lack of equipment.

City and parish trucks and crews are being used to haul dirt for the fill-in operation on the front portion of the slough. But they will work only on Saturdays and several weeks were expected to be required for this phase of the operation.

A. E. Montgomery, Ouachita Parish police juryman, stated the parish was lending assistance to the city school board in the draining and filling of the slough and dumping area. "We are furnishing the trucks and the school board has agreed to pay for the labor and for any dirt that needs to be hauled in," he explained. He estimated the operation would be completed "in about 30 days."

It was pointed out that the Police Jury and the city have no absolute obligation to improve or maintain school property. However, in the past in cases of extreme necessity both school systems have received such assistance on a courtesy basis.

Termed Emergency

The current situation at the junior high school has been termed an extreme emergency by several officials and parents of students attending the school.

Mayor W. L. Howard said he had received a number of telephone calls from parents but said he feels they are "unduly alarmed and concerned." He said he felt that everything possible had been done by school officials and the city to get the grounds in shape but that they have been seriously hampered by wet weather throughout the spring and summer.

A number of parents have expressed concern over the health problem as well as the dangers posed by the slough. Many said they had been promised the slough would be filled before school opened.

Van D. Odom, superintendent of city schools, who was out of town yesterday, said earlier last week that every precaution would be taken to insure safety for the school children.

It was Odom who first announced plans to erect a fence between the school and one side of the pond.

Fill - in operations yesterday were concentrated on building a dam across the middle section of the oblong pond. When the dam is completed plans call for pumping the water from the front section where fill-in operations in future Saturdays will be directed.

Presumably, the back portion of the pond will remain unfilled for a considerable period of time, during which time it will be hoped that no tragedy will occur.

LTI Escapee Is Held On Theft Charge In N. C.

SOUTHERN PINES N. C., Sept. 7 (AP)—A 16-year-old Louisiana boy and an Indiana girl, both escapees from different prison institutions, are being held here on car theft charges.

They were identified as Mike Ray Hartsell, 16, of Rodessa, La., and Nellie Maxime Corby, 21, of Terre Haute, Ind. Police Sgt. Gerald Wright said Hartsell escaped from the Louisiana State Training School in Monroe Aug. 8 while serving a term for car theft, and the girl escaped from the Indiana Women's Prison at Indianapolis while serving a term for burglary.

Wright said the two were picked up near here last Thursday night when police observed their car weaving back and forth across the highway. Hartsell later admitted the car was stolen in Norfolk, Va. He said he picked up Miss Corby as a hitchhiker while enroute here from Norfolk.

The Thor some weeks ago appeared to observers to be a sure bet because there already is a production line available. But defense officials said that recent Thor tests have been disappointing. Thus the Army's Jupiter has moved up in esteem. However officia's said, there was not enough satisfaction with either missile to warrant rushing it into production.

Besides Army and Air Force prestige, private interests also have a stake in the IRBM decision the Holaday group will make. The Douglas Aircraft Co. has a production line now for the Thor and the Chrysler Corp. is fighting for the Jupiter.

In the midst of the worsening Middle East crisis, King Saud suddenly flew to Beirut from Saudi Arabia with a group of 50 retainers and held hurried talks with Lebanese government officials.

Speculation mounted in Beiru that King Hussein of Jordan would stop off here to join the talks before heading for Amman to receive the first U.S. arms shipments sometime Monday.

Both Saudi Arabia and Jordan are believed included in the U.S. plan to rush arms shipments to Middle East nations which fear Syrian aggression with Soviet-supplied weapons.

over four other finalists after answering two questions posed by Master of Ceremonies Bert Parks. Each finalist picked her own questions from glass jars on the stage. Miss Van Derber was first asked if she thought it was proper for a lady to propose marriage in our modern day.

She answered:

"No, I definitely do not believe that a lady should propose to a man."

She said it was up to the man to propose and after a couple is married the man should be "the head of the family."

She then was asked what she thought was the greatest invention in world history.

She answered, the airplane "because it has made it easy for us to travel from place to place in a matter of hours. It has acquainted us with various countries and various people. We have learned about them and them about us.

"I have read recently where Russia has just flown over here to talk with us. I believe this will help our understanding and world relations."

AND FAUBUS

Eisenhower And Brownell Decide To Wait On Court

WASHINGTON Sept. 7 (UP) — President Eisenhower and Attorney General Herber Brownell Jr. decided today to give the courts and Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus another chance to settle Little Rock's school integra ion crisis before intervening.

Press Secretary James Hagerty said they discussed the alternatives for federal government action in the face of the gover nor's continued defiance of federal court orders to admit Negroes to Little Rock's Central High School.

He refused to disclose what alternative lines of federal action Eisenhower and Brownell were considering. From other sources, however, it was understood that a request for a court injunction directing Faubus to call off his National Guard blockade of the school and comply with the court's earlier integration orders was the most likely next step.

If the governor defied this specific injunction, there would be a stronger basis for contempt of court action against him.

Hagerty said "there can't be" any decision on federal action until U. S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies rules on today's petition by the Lit le Rock city school board to suspend his integration order until "intelligence may be substituted for emotional agitation."

Brownell said he briefed the President on the FBI's fact-finding report to Judge Davies. It deals primarily with evidence on who is responsible for defying the court's orders—a technicality in view of Faubus' public statements taking full responsibility.

A car driven by Armeatha Myles, Negro of Route One, Monroe, and a vehicle driven by Alfred L. Montgomery, Negro of 905 South Fifth Street, collided at the corner of Orange and South Eighth late yesterday afternoon, but nobody was believed seriously injured.

Debbine Montgomery, three-months-old infant who was riding in her mother's lap, was thought to be slightly hurt. The infant and her mother were thrown from the car.

Myles was charged with reckless driving, according to Monroe police.

What Makes Your Watch Tick?

by Alton Howard

Your Grandfather's big watch ticked loudly. It's machinery was crude and heavy. You could hear it "breathing" all across the room. Its sprocket wheel, spurred on by a husky mainspring, moved further and thus made a louder tick.

Today, watches are a totally different breed. They're more refined, have much smaller parts, move noiselessly and you have to put them to your ear to detect any sound whatever.

Yet small as they are and complicated as their working parts may be, you expect them to do their ticking continuously, marking off the seconds and minutes and hours. If you have ever looked through a jeweler's magnifying glass—worn in his right eye—you must have been amazed at the conglomeration of wheels and pinions and jewels you saw. Now bear in mind that all these are encased in an area as small as a quarter—and you realize how ingenious the watchmakers art is.

We take pride in the watches we sell. They all bear famous, trademarked names. They are all guaranteed to tell time faithfully so long as you give them reasonable care. Come in today and inspect our display of men's and women's watches. They're priced from $19.95 up. And sold on easy terms if you wish. HOWARD BROS. Jewelers, 116 DeSiard Street, Monroe, La.

Piecemeal Efforts Directed At Pond

as soon as possible and then we'll leave the rest to be used as a 'restricted' dumping ground until it is filled in." By restricted dumping ground, Scott said he meant that only solid non-perishable materials would be permitted to be dumped in the area.

Efforts Hampered

He pointed out that wet weather had hampered efforts to fill the slough as well as the lack of equipment.

City and parish trucks and crews are being used to haul dirt for the fill-in operation on the front portion of the slough. But they will work only on Saturdays and several weeks were expected to be required for this phase of the operation.

A. E. Montgomery, Ouachita Parish police juryman, stated the parish was lending assistance to the city school board in the draining and filling of the slough and dumping area. "We are furnishing the trucks and the school board has agreed to pay for the labor and for any dirt that needs to be hauled in," he explained. He estimated the operation would be completed "in about 30 days."

It was pointed out that the Police Jury and the city have no absolute obligation to improve or maintain school property. However, in the past in cases of extreme necessity both school systems have received such assistance on a courtesy basis.

Termed Emergency

The current situation at the junior high school has been termed an extreme emergency by several officials and parents of students attending the school.

Mayor W. L. Howard said he had received a number of telephone calls from parents but said he feels they are "unduly alarmed and concerned." He said he felt that everything possible had been done by school officials and the city to get the grounds in shape but that they have been seriously hampered by wet weather throughout the spring and summer.

A number of parents have expressed concern over the health problem as well as the dangers posed by the slough. Many said they had been promised the slough would be filled before school opened.

Van D. Odom, superintendent of city schools, who was out of town yesterday, said earlier last week that every precaution would be taken to insure safety for the school children.

It was Odom who first announced plans to erect a fence between the school and one side of the pond.

Fill - in operations yesterday were concentrated on building a dam across the middle section of the oblong pond. When the dam is completed plans call for pumping the water from the front section where fill-in operations in future Saturdays will be directed.

Presumably, the back portion of the pond will remain unfilled for a considerable period of time, during which time it will be hoped that no tragedy will occur.

LTI Escapee Is Held On Theft Charge In N. C.

SOUTHERN PINES N. C., Sept. 7 (AP)—A 16-year-old Louisiana boy and an Indiana girl, both escapees from different prison institutions, are being held here on car theft charges.

They were identified as Mike Ray Hartsell, 16, of Rodessa, La., and Nellie Maxime Corby, 21, of Terre Haute, Ind. Police Sgt. Gerald Wright said Hartsell escaped from the Louisiana State Training School in Monroe Aug. 8 while serving a term for car theft, and the girl escaped from the Indiana Women's Prison at Indianapolis while serving a term for burglary.

Wright said the two were picked up near here last Thursday night when police observed their car weaving back and forth across the highway. Hartsell later admitted the car was stolen in Norfolk, Va. He said he picked up Miss Corby as a hitchhiker while enroute here from Norfolk.

The Thor some weeks ago appeared to observers to be a sure bet because there already is a production line available. But defense officials said that recent Thor tests have been disappointing. Thus the Army's Jupiter has moved up in esteem. However officials said, there was not enough satisfaction with either missile to warrant rushing it into production.

Besides Army and Air Force prestige, private interests also have a stake in the IRBM decision the Holaday group will make. The Douglas Aircraft Co. has a production line now for the Thor and the Chrysler Corp. is fighting for the Jupiter.

Speculation mounted in Beirut that King Hussein of Jordan would stop off here to join the talks before heading for Amman to receive the first U.S. arms shipments sometime Monday.

Both Saudi Arabia and Jordan are believed included in the U.S. plan to rush arms shipments to Middle East nations which fear Syrian aggression with Soviet-supplied weapons.

She answered:

"No, I definitely do not believe that a lady should propose to a man."

She said it was up to the man to propose and after a couple is married the man should be "the head of the family."

She then was asked what she thought was the greatest invention in world history.

She answered, the airplane "because it has made it easy for us to travel from place to place in a matter of hours. It has acquainted us with various countries and various people. We have learned about them and them about us.

"I have read recently where Russia has just flown over here to talk with us. I believe this will help our understanding and world relations."

AND FAUBUS

Eisenhower And Brownell Decide To Wait On Court

WASHINGTON Sept. 7 (UP) — President Eisenhower and Attorney General Herber Brownell Jr. decided today to give the courts and Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus another chance to settle Little Rock's school integration crisis before intervening.

Press Secretary James Hagerty said they discussed the alternatives for federal government action in the face of the governor's continued defiance of federal court orders to admit Negroes to Little Rock's Central High School.

He refused to disclose what alternative lines of federal action Eisenhower and Brownell were considering. From other sources, however, it was understood that a request for a court injunction directing Faubus to call off his National Guard blockade of the school and comply with the court's earlier integration orders was the most likely next step.

If the governor defied this specific injunction, there would be a stronger basis for contempt of court action against him.

Hagerty said "there can't be" any decision on federal action until U. S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies rules on today's petition by the Little Rock city school board to suspend his integration order until "intelligence may be substituted for emotional agitation."

Brownell said he briefed the President on the FBI's fact-finding report to Judge Davies. It deals primarily with evidence on who is responsible for defying the court's orders—a technicality in view of Faubus' public statements taking full responsibility.

Indian Worshippers Still Pay On God's 2,000-Year-Old Debt

By R. SATAKOPAN

TIRUPATI, India (AP)—A god in the olden days descended to earth to marry a princess and borrowed for the wedding a sum so huge that it can never be repaid.

His worshippers today flock to his temple, giving what they can to help the god pay at least the interest on the irrepayable loan.

This has been going on for 2,000 years of recorded history in the temple built to Lord Venkateshwara. The temple receives an average of 4½ million rupees ($945,000) a year.

In return, the Hindu god grants the worshippers' prayers, heals sickness and pardons sins — or so the devout believe.

Gifts of Valuables

Pilgrims have thronged to the sacred shrine in grateful recognition of prayers answered, voluntarily giving away their valuables.

Women leave gold and diamond jewelry, gold and silver coins, and even saris, the traditional Indian dress, for the god's wives to wear.

These go into a huge vessel, six feet high. It is emptied twice a day.

In addition to voluntary offerings, the temple management has a fixed rate schedule for different types of invocations.

Pilgrims with receipts for their payments queue up to be present during the prayers.

A powerful committee of priests and laymen keep detailed account of every rupee received and spent.

Most of the income is spent on charities — for the improvement of the 3,000-foot high valley home of the temple, for construction of a 200-bed hospital, and others.

Upkeep Costly

The upkeep of the idol representing Lord Venkateshwara costs 50,000 rupees ($10,500) a month.

Encasing the stone idol, which cannot be photographed, are gold and silver plates which cost 300,000 rupees ($63,000). The diamond-studded crown alone cost 420,000 rupees ($88,200).

Considered a reincarnation of Lord Vishnu — the protector in the holy trinity of creator, protector and destroyer — Lord Venkateshwara became so famous through history that even Moslem kings and emperors sent gifts to the temple.

HINDU LINEUP—Hindu worshippers line up for entrance to the temple of their god, LLord Venkateshwara. Followers of the god still are trying to pay off his unpayable marriage debt, contracted 2,000 years ago.

The heavily encrusted stone idol keeps a strict schedule, an 18-hour day from 4:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. The day goes like this:

Twenty Brahman priests begin chanting verses in praise of the god at 4:30 a.m., to wake him from his sleep.

The idol is then bathed, clothed and scented and made ready for the pilgrims to have their "darshan" — holy sight.

Food Distributed

When the offering is over, the actment of the deity's marriage food is distributed to pilgrims who line up after prayers. Princes and beggars vie with each other to share the god-touched food.

In the afternoon, pilgrims pay 500 rupees ($105) each for reenof long ago.

This ceremony is believed to hasten the marriages of daughters and sisters of marriageable age to good husbands.

At sunset, prayers are resumed and continue until late at night.

The god is then laid on a silver bed and lulled to sleep with soft music. Pilgrims disperse after receiving fruit and candy.

The largest spectacle of all occurs each Friday — the holy bath.

It costs 2,000 rupees ($420) and probably puts to shame the fabled baths of Cleopatra.

A paste of sweet-smelling sandalwood is spread over the god. This is washed away by clear water from 105 huge silver vessels. Camphor is then rubbed over the idol, and again clear water washes this away.

Rose water is sprinkled on him, and the bath is over.

They carry it with great reverence to their homes, taking small sips in time of sickness. One spoonful is always saved for a man's dying hours, to lift him to heaven when life ends.

PROUD PARENTS AND OFFSPRING—The proud parents of a litter of three lion cubs showed off their offspring at the Milwaukee Washington park zoo yesterday. The cubs, born June 29, are the third litter for King and Queen, who came to the zoo in 1952. The family is together in a cage along big cat row. (AP Wirephoto)

Grandma Moses Still Turning Out Paintings

EAGLE BRIDGE, N.Y., Sept. 7 (UP)—Grandma Moses turned a spry 97 today still turning out her famous paintings at a 100-picture-a-year clip.

Grandma, who has said she hopes to live to be 100, spent the day quietly with her family and old friends. She was surrounded by roses, her favorite flowers, and shared a birthday cake with her callers.

"I feel fine," she said, "just as good as I ever did."

Ever since she began painting at the age of 78, after rearing a family of 10 children, she has be known to he world as Grandma Moses. Her real name is Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson Moses.

Grandma has turned out more than 1,900 pictures and still works away at her painting "pretty nearly every day."

Many of her "American primitive" works, widely acclaimed by experts, hang in the world's greatest galleries. Her best known paintings are "The Old Oaken Bucket," and "The Checkered House," which have been reproduced on thousands of Christmas cards.

Russian Who Fled Communism Makes The Grade As Capitalist

NOTE: The author of this article was an employe of the U. S. government in Germany when he first met Peter Pirogov. Now an Associated Press reporter in Seattle, he renewed acquaintance with Pirogov recently in Washington, D. C.

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Peter Pirogov, Russian-born man without a country and without hope for a decent life eight years ago, today is a capitalist.

"Well, not quite," said Pirogov. "But in the eyes of the Communists, I suppose I am."

Pirogov was a lieutenant in the Soviet air force. As a navigator he was stationed at Kolmya in the Ukraine during 1948. Disillusioned with life under communism and encouraged by the broadcasts of Voice of America, he and his pilot, Anatole Barsov, decided to flee to the West.

Received Asylum

The fliers applied for and received political asylum from the United States. They were brought to Wiesbaden, Germany, where this reporter lived with them for three months.

Both went to the United States in February, 1949. Barsov, bewildered by life in a country where no one told him how to live his life, returned to the Soviet Union. He also was intimidated by Soviet agents, Senate investigators were told.

Pirogov remained in America. I met him recently in Washington, D. C., and was amazed by what this man had done with his life.

He now is the father of three children, Valentina, 11, and his twin daughters, Nina and Tamara, 5. Valentina is the child of his wife's previous marriage.

The 37-year-old ex-flier lives in his own home — a two-story $15,000 roman brick house in Virginia across the Potomac from the nation's capitol.

"I built it myself," he said proudly. "Only plumbers and electricians helped me."

But how did this man, who not so long ago was a robot of the Soviet government, get his start in a country whose language he did not know?

"My book 'Why I Escaped' helped to provide some money," he explained in good English.

Built Three Houses

Then he related how he had built three houses, two of which he sold. "The first one took seven months to build. I did 75 per cent of the job and worked from sunrise to sunset.

"And you know I never felt tired. For the first time in my life I worked for myself and not for the government."

Pirogov said he had no previous experience in building houses. The son of peasants, he was graduated from a teachers' college. He taught mathematics and physics for three months until he was drafted into the air force during World War II.

Pirogov also owns 20 acres of land with a small lake which he plans to stock with fish and make a private fishing ground.

Besides building houses, Pirogov works on research projects in the Library of Congress, broadcasts for the anti-Communist Radio Liberation and writes for anti-Communist publications.

Pirogov expects to be naturalized after he has resided in the United States for 10 years.

What about the common fear in the United States that the Soviet air force is strong enough to attack and devastate the United States?

Pirogov laughed at this question and answered: "If 1,000 planes take off in the U.S.S.R. for an attack on America, only perhaps 10 crews will be able to find their way.

"You see, they were terrible navigators in World War II and I am convinced they are no better now."

"The Soviet air commanders are afraid to let them fly alone during training and when they fly they usually keep within visual distance of their field. A commander doesn't want his head cut off because one of his crews gets lost and crashes."

Pirogov recalled how, during World War II, a crew was sent out to photograph a German airfield. When the film was developed, they found they had reconnoitered their own base.

"No, I am not worried about a Soviet attack and neither am I worried about Krushchev's prediction that our grandchildren will live under socialism," Pirogov said emphatically.

Purification Of Teamsters Is Pledged

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (UP)—Thomas J. Haggerty today pledged to purify the leadership of the Teamsters Union if he wins his battle with James R. Hoffa for the union's presidency.

Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers Union, commented as he prepared to fly to Seattle, Wash., and lay his platform on the line before the executive board and policies committee of the Western Conference of Teamsters Tuesday.

Haggerty said the Teamsters' election at Miami, Fla., the week of Sept. 30 will decide the "good name and public respect of organized labor for the next decade."

"Teamster leadership must be restored to typify clean, honest and pure trade unionism," Haggerty said. "There can be no compromise. That is my pledge."

"Whether the Teamsters elect me or someone else, their presidency should be occupied by a man of unquestioned reputation and unquestionable record, not a controversial figure or politician," he said in an obvious dig at Hoffa.

Indian Worshippers Still Pay On God's 2,000-Year-Old Debt

By R. SATAKOPAN

TIRUPATI, India (AP)—A god in the olden days descended to earth to marry a princess and borrowed for the wedding a sum so huge that it can never be repaid.

His worshippers today flock to his temple, giving what they can to help the god pay at least the interest on the irrepayable loan.

This has been going on for 2,000 years of recorded history in the temple built to Lord Venkateshwara. The temple receives an average of 4½ million rupees ($945,000) a year.

In return, the Hindu god grants the worshippers' prayers, heals sickness and pardons sins — or so the devout believe.

Gifts of Valuables

Pilgrims have thronged to the sacred shrine in grateful recognition of prayers answered, voluntarily giving away their valuables.

Women leave gold and diamond jewelry, gold and silver coins, and even saris, the traditional Indian dress, for the god's wives to wear.

These go into a huge vessel, six feet high. It is emptied twice a day.

In addition to voluntary offerings, the temple management has a fixed rate schedule for different types of invocations.

Pilgrims with receipts for their payments queue up to be present during the prayers.

A powerful committee of priests and laymen keep detailed account of every rupee received and spent.

Most of the income is spent on charities — for the improvement of the 3,000-foot high valley home of the temple, for construction of a 200-bed hospital, and others.

Upkeep Costly

The upkeep of the idol representing Lord Venkateshwara costs 50,000 rupees ($10,500) a month.

Encasing the stone idol, which cannot be photographed, are gold and silver plates which cost 300,000 rupees ($63,000). The diamond-studded crown alone cost 420,000 rupees ($88,200).

Considered a reincarnation of Lord Vishnu — the protector in the holy trinity of creator, protector and destroyer — Lord Venkateshwara became so famous through history that even Moslem kings and emperors sent gifts to the temple.

The heavily encrusted stone idol keeps a strict schedule, an 18-hour day from 4:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. The day goes like this:

Twenty Brahman priests begin chanting verses in praise of the god at 4:30 a.m., to wake him from his sleep.

The idol is then bathed, clothed and scented and made ready for the pilgrims to have their "darshan" — holy sight.

Food Distributed

When the offering is over, the actment of the deity's marriage food is distributed to pilgrims who line up after prayers. Princes and beggars vie with each other to share the god-touched food.

In the afternoon, pilgrims pay 500 rupees ($105) each for reenof long ago.

This ceremony is believed to hasten the marriages of daughters and sisters of marriageable age to good husbands.

At sunset, prayers are resumed and continue until late at night.

The god is then laid on a silver bed and lulled to sleep with soft music. Pilgrims disperse after receiving fruit and candy.

The largest spectacle of all occurs each Friday — the holy bath.

It costs 2,000 rupees ($420) and probably puts to shame the fabled baths of Cleopatra.

A paste of sweet-smelling sandalwood is spread over the god. This is washed away by clear water from 105 huge silver vessels. Camphor is then rubbed over the idol, and again clear water washes this away.

Rose water is sprinkled on him, and the bath is over.

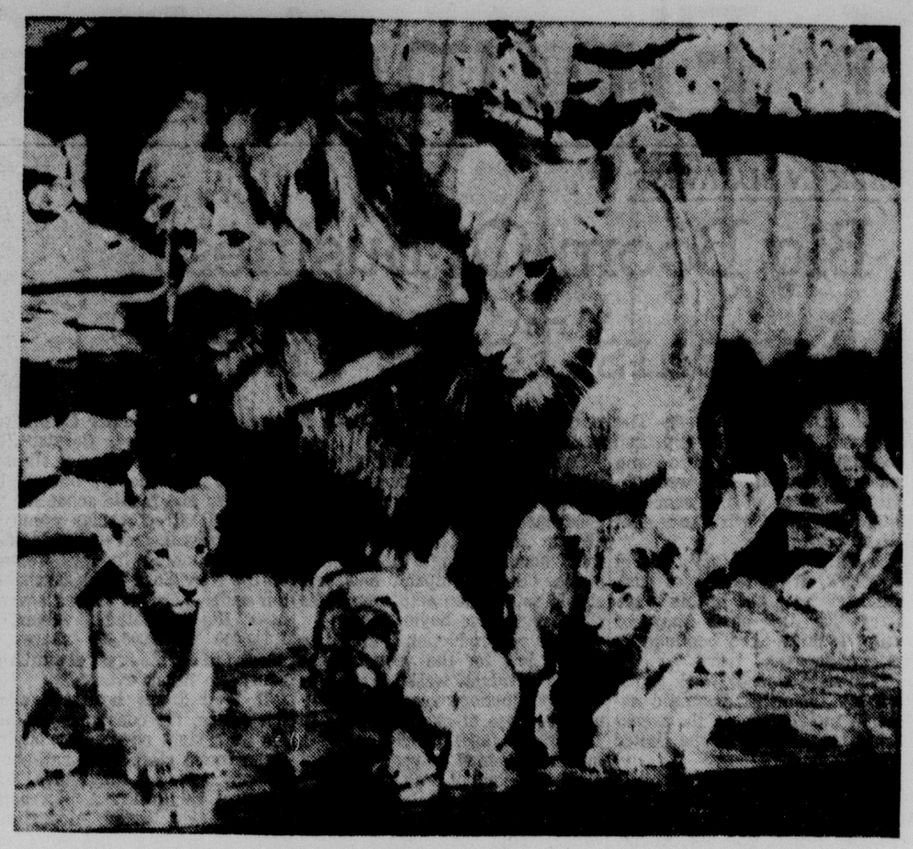
They carry it with great reverence to their homes, taking small sips in time of sickness. One spoonful is always saved for a man's dying hours, to lift him to heaven when life ends.

HINDU LINEUP—Hindu worshippers line up for entrance to the temple of their god, LLord Venkateshwara. Followers of the god still are trying to pay off his unpayable marriage debt, contracted 2,000 years ago.



PROUD PARENTS AND OFFSPRING—The proud parents of a litter of three lion cubs showed off their offspring at the Milwaukee Washington park zoo yesterday. The cubs, born June 29, are the third litter for King and Queen, who came to the zoo in 1952. The family is together in a cage along big cat row. (AP Wirephoto)

FROM PROPERTY TAXES

Aviation Loses 10-Year Freedom

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 7 (AP) — The aviation industry has lost a 10-year freedom from Louisiana property taxes. The State Tax Commission said today a meeting will be held Thursday to fix a tax formula for 1957 assessments.

Little if any attention has been aroused over the fact that the 10-year exemption has ended, after its adoption by the public in 1946.

Chairman James T. Means Jr. of the tax commission said he could not estimate how much new revenue will be forthcoming. Both state and parish governments will benefit.

The entire state property tax brings in about 15 million dollars a year, with most of it turned over to education.

Chairman Means said an initial conference with 25 representatives of airlines was held in New Orleans Thursday, while the key session will be held in New Orleans at 9 a.m. next Thursday in commission offices.

At that time, the tax chairman said, a three-man committee named to represent all airlines will offer recommendations on a mileage-and-hour tax formula for commercial aviation, based on experience in three states, Arkansas, Minnesota and Florida, where similar taxes have been in effect.

During that meeting, Means said the two tax commission members, Means, Shreveport, and Paul B. Habans, New Orleans, will adopt a new mileage-and-hour formula or take the proposals under consideration for study.

The chairman emphasized that property taxes "are a minor expense. They rank about 14th down the line in industrial considerations in this state."

As for the aviation industry, he added, once a satisfactory mile-an-hour formula is decided, "our problem will be licked."

"We have no knowledge of the value of aircraft and equipment serving Louisiana or the number of flying miles" Means said.

The State Tax Commission has jurisdiction over assessment valuation throughout the state, including the state 5.75-mill levy and the widely varying parish tax rates which average about 45 miles to the dollar.

Commission Secretary C. Gordon Johnson said the commission is thinking in terms of fixing the aviation taxes at about 40 per cent of value, with the commercial figure tied to the mileage-an-hour formula.

Gov. Earl Long and other state officials, defeated in 1956 tax raising efforts in the Legislature, have been reminding the public new revenue will have to be found because of mounting government expenses.

The new aviation property tax will be on private planes, airline planes, offices, hangars and equipment. Oil companies operate scores of air exploration and service units, featuring helicopters, because of offshore oil development.

Property taxes very tremendously in the 64 Louisiana parishes, ranging from a low of about 30 mills to a high of 110 mills in Jefferson Parish, Chairman Means said. Airline terminals will be hard hit under the new tax program.

On June 8, Gen. T. B. Herndon, chief of the aeronautics division of the State Department of Public Works, said aviation is Louisiana's second largest industry, next to petroleum. But he lumped military, commercial and private aviation, which would include the huge Air Force bases in Lake Charles and Shreveport.

Louisiana has nine airlines, he continued, serving seven key cities, making 184 scheduled stops daily and covering 1,040 miles of designated airways.

Also, the general said, the state has 137 general air bases and 37 seaplane bases, with military air bases representing a 336-million-dollar investment. Public property is exempt from the state property levy.

In November, 1946, voters okayed the constitutional amendment granting aviation a 10-year property tax exemption to spur air development.

Now that it is ended, tax assessments will begin as of Jan. 1 this year, once the tax picture is cleared.

Chairman Means said while nothing has been decided, pending the new conference with airline representatives, an air tax formula is planned based on such factors as the number of miles a plane travels in Louisiana compared with its national travel, hours in the air over Louisiana and on the ground.

The state still has a 10-year tax writeoff it grants new and expanding businesses, such as manufacturing. These exemptions are granted by the State Board of Commerce and Industry.

But some legislators have been talking recently about knocking out the industry exemptions too, in the pressure of looking for new state revenues.

Stock Trade Shows Drop On Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Wall Street this week showed its extreme doubt about business and stock trading sank to its lowest rate in nearly four years.

Traders and investors, large and small, stayed out of the market in droves, awaiting some definite clue.

The Associated Press average declined $2.20 to $173.50. This erased the gains in last week's surprising pre-holiday advance.

Higher interest rates and the leveling-off of the business boom were fundamental factors. Investment circles feared that fourth quarter business may not be as good as expected, but there was great caution about selling stocks, too.

While steel production edged up, the gain was not enough to convince the market that the boom was getting up much more steam. U. S. Steel dropped 1⅜ and Bethlehem ⅜.

Although the big auto makers were reported increasing their steel orders for the new models, the stocks lacked luster. General Motors dropped 1⅛, Chrysler 2¼, and Ford 1⅛.

Railroad shares hit new 1957 lows.

The five most active issues this week were: Servel Inc. up ¾ at 4⅝, Royal Dutch off ¼ at 54½, Bethlehem Steel off ⅜ at 45, General Motors off 1⅛ at 42⅛, and North American Aviation up ¾ at 26.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Big Boom Of Business Appears To Be Tiring

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Big Boom in Business appeared to be getting a little tired to some economic observers this week.

Many sections of the economy rolled along at a brisk pace, yet all was not rosy.

The First National City Bank of New York, in its review of business conditions, put it this way: "Signs that the boom may be getting a little tired continue to crop up here and there."

There were obvious weak spots. Probably the most dramatic existed in metals, where the weakness is not confined to the United States.

Major copper producers again cut the price of the red metal, putting it at a new low for more than four years. The big producers said they planned no lay-offs, but Calumet & Hecla, Inc., a relatively small producer, said it might have to shut down.

Steel production inched up very slowly but at Pittsburgh steel scrap prices, often considered a good barometer of the future, declined. Brokers reported scrap was accumulating in dealers' yards. Steel output, however, should spurt when auto companies start aggressive buying.

Crude oil production slumped to a new low for the year for the second straight week. A cut in auto production was not significant because of changing over to 1958 model runs. Freight car loadings ran behind a year ago but electricity output was above it.

Manufacturers sales in July were higher than a year ago, which would have been a cheery item if it were not for inventories.

There could be no quibbling, however, with another Commerce Department report. Construction work in August hit an all-time high for any month, buoyed by highways and public schools.

In Wall Street things came to such a pass that even the brokers weren't making money. Volume on the New York Stock Exchange fell under 1,500,000 shares several days. It's estimated a volume of 1,800,000 to 2,000,000 shares is needed to enable most commission houses to break even.

If Wall Street hesitated about the future, the consumer did not. He went right on merrily buying. Department store sales ran above a year ago, as they have done most of this year. A newspaper survey disclosed department stores in the important New York-northeastern New Jersey area had record August sales last month.

New Oil Field Discovered In Wilkinson County, Miss.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 7 (AP) — With completion of the wildcat G. I. Crook No. 1, Rimrock-Tidelands Drilling Co. reported discovery of a new oil field in Wilkinson County.

The drilling company planned immediately to drill G. I. Crook No. 2 as a second test well. Preparations began immediately.

Other drilling activity:

Jett Drilling Co. was testing two zones in its Roberts No. 2 in the Bolton field of Hinds County. The well will complete as a dual venture.

Jett reported a zone at 11,403-15 feet tested at 250 barrels of oil daily and another zone at 11,115-27 feet tested at 150 barrels daily.

Also in the Bolton field, Weston Drilling Co. was below 10,100 feet in its Roberts-Ross-Mashburn Unit No. 2 with contact depth at 11,500 feet.

Carter Oil Co. was below 7,100 feet in its Rankin County wildcat Henry Kersh No. 1 in the northwestern part of the county. Contract depth is 13,900 feet.

Skelly Oil and Kin-Ark were below 5,100 feet in their B. L. Herring No. 1, the second well for the Dexter gas condensate field in Walthall County.

The current operation is on the Marion County side and has a contract depth of 13,600 feet.

In the semi-shallow Eucutta oil field of Wayne County, Gulf Oil Corp. re-opened its Charles Green No. 1 and will deepen to 11,000 feet.

The well was abandoned in 1944 at 5,717 feet. The current producing level in the field is 5,500 feet.

Wildcat drilling operations have resumed in the northeastern part of the state with two ventures under way in Clay and Chickasaw counties.

Phillips Petroleum Co. was below 4,000 feet in the Crawford No. 1 in Chickasaw County and Shell Oil Co. was below 2,200 feet in the Jarrett No. 1 in Clay County. Both ventures have a contract depth of 10,000 feet.

In the one-well Valley Park field of Sharkey County, Amerada Petroleum Co. was below 11,340 feet in the USA-Vaughty No. 1. The well will test the Smackover lime.

Projects For Fresh Water Being Backed

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Oil refineries require a tremendous volume of fresh water and the Defense Department is backing projects which guarantee an ample supply.

"Oil is the life of a modern mechanized war machine," Asst. Army Sec. Dewey Short said this week at ground breaking ceremonies for the fifty million dollar McGee Dam on the Angelina River in East Texas.

Short recalled that a water shortage crisis last year nearly forced a major shutdown of the nation's most congested refining area less than 100 miles below the McGee dam site.

Just 20 square miles in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area contain over 10 per cent of the nation's total refining capacity.

Short said Jefferson County's industries are producing about 11 million barrels of oil products annually for the armed forces.

He said McGee, when completed in 1962, will guarantee a year-round supply of fresh water needed to insure production of oil products at present rates or at increased rates made necessary by emergencies.

This was one of the reasons, he said, that Army Engineers during the Korean War listed McGee as one of the nine most necessary projects for the nation's defense and essential civilian economy.

Just below the dam site, the Angelina flows into the Neches River. The Neches provides Beaumont with a deep water port before emptying into Sabine Lake just north of Port Arthur. Refining, petrochemical and chemical plants and docks facilities are mushroomed along the Neches from Beaumont to the lake and along the Texas side of the lake.

The Sabine River on the Louisiana border also ends at the lake and the two rivers are the major sources of fresh water supply for the Beaumont-Port Arthur refineries that can process about one million barrels of crude daily.

Drouth poses two problems to refineries in such coastal areas—a dwindling supply of fresh water and a danger from salt water backing up 20 miles from the Gulf and into the rivers.

FOR NEXT YEAR

Oil Industry Measures On Doorsteps Of Congress

Awaiting possible action, in addition to the bill to free gas producers from utility-type regulation by the government, are bills to revise the industry's tax depletion allowance and boos similar tax benefits for coal producers.

The gas bill, cleared by the House Commerce and Rules Committees, remained on the speaker desk—by decision of the House leadership—when Congress adjourned.

Supporters didn't want to risk defeat. They thought they had the votes to put it through the House but they couldn't be sure. So it was left for a decision next year.

The bill to change the tax depletion allowance for oil and gas producers was introduced by Sens. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and Carroll (D-Colo) on the closing day of the recent session. It would limit the 27½ per cent allowance for income tax purposes to production in the United States and its territories. Such a provision would prevent importing companies from getting the tax benefit on their foreign production.

O'Mahoney told the Senate:

"The purpose of this bill is to repeal the depletion allowance which I think now is rather recklessly allowed to the (American) producers of foreign oil, to the great disadvantage of the domestic producers."

When and if the committee takes up the O'Mahoney-Carroll bill, it is likely that opponents of the present allowance will seek to write in an amendment to cut the rate on domestic production to 15 per cent or lower.

Some senators from oil and gas states contend that increased costs of drilling, producing and exploration justify an even higher depletion allowance as an incentive for discovery and development of more oil and gas supplies.

The oil and gas tax depletion allowance has been in effect since 1926, at 27½ per cent. Frequent efforts have been made, without success, to reduce it.

Grain Futures Show Gain In Last Week

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—International developments reverberated on the Board of Trade this week and as a result grain and soybean futures ended higher than a week ago.

Major influence on the market was the Middle East situation in which Syria was reported likely to become part of the Soviet orbit and a potential threat to world peace.

Wheat ended the four-day trading week 1½ to 2⅝ cents a bushel higher than Friday a week ago. Corn advanced 1⅝ to 3½ cents, oats were up ⅝ to 1⅜, rye up 2¾ to 4¼, soybeans ½ to 2¾ higher, and lard declined 17 to 30 cents a hundred pounds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Cotton prices moved irregularly within a narrow range last week and closed 30 cents lower to 60 higher.

Trade estimates suggest a crop of 12,200,000 to 12,800,000 bales, compared with the Aug. 1 official forecast of 11,897,000 bales.

Sales of government owned cotton for export by the CCC against bids Sept. 3 were 32,274 bales, vs 29,026 two weeks previous. The cotton was sold at an average of 27.23 cents per pound, off a point from the preceding sale.

The CCC now has sold 3,661,849 bales. All this and subsequent cotton sold under the program must be exported this season.

Estimated exports for the week ended Tuesday were 40,000 bales vs 96,000 bales a week previous and 86,000 last year.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Big Boom Of Business Appears To Be Tiring

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Big Boom in Business appeared to be getting a little tired to some economic observers this week.

Many sections of the economy rolled along at a brisk pace, yet all was not rosy.

The First National City Bank of New York, in its review of business conditions, put it this way: "Signs that the boom may be getting a little tired continue to crop up here and there."

There were obvious weak spots. Probably the most dramatic existed in metals, where the weakness is not confined to the United States.

Major copper producers again cut the price of the red metal, putting it at a new low for more than four years. The big producers said they planned no lay-offs, but Calumet & Hecla, Inc., a relatively small producer, said it might have to shut down.

Steel production inched up very slowly but at Pittsburgh steel scrap prices, often considered a good barometer of the future, declined. Brokers reported scrap was accumulating in dealers' yards. Steel output, however, should spurt when auto companies start aggressive buying.

Crude oil production slumped to a new low for the year for the second straight week. A cut in auto production was not significant because of changing over to 1958 model runs. Freight car loadings ran behind a year ago but electricity output was above it.

Manufacturers sales in July were higher than a year ago, which would have been a cheery item if it were not for inventories.

There could be no quibbling, however, with another Commerce Department report. Construction work in August hit an all-time high for any month, buoyed by highways and public schools.

In Wall Street things came to such a pass that even the brokers weren't making money. Volume on the New York Stock Exchange fell under 1,500,000 shares several days. It's estimated a volume of 1,800,000 to 2,000,000 shares is needed to enable most commission houses to break even.

If Wall Street hesitated about the future, the consumer did not. He went right on merrily buying. Department store sales ran above a year ago, as they have done most of this year. A newspaper survey disclosed department stores in the important New York-northeastern New Jersey area had record August sales last month.

FROM PROPERTY TAXES

Aviation Loses 10-Year Freedom

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 7 (AP)—The aviation industry has lost a 10-year freedom from Louisiana property taxes. The State Tax Commission said today a meeting will be held Thursday to fix a tax formula for 1957 assessments.

Little if any attention has been aroused over the fact that the 10-year exemption has ended, after its adoption by the public in 1946.

Chairman James T. Means Jr. of the tax commission said he could not estimate how much new revenue will be forthcoming. Both state and parish governments will benefit.

The entire state property tax brings in about 15 million dollars a year, with most of it turned over to education.

Chairman Means said an initial conference with 25 representatives of airlines was held in New Orleans Thursday, while the key session will be held in New Orleans at 9 a.m. next Thursday in commission offices.

At that time, the tax chairman said, a three-man committee named to represent all airlines will offer recommendations on a mileage-and-hour tax formula for commercial aviation, based on experience in three states, Arkansas, Minnesota and Florida, where similar taxes have been in effect.

During that meeting, Means said the two tax commission members, Means, Shreveport, and Paul B. Habans, New Orleans, will adopt a new mileage-and-hour formula or take the proposals under consideration for study.

The chairman emphasized that property taxes "are a minor expense. They rank about 14th down the line in industrial considerations in this state."

As for the aviation industry, he added, once a satisfactory mile-an-hour formula is decided, "our problem will be licked."

"We have no knowledge of the value of aircraft and equipment serving Louisiana or the number of flying miles" Means said.

The State Tax Commission has jurisdiction over assessment valuation throughout the state, including the state 5.75-mill levy and the widely varying parish tax rates which average about 45 miles to the dollar.

Commission Secretary C. Gordon Johnson said the commission is thinking in terms of fixing the aviation taxes at about 40 per cent of value, with the commercial figure tied to the mileage-an-hour formula.

Gov. Earl Long and other state officials, defeated in 1956 tax raising efforts in the Legislature, have been reminding the public new revenue will have to be found because of mounting government expenses.

The new aviation property tax will be on private planes, airline planes, offices, hangars and equipment. Oil companies operate scores of air exploration and service units, featuring helicopters, because of offshore oil development.

Property taxes very tremendously in the 64 Louisiana parishes, ranging from a low of about 30 mills to a high of 110 mills in Jefferson Parish, Chairman Means said. Airline terminals will be hard hit under the new tax program.

On June 8, Gen. T. B. Herndon, chief of the aeronautics division of the State Department of Public Works, said aviation is Louisiana's second largest industry, next to petroleum. But he lumped military, commercial and private aviation, which would include the huge Air Force bases in Lake Charles and Shreveport.

Louisiana has nine airlines, he continued, serving seven key cities, making 184 scheduled stops daily and covering 1,040 miles of designated airways.

Also, the general said, the state has 137 general air bases and 37 seaplane bases, with military air bases representing a 336-million-dollar investment. Public property is exempt from the state property levy.

In November, 1946, voters okayed the constitutional amendment granting aviation a 10-year property tax exemption to spur air development.

Now that it is ended, tax assessments will begin as of Jan. 1 this year, once the tax picture is cleared.

Chairman Means said while nothing has been decided, pending the new conference with airline representatives, an air tax formula is planned based on such factors as the number of miles a plane travels in Louisiana compared with its national travel, hours in the air over Louisiana and on the ground.

The state still has a 10-year tax writeoff it grants new and expanding businesses, such as manufacturing. These exemptions are granted by the State Board of Commerce and Industry.

But some legislators have been talking recently about knocking out the industry exemptions too, in the pressure of looking for new state revenues.

Stock Trade Shows Drop On Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Wall Street this week showed its extreme doubt about business and stock trading sank to its lowest rate in nearly four years.

Traders and investors, large and small, stayed out of the market in droves, awaiting some definite clue.

Stock market values drifted downward. There was no particular selling pressure.

The Associated Press average declined $2.20 to $173.50. This erased the gains in last week's surprising pre-holiday advance.

Higher interest rates and the leveling-off of the business boom were fundamental factors. Investment circles feared that fourth quarter business may not be as good as expected, but there was great caution about selling stocks, too.

While steel production edged up, the gain was not enough to convince the market that the boom was getting up much more steam. U. S. Steel dropped 1⅜ and Bethlehem ⅜.

Although the big auto makers were reported increasing their steel orders for the new models, the stocks lacked luster. General Motors dropped 1⅛, Chrysler 2¼, and Ford 1⅛.

Railroad shares hit new 1957 lows.

The five most active issues this week were: Servel Inc. up ¾ at 4⅝, Royal Dutch off ¼ at 54½, Bethlehem Steel off ⅜ at 45, General Motors off 1⅛ at 42⅛, and North American Aviation up ¾ at 26.

New Oil Field Discovered In Wilkinson County, Miss.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 7 (AP) — With completion of the wildcat G. I. Crook No. 1, Rimrock-Tidelands Drilling Co. reported discovery of a new oil field in Wilkinson County.

The drilling company planned immediately to drill G. I. Crook No. 2 as a second test well. Preparations began immediately.

Other drilling activity:

Jett Drilling Co. was testing two zones in its Roberts No. 2 in the Bolton field of Hinds County. The well will complete as a dual venture.

Jett reported a zone at 11,403-15 feet tested at 250 barrels of oil daily and another zone at 11,115-27 feet tested at 150 barrels daily.

Also in the Bolton field, Weston Drilling Co. was below 10,100 feet in its Roberts-Ross-Mashburn Unit No. 2 with contact depth at 11,500 feet.

Carter Oil Co. was below 7,100 feet in its Rankin County wildcat Henry Kersh No. 1 in the northwestern part of the county. Contract depth is 13,900 feet.

Skelly Oil and Kin-Ark were below 5,100 feet in their B. L. Herring No. 1, the second well for the Dexter gas condensate field in Walthall County.

The current operation is on the Marion County side and has a contract depth of 13,600 feet.

In the semi-shallow Eucutta oil field of Wayne County, Gulf Oil Corp. re-opened its Charles Green No. 1 and will deepen to 11,000 feet.

The well was abandoned in 1944 at 5,717 feet. The current producing level in the field is 5,500 feet.

Wildcat drilling operations have resumed in the northeastern part of the state with two ventures under way in Clay and Chickasaw counties.

Phillips Petroleum Co. was below 4,000 feet in the Crawford No. 1 in Chickasaw County and Shell Oil Co. was below 2,200 feet in the Jarrett No. 1 in Clay County. Both ventures have a contract depth of 10,000 feet.

In the one-well Valley Park field of Sharkey County, Amerada Petroleum Co. was below 11,340 feet in the USA-Vaughty No. 1. The well will test the Smackover lime.

Projects For Fresh Water Being Backed

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—Oil refineries require a tremendous volume of fresh water and the Defense Department is backing projects which guarantee an ample supply.

"Oil is the life of a modern mechanized war machine," Asst. Army Sec. Dewey Short said this week at ground breaking ceremonies for the fifty million dollar McGee Dam on the Angelina River in East Texas.

Short recalled that a water shortage crisis last year nearly forced a major shutdown of he nation's most congested refining area less than 100 miles below the McGee dam site.

Just 20 square miles in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area contain over 10 per cent of the nation's total refining capacity.

Short said Jefferson County's industries are producing about 11 million barrels of oil products annually for the armed forces.

He said McGee, when completed in 1962, will guarantee a year-round supply of fresh water needed to insure production of oil products at present rates or at increased rates made necessary by emergencies.

This was one of the reasons, he said, that Army Engineers during the Korean War listed McGee as one of the nine most necessary projects for the nation's defense and essential civilian economy.

Just below the dam site, the Angelina flows into the Neches River. The Neches provides Beaumont with a deep water port before emptying into Sabine Lake just north of Port Arthur. Refining, petrochemical and chemical plants and docks facilities are mushroomed along the Neches from Beaumont to the lake and along the Texas side of the lake.

The Sabine River on the Louisiana border also ends at the lake and the two rivers are the major sources of fresh water supply for the Beaumont-Port Arthur refineries that can process about one million barrels of crude daily.

Drouth poses two problems to refineries in such coastal areas—a dwindling supply of fresh water and a danger from salt water backing up 20 miles from the Gulf and into the rivers.

Oil Industry Measures On Doorsteps Of Congress

Awaiting possible action, in addition to the bill to free gas producers from utility-type regulation by the government, are bills to revise the industry's tax depletion allowance and boost similar tax benefits for coal producers.

The gas bill, cleared by the House Commerce and Rules Committees, remained on the speaker desk—by decision of the House leadership—when Congress adjourned.

Supporters didn't want to risk defeat. They thought they had the votes to put it through the House but they couldn't be sure. So it was left for a decision next year.

The bill to change the tax depletion allowance for oil and gas producers was introduced by Sens. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and Carroll (D-Colo) on the closing day of the recent session. It would limit the 27½ per cent allowance for income tax purposes to production in the United States and its territories. Such a provision would prevent importing companies from getting the tax benefit on their foreign production.

O'Mahoney told the Senate:

"The purpose of this bill is to repeal the depletion allowance which I think now is rather recklessly allowed to the (American) producers of foreign oil, to the great disadvantage of the domestic producers."

When and if the committee takes up the O'Mahoney-Carroll bill, it is likely that opponents of the present allowance will seek to write in an amendment to cut the rate on domestic production to 15 per cent or lower.

Some senators from oil and gas states contend that increased costs of drilling, producing and exploration justify an even higher depletion allowance as an incentive for discovery and development of more oil and gas supplies.

The oil and gas tax depletion allowance has been in effect since 1926, at 27½ per cent. Frequent efforts have been made, without success, to reduce it.

Grain Futures Show Gain In Last Week

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP)—International developments reverberated on the Board of Trade this week and as a result grain and soybean futures ended higher than a week ago.

Major influence on the market was the Middle East situation in which Syria was reported likely to become part of the Soviet orbit and a potential threat to world peace.

Wheat ended the four-day trading week 1½ to 2⅝ cents a bushel higher than Friday a week ago. Corn advanced 1⅝ to 3½ cents, oats were up ⅝ to 1⅜, rye up 2¾ to 4¼, soybeans ½ to 2¾ higher, and lard declined 17 to 30 cents a hundred pounds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Cotton prices moved irregularly within a narrow range last week and closed 30 cents lower to 60 higher.

Trade estimates suggest a crop of 12,200,000 to 12,800,000 bales, compared with the Aug. 1 official forecast of 11,897,000 bales.

Sales of government owned cotton for export by the CCC against bids Sept. 3 were 32,274 bales, vs 29,026 two weeks previous. The cotton was sold at an average of 27.23 cents per pound, off a point from the preceding sale.

The CCC now has sold 3,661,849 bales. All this and subsequent cotton sold under the program must be exported this season.

Estimated exports for the week ended Tuesday were 40,000 bales vs 96,000 bales a week previous and 86,000 last year.

TO END ATTACK FEARS

Ike Appeals To Syrian People

By WARREN ROGERS, JR.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP) President Eisenhwer bypassed Syria's pro-Soviet government today and urged her people to do something to end fear of Communist-inspired attacks by Syria on her neighbors.

Eisenhower also pledged to use his full power as needed under the congressionally-approved Middle East resolution for blocking Communist expansion in the area.

The extraordinary appeal and re-affirmation of the Middle East resolution were reported by Secretary of State Dulles after an urgent two-hour White House conference.

But Dulles refused to answer a key question put to him by newsmen:

Did this mean the Eisenhower administration was officially defining Syria as Communist-dominated under the Middle East resolution? That resolution promises American troops in response to calls for help from any Middle East nation attacked by a Communist-dominated country.

Dulles, turning away, said he could not go beyond "any inferences that may be drawn from the statement I just read you."

Eisenhower has assiduously avoided labeling Syria as Communist-dominated. "Leftish leanings" is as far as he has gone in describing the people in power in Syria.

Dulles said in the 280-word statement worked out with Eisenhower that the President already has acted under the Middle East resolution.

He said Eisenhower did this by ordering a speed-up in delivery of previously programmed defensive arms and economic aid to Syria's neighbors.

Eight U. S. Air Force C124s are flying from Greece and Libya to Jordan this weekend with U. S. weapons; including 106 m.m. recoilless rifles. The air-lifted arms are due Monday in Amman, Jordan's capitol, amid much fanfare including a ceremonial speech by U. S. Ambassador Lester D. Mallory.

A similar hurry-up flight to Iraq is under consideration and shipments by sea to Syria's jittery neighbors are being speeded. Schedules have been shortened from months to weeks.

Eisenhower flew to Washington this morning from his Newport R. I., vaction headquarters. He arranged to return tonight after meeting with Dulles, Atty. Gen. Brownell and Budget Director Brundage.

Dulles was accompanied to the White House conference with Eisenhower by two top aides—Deputy Undersecretary Loy Henderson, just back with a gloomy report on his 14 day fact finding trip to the Middle East, and William Rountree, assistant secretary for Middle East affairs.

Car Crashes Into Store; Driver Held

It looked like a war between the truck and the store - according to the store's owner and witnesses.

William Reed, 48, Negro of 912 South 19 street, Monroe, is in the city jail, charged with driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, damage to property and public intoxication, after he slammed his pick-up truck into a store at 3001 Renwick street, owned by R. F. Fuller.

The truck was not damaged - large, heavy bumpers protected it - but the store's owner claims that the impact caused damage inside the building. Police said that they could see no damage on the outside of the store, but mentioned possible damage inside.

Monroe police who investigated said that they did not see the accident occur, but that witnesses said Reed backed up and hit the store more than once, at approximately 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

Officials said it was Reed's second offense.

1st Red Jet Airliner To Enter Leaves

A spokesman here said the plane would probably retrace the route it followed in coming here, landing again at Prestwick, Scotland, before finishing the trip to Russia.

The jet, which drew scores of sightseers and Air Force officers while displayed here, departed at 4:30 a.m. (CST). The American officers on board helped guide the jet through the maze of air traffic patterns and procedures as they did on its flight in.

Cowboy Morris Will Be Sent Back To Miss.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7—UP — Montana Cowboy Dale Morris will be sent back to Mississippi early next week to face his fourth trial for the murder of Bay St. Louis, Miss. novelty shop dealer Charles Flink.

Morris, who broke out of Gulfport, Miss. jail last June, agreed not to fight extradition and California Gov. Goodwin Knight signed extradition papers yesterday. Harrison County Mississippi sheriff Joe Wittman said he will go to California this weekend to pick up Morris. Barring last minute delay maneuvers by Morris' lawyer, the handsome cowboy will be returned to Mississippi Monday or Tuesday.

Morris has been in custody of California authorities since late August following his arrest in Long Beach on a routine drunk charge.

Hancock county district attorney Boyce Holleman, who failed to get a conviction in three earlier trails, said he believed Morris will go on trial again in the September term of Hancock county circuit court. Hung juries blocked a conviction in the first trials.

Gold Strike Changes Village In Africa

BATOURI, French Cameroons (AP) — Less than six months ago this drowsy village in French Equatorial Africa was nothing more than a stopping place for trucks on the serpentine road between Yaounde and Lake Chad.

French officialdom classed the population as "economically weak." The Batouri natives had never been noted for their devotion to work.

A change was first noticed this spring by the men who run the Batouri hardware stores. Their easy - going African customers suddenly began buying more digging tools than ever before.

Telltale Sign

It took a hardware wholesaler to put two and two together. Noticing Batouri stores were ordering three times their normal quota of picks and shovels, he tipped off the government Mines Service in Yaounde.

That was in May of this year. A regional inspector hurried to Batouri, then followed the native tool - buyers to Mboscorro, about 60 miles away.

He was horrified by what he found: 1,500 men, women and children busy sifting sand, digging holes and cutting down trees. It was the rainy season and whole families worked knee - deep in water.

They were mining gold.

Later David Ambo told how it all began. He said he was on his way to visit his sick mother at Batouri when he stopped at Mboscorro to drink from a stream. As the sandy water trickled through his fingers he saw the sparkling gold dust on his hands. Not knowing that he could have obtained official concession to work the find for himself, he went back to his home in Nambalo, fetched his wife, and set to mine the gold secretly. It was hard going so he tipped off four comrades from his village. The bush telegraph did the rest.

Plagued By Peddlers

Today more than 100 kilograms of gold a month is being mined at Mboscorro. But so haphazard and primitive is the mining that the Cameroons government is very concerned. Peddlers plague the area offering shoddy goods for the precious gold dust. Money has been rushed to Batorui to establish a buying agency and much of the wastage has stopped. African mines agents have tried to organize the gold panners into teams to eliminate some of the waste. But chaos still reigns. The agents are kept busy trying to adjust conflicting claims and rationing water for washing the gold.

A geological mission has made a preliminary survey in the area. They report that the gold deposits stretch for 600 yards along the stream where David Ambo stopped to quench his thirst, and for about 100 yards on each side. The gold content of the soil ranges from "feeble" to "very rich."

Meanwhile the social life of Batouri has been revolutionized. The Cameroons is France's boom country.

AFTER WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE—Attorney General Herbert Brownell peers from his automobile as newsmen followed him after a conference with President Eisenhower at the White House. The President, flying there from his vacation at Newport, R. I., and Brownell conferred but reached no decision on possible future steps the Federal government might take in the Little Rock integration dispute, said James Hagerty, White House press secretary. TO END ATTACK FEARS

Ike Appeals To Syrian People

By WARREN ROGERS, JR.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (AP) President Eisenhwer bypassed Syria's pro-Soviet government today and urged her people to do something to end fear of Communist-inspired attacks by Syria on her neighbors.

Eisenhower also pledged to use his full power as needed under the congressionally-approved Middle East resolution for blocking Communist expansion in the area.

The extraordinary appeal and re-affirmation of the Middle East resolution were reported by Secretary of State Dulles after an urgent two-hour White House conference.

But Dulles refused to answer a key question put to him by newsmen:

Did this mean the Eisenhower administration was officially defining Syria as Communist-dominated under the Middle East resolution? That resolution promises American troops in response to calls for help from any Middle East nation attacked by a Communist-dominated country.

Dulles, turning away, said he could not go beyond "any inferences that may be drawn from the statement I just read you."

Eisenhower has assiduously avoided labeling Syria as Communist-dominated. "Leftish leanings" is as far as he has gone in describing the people in power in Syria.

Dulles said in the 280-word statement worked out with Eisenhower that the President already has acted under the Middle East resolution.

He said Eisenhower did this by ordering a speed-up in delivery of previously programmed defensive arms and economic aid to Syria's neighbors.

Eight U. S. Air Force C124s are flying from Greece and Libya to Jordan this weekend with U. S. weapons, including 106 m.m. recoilless rifles. The air-lifted arms are due Monday in Amman, Jordan's capitol, amid much fanfare including a ceremonial speech by U. S. Ambassador Lester D. Mallory.

A similar hurry-up flight to Iraq is under consideration and shipments by sea to Syria's jittery neighbors are being speeded. Schedules have been shortened from months to weeks.

Eisenhower flew to Washington this morning from his Newport R. I., vaction headquarters. He arranged to return tonight after meeting with Dulles, Atty. Gen. Brownell and Budget Director Brundage.

Dulles was accompanied to the White House conference with Eisenhower by two top aides—Deputy Undersecretary Loy Henderson, just back with a gloomy report on his 14 day fact finding trip to the Middle East, and William Rountree, assistant secretary for Middle East affairs.

Car Crashes Into Store; Driver Held

It looked like a war between the truck and the store - according to the store's owner and witnesses.

William Reed, 48, Negro of 912 South 19 street, Monroe, is in the city jail, charged with driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, damage to property and public intoxication, after he slammed his pick-up truck into a store at 3001 Renwick street, owned by R. F. Fuller.

The truck was not damaged - large, heavy bumpers protected it - but the store's owner claims that the impact caused damage inside the building. Police said that they could see no damage on the outside of the store, but mentioned possible damage inside.

Monroe police who investigated said that they did not see the accident occur, but that witnesses said Reed backed up and hit the store more than once, at approximately 3:30 yesterday afternoon.

Officials said it was Reed's second offense.

1st Red Jet Airliner To Enter Leaves

A spokesman here said the plane would probably retrace the route it followed in coming here, landing again at Prestwick, Scotland, before finishing the trip to Russia.

The jet, which drew scores of sightseers and Air Force officers while displayed here, departed at 4:30 a.m. (CST). The American officers on board helped guide the jet through the maze of air traffic patterns and procedures as they did on its flight in.

Cowboy Morris Will Be Sent Back To Miss.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7—UP — Montana Cowboy Dale Morris will be sent back to Mississippi early next week to face his fourth trial for the murder of Bay St. Louis, Miss. novelty shop dealer Charles Flink.

Morris, who broke out of Gulfport, Miss. jail last June, agreed not to fight extradition and California Gov. Goodwin Knight signed extradition papers yesterday. Harrison County Mississippi sheriff Joe Wittman said he will go to California this weekend to pick up Morris. Barring last minute delay maneuvers by Morris' lawyer, the handsome cowboy will be returned to Mississippi Monday or Tuesday.

Morris has been in custody of California authorities since late August following his arrest in Long Beach on a routine drunk charge.

Hancock county district attorney Boyce Holleman, who failed to get a conviction in three earlier trails, said he believed Morris will go on trial again in the September term of Hancock county circuit court. Hung juries blocked a conviction in the first trials.

Gold Strike Changes Village In Africa

BATOURI, French Cameroons (AP) — Less than six months ago this drowsy village in French Equatorial Africa was nothing more than a stopping place for trucks on the serpentine road between Yaounde and Lake Chad.

French officialdom classed the population as "economically weak." The Batouri natives had never been noted for their devotion to work.

A change was first noticed this spring by the men who run the Batouri hardware stores. Their easy - going African customers suddenly began buying more digging tools than ever before.

Telltale Sign

It took a hardware wholesaler to put two and two together. Noticing Batouri stores were ordering three times their normal quota of picks and shovels, he tipped off the government Mines Service in Yaounde.

That was in May of this year. A regional inspector hurried to Batouri, then followed the native tool - buyers to Mboscorro, about 60 miles away.

He was horrified by what he found: 1,500 men, women and children busy sifting sand, digging holes and cutting down trees. It was the rainy season and whole families worked knee - deep in water.

They were mining gold.

Later David Ambo told how it all began. He said he was on his way to visit his sick mother at Batorui when he stopped at Mboscorro to drink from a stream. As the sandy water trickled through his fingers he saw the sparkling gold dust on his hands. Not knowing that he could have obtained official concession to work the find for himself, he went back to his home in Nambalo, fetched his wife, and set to mine the gold secretly. It was hard going so he tipped off four comrades from his village. The bush telegraph did the rest.

Plagued By Peddlers

Today more than 100 kilograms of gold a month is being mined at Mboscorro. But so haphazard and primitive is the mining that the Cameroons government is very concerned. Peddlers plague the area offering shoddy goods for the precious gold dust. Money has been rushed to Batorui to establish a buying agency and much of the wastage has stopped. African mines agents have tried to organize the gold panners into teams to eliminate some of the waste. But chaos still reigns. The agents are kept busy trying to adjust conflicting claims and rationing water for washing the gold.

A geological mission has made a preliminary survey in the area. They report that the gold deposits stretch for 600 yards along the stream where David Ambo stopped to quench his thirst, and for about 100 yards on each side. The gold content of the soil ranges from "feeble" to "very rich."

Meanwhile the social life of Batouri has been revolutionized. The Cameroons is France's boom country.

FED TRANQUILIZERS

Scientists Getting More Eggs From Hens

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Humpty - Dumpty was born several years too soon.

Had he lived in this frenetic age of tranquilizers and antibiotics, he would never have needed all the King's horses and men to try and put him back together again.

Reason: He probably would not have broken in his great fall.

Tranquilizers and antibiotics, widely used by humans, have now been fed to livestock and poultry.

The results are astonishing — 20 per cent tougher egg shells which means less breakage from the next to the pantry, and more money for the farmer. Economists believe it may also mean cheaper eggs for the consumer's frying pan.

But the antibiotic doesn't work on the egg alone, it also makes happier hens. Happy hens lay more eggs, which again means more money for the farmer and cheaper eggs for the consumer.

Pfizer scientists admit their work still is in its early stages, but testimonials obtained by colleges support the claim that the antibiotics makes happier hens.

One poultry man, Oscar Wallin of Pequot Lakes, Minn., said antibiotics made his hens "so happy they sang all night." He also reported his flock doubled its egg production within 10 days.

Many fine cooks like to use potato starch or arrowroot starch for thickening a sauce because of their transparent effec

FED TRANQUILIZERS

Scientists Getting More Eggs From Hens

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Humpty - Dumpty was born several years too soon.

Had he lived in this frenetic age of tranquilizers and antibiotics, he would never have needed all the King's horses and men to try and put him back together again.

Reason: He probably would not have broken in his great fall.

Tranquilizers and antibiotics, widely used by humans, have now been fed to livestock and poultry.

The results are astonishing — 20 per cent tougher egg shells which means less breakage from the next to the pantry, and more money for the farmer. Economists believe it may also mean cheaper eggs for the consumer's frying pan.

But the antibiotic doesn't work on the egg alone, it also makes happier hens. Happy hens lay more eggs, which again means more money for the farmer and cheaper eggs for the consumer.

Pfizer scientists admit their work still is in its early stages, but testimonials obtained by colleges support the claim that the antibiotics makes happier hens.

One poultry man, Oscar Wallin of Pequot Lakes, Minn., said antibiotics made his hens "so happy they sang all night." He also reported his flock doubled its egg production within 10 days.

LSU'S BILLY CANNON AMONG TOP SEC ROOKIES; YANKS BEAT NATS, 4-1, ON FORD'S STEADY WORK

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Brooklyn Dodgers may be aptly named. They may be called the Los Angeles Dodgers without ever going west.

More and more it begins to appear that Brooklyn is considering dodging Los Angeles after all the fuss about moving to the Pacific coast. Dem Bums may stick right where they are—new park, of course.

Somehow, you get the idea the Dodgers worked a confidence game on the Giants to get the Polo Grounders out of New York, leaving the Bums the sole National League representative in the Big Town. With the Giants already tagged for San Francisco, you can get suspicious of the National League as well.

The league may have suddenly decided, on the quiet, of course, not to let Brooklyn's franchise move for fear the league will be shut out of New York entirely. The American League Yankees are already asking baseball law's support in ruling New York their sole territory if the Dodgers follow the Giants west. We believe the National League wants to feel free to put another club in New York when and if the loop goes to ten—or 12—clubs, or if another current member (rumors had it Cincinnati) wants to move to the Big City.

The Giants don't seem to bother about what the Dodgers are going to do. Admittedly, however, the presence of another league member out west will ease schedule woes and travel expenses. Could be the league wants Brooklyn to stand pat and suddenly jump to ten teams, adding Los Angeles and some other big city anxious for a big league franchise.

The longer the Dodgers put off the expected announcement of their move to L. A. the less we expect them to do so.

The Monroe Recreation Department has wrapped up another summer baseball and softball program, its biggest yet. Fifty-five teams played softball in a total of 341 games in which 825 men and boys participated. Little League baseball had 28 teams and 436 boys playing in 171 games. The Southside All-Stars, in addition, won the Louisiana state championship. And the Dixie League enjoyed its first year here for the 13-14-year-olds. Only four teams, but they played 41 games, and Missouri Pacific Eagles won first championship. The grand total of department sponsored softball and baseball—1,321 men and boys participated in 553 games.

With Sam Hanna "somewhere" on vacation, some of his fishing reports that should have appeared in Friday's Comin' Up Afield were sidetracked.

Now Sam has worked up some good sources of information and we'll try to help him out today by squeezing in his belated fishing reports. Hope to be able to get the regular reports back in the usual spot next Friday.

Ferriday—Welton Brabham and son, Jahme, took big string of white perch and bream with worms on Black river a few days ago. Luther A. Jones, "Butch" Jones and Vernon Traxler caught about 200 bream on Lake Louie using worms. E. W. Horton and Wilburn King also worked Lake Louie for 77 bream, one weighing over a pound. George Perry, Dewey Wills and R. T. Bonnett caught 100 bream, catfish and white perch, all medium, at Lake Louie. Squeezing in some hunting—Albert Chapman, Elliot Wiley and "PeeWee" Lowrey took the legal limit of 10 doves apiece on opening day. Van Nelson and party of two also got dove limit first time out. O. T. Oden killed six doves opening day. Other hunting on opening day slow due to rain.

Lake Providence—Dove hunting is taking precedence over fishing, the latter hurt by heavy rain. Nine schoolboys, Jack Shaffer, Bill Richardson, Bill Burton, Billy Regenold, Leon Overby, Jim Baur, Jerry Johnson, Jerry Bayles and Pat Booner, all went out after school Monday evening, each getting his limit, but dove hunting has been poor since. One boy was accidentally shot but not seriously hurt. One boy shot at a dove on the ground, a pellet glancing and hitting Billy Regenold, penetrating the eye lid. Apparently no permament damage to the eye, reports say.

Franklin parish—Ted LeLux, Crowville, was one of many in area to get limit of doves on first day. Bob Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. George Collier and Mrs. Irvin Siles, all of Crowville, took 200 large bream at Yucatan, using catalpa worms. Walter Woods, Winnsboro, and Sonny Woods, Houma, caught 14 large bass below the "Rocks" at Lake Louie, using hula popper. Leo Welch and Jack Givens, Winnsboro, used paw-paw and plunker at East lake to string 13 bass weighing a total of 26 pounds. Joe Dante and Jack Miller, Winnsboro, caught the limit of large bream and some catfish at Lake Louie using red worms and catalpas. Oscar VanMatre, J. J. Stephens and Tom Walters, Winnsboro, caught 17 large white perch in upper Fool river.

Winnfield—Saline lake fishing slacked off. Heavy rain Tuesday raised lake four inches. Artificial red worm still best bait. Roland Holder and Harry Kemper of Shreveport caught limits of bass Monday. Truett Huddleston and Keiffer Blondell, Jonesboro, got nice string of bass Wednesday. Jim Jimmerson, Jonesboro, took 10 bass on artificial red worm. John Wilkerson, Jonesboro, caught eight good-sized bass. White perch being caught in the channel around the duck blinds on shiners at about three-foot depth. Best catch reported by Carl Butler and party of three of Winnfield who took 30 white perch Tuesday. C. E. Sherwood, Winnfield, and Ardis Brewton, Goldonna, both caught white perch limits.

Southeastern Teams Need Experience

By MERCER BAILEY

ATLANTA, Sept. 7 (AP)—Show me a team that must depend on sophomores to win and I'll show you a team that can be beat."

Kentucky football coach Blanton Collier has expressed that opinion and other coaches have said the same thing in different words.

But this year in the Southeastern Conference, it might be more accurate to say: "Show me a team that doesn't use sophomores and I'll show you a team that can be beat."

Almost without exception, SEC teams are short on experienced players and the coaches are looking hopefully toward their sophomores for reserve strength, and in some instances to fill gaping front-line holes.

Tennessee and Florida, with 25 returning lettermen each, Georgia with 22 and Auburn with 20 boast the largest slices of seasoning in the league, but even they feel the need of sophs coming through. Especially Georgia and Auburn, who are counting strongly on first-year men at quarterback.

A lot of the SEC teams will open with sophs in the starting lineup but probably none will be as soph-dominated as Georgia Tech. Coach Bobby Dodd very likely will have four or five youngsters lined up for the opening kickoff against Kentucky. And the Wildcats probably will have one or two sophs in their top troops, too.

It takes a real "find" to make a big splash his first varsity year. Latest prime example of a soph who made good his first year is Billy Stacy, the triple-threat quarterback at Mississippi State who made the all-conference team as a soph last year.

The list of promising youngsters in the SEC this year is a long one. Trying to pinpoint those who will become first-year stars is risky business. But certainly Billy Cannon of Louisiana State, Glenn Shaw of Kentucky and Gary O'Steen of Alabama are in fine positions to snare a lot of spectator attention.

All three are backs, all are slated for starting duty and all come equipped with "can't miss" credentials. Cannon and Shaw are halfbacks with high school and freshmen reputations for rolling up spectacular chunks of yardage. O'Steen is a versatile lad 'Bama plans to use at both halfback and quarterback.

A pair of centers, Jackie Burkett of Auburn and Dave Lloyd of Georgia, may well be the stickouts among soph linemen. Not only are they big, sleek bruisers with loads of talent, but their linebacking posts on defense make their exploits easier to spot from the stands. Although both are listed as sophs on the rosters they are in their third college year. Burkett, 6-4 and 225, was held out last season and Lloyd, 6-3 and 220, was forced to serve a year on the B team after transferring to Georgia from Texas Tech, where he lettered as a freshman in '55.

Other first-year varsity men capable of crashing the limelight include:

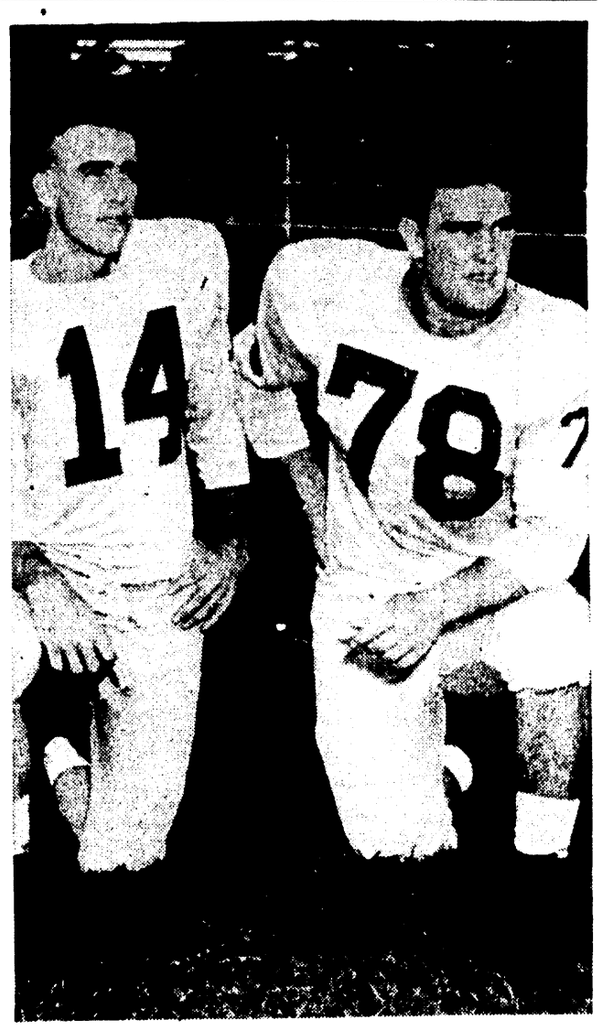
Linemen — Charles Baetzman and Lawrin Giannamore, Florida; Dean Fisher and Coy Franklin, Tennessee; Lynn LeBlanc and Doug Skinner, LSU; Chuck Allen, Alabama; Jim Potette and Jimmie Daniels, Mississippi State; Zeke Smith, Auburn; Maxie Baughan, Georgia Tech; Richard Thompson, Ronald Miller and Joe Wildman, Vanderbilt; Jim Grantham, Aubrey Sanders and Marvin Terrell, Mississippi.



LOUISIANA TECH'S LEADERS—Tech's Bulldogs will be led by co-captains Billy (Buzz) Bond, Haynesville senior quarterback, and Tommy Hinton, Ruston senior tackle. They are both three-year lettermen and appear headed for their best season yet with the Bulldogs. Hinton was selected for the All-Gulf States Conference team the past two seasons and last fall received honorable mention on the Little All-American team by Associated Press. Tech opens the season at Ruston Saturday night, September 21, against Mississippi Southern College.

DEFENSE NEXT WEEK

Scrimmage Session Closes Week Of Practice At Tech

RUSTON, La., (Special) — Louisiana Tech's first week of fall football drills came to a close yesterday morning with a rugged scrimmage session, the first full - scale contact work since practice began. It was played under controlled game conditions.

The Techsters have two more weeks of practice before they take on Mississippi Southern in the season opener at Tech Stadium Sept. 21.

On tap for the more than 50 grid candidates next week are rugged defensive drills. A bulldog coach remarked that it looks as if the fellows will need plenty of defensive work in the days ahead since Mississippi Southern appears to have another great club this season.

"We feel that the players made good progress during the first week," said head Coach Joe Aillet. He pointed to improved offensive techniques and said he was pleased with the way the freshman backs are fitting into the squad.

Nine backfield men from the 1956 squad are missing and some of the incoming speedsters are slated for plenty of duty before the season is ended.

Coach Aillet reported that offensive line play came along fine during the week and he gave credit to assistant coaches Huey Williamson, Jim Mize and George Doherty for their work in tutoring the linemen.

"We are far from having the team we hope to have," Coach Aillet commented, "but it appears that we have excellent groundwork for the season ahead."

Some rugged competition has been displayed on the practice field for first string berths. The squad has been divided into four teams for practice purposes.

Two other freshmen have been working at fullback with veteran Wayne Bourgeois, a Sulphur junior who has already earned two letters. They are B. K. Miller, chunky 5-6 172 pounder from Sicily Island, and Max Rudd, 180, Minden.

SWARTZ VISITS LIBERTY TODAY TO OPEN SERIES

The Little Eight Baseball League opens its championship final playoff today on the Liberty diamond with Swartz as the invader.

Swartz and Liberty qualified for the finals last Sunday as they earned their second victories in the semifinals over Claiborne and Woodlawn respectively.

MEXICALI, Mex., Sept. 7 (AP)—The Mexicali Eagles dropped out of the Class C Arizona-Mexico Baseball League today.

Club President Fausto Topete said the club could not finish the season because of financial troubles

Mexicali players, claiming they had not seen their pay checks in over a month, refused to take the field against Douglas last night.

Topete met with player representatives today but said he couldn't meet the payroll now. All games remaining on the Mexicali schedule will be forfeited. The A-M season has only eight days remaining.

League President Chuck Hollinger said the loop could do nothing about the situation.

Mexicali's cash deposit with the National Association will cover two week's back salaries for the players and will be turned over to them after the season, Hollinger said.

LA Negotiator Conferring With Walter O'Malley

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7 (AP) — The negotiator representing Los Angeles in its efforts to bring the Brooklyn Dodgers west flew to Wyoming today for a brass tacks talk with vacationing Dodger president Walter O'Malley.

Businessman Harold C. McClellan carried a brief case bulging with plans and data as he took off to track O'Malley to his hunting and fishing lair near Rawlings Wyo.

McClellan declined to comment on any specific proposal he may have to present to the Dodger president. But he expressed concern over the rising tide of criticism directed at O'Malley by Los Angeles residents who feel he is playing the city off against New York in an effort to get himself a better deal to remain in Brooklyn.

"If Mr. O'Malley is to bring the Dodgers to Los Angeles I feel he should have the good graces of the community and not be discredited in advance," McClellan said.

Sievers Socks Home Run 36 For Senators

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—Whitey Ford pitched the New York Yankees to a steady eight-hit 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators today, suffering his only damage when Roy Sievers hit his 36th homer of the year in the ninth inning.

It was Ford's first start in more than three weeks, since he hurt his left shoulder in the second inning on Aug. 14 pitching against Boston. He aced himself to his ninth triumph of the year against four losses.

The Yanks rapped out 11 hits as they finally turned on the pesky Senators who had beaten them five out of the last six games before today.

Pedro Ramos started and gave up all four Yankee runs in the 5 2-3 innings he pitched. The loss was his 14th against 11 victories.

Sievers, leading the American League in homers, also strengthened his league lead in runs batted in, driving in his 99th of the season. The big Washington slugger has hit seven homers against the Yankee pitching this year and has driven in 20 runs against the champions.

Tournure First In Manchester; Navarette 2nd

SALEM, N.H., Sept. 7 (AP)—Mrs. J. M. Branham's Tournure, with Davey Deroin up, came from last in a field of six and won the $10,000 Manchester Handicap today at Rockingham Park.

It was a popular victory after a hard ride for the crowd of 16,758 had installed the 4-year-old filly the even money favorite in the mile and one-sixteenth event.

J. and P. Venuti's Hare Raising led for the first mile, but with the finish approaching, Tournure started to pick up horses. She won with a half-length advantage over Reynolds Brothers' Navarette. Bonanza Miss finished third.

Tournure went the distance in the slow time of 1:44.2 and paid $4.00, $2.80, and $2.40. Navarette paid $6.40 and $4.80, and Bonanza Miss $4.60.

Porker Defense Isn't Adequate, Declares Coach

Although the Reds won 31-7, Mitchell told newsmen he wasn't primarily concerned with the score. Besides, he pointed out, the Red team was loaded with first and second stringers.

"Our defense didn't look too sharp to me," Mitchell said.

"However, the boys looked very good otherwise. They have good morale and they are really working hard."

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 7 (UP)— The U.. Lawn Tennis Association's executive committee today ignored the recommendations of a special committee and voted against sanction of open tournaments which would allow amateurs and professionals to meet each other in regular play.

The five-man special committee, headed by Ed Turnville of St. Petersburg, Fla., promptly resigned. It had studied the question for the past six months and Turville said the committee had talked to players tennis equipment manufacturers, sportswriters and fans, and had found overwhelming sentiment in favor of open tournaments.

However, the ULSTA executive committee, by a reported vote of 20-19, decided against asking the International Tennis Federation to approve open play.

The special committee said Turville, favored open tennis because of two main considerations:

1 — The present state of amateur tennis, in which large sums of expense money are paid to players for participation in tournaments, and

2 — "The intolerable situation ... as we find ourselves developing champions at considerable expense and through the efforts of devoted workers, only to have them turn to professional tennis."

Today's executive committee vote actually was a change in policy for the USLTA, which several times previously has petitioned the world body for approval of an open tournament — the last time in 1933. Each time the international federation has refused.

WHITLOCK CHALLENGED

Stock Cars Running Today

Royce Earl Whitlock's rule at the Twin Cities Speedway faces a serious challenge this afternoon as he shoots for an eighth straight victory in the featured modified stock car race, with out-of-town competition expected to move in to accomplish what a Shreveport racer almost did on the West Monroe track Labor Day.

One hundred and 20 laps of racing has been scheduled for today's show, beginning at 1 o'clock with the time trials. Events include a pair of trophy dashes, three heat races, a consolation event, and two feature races—one for stock and one for modified.

More than 20 cars are expected to participate although two of the four machines that crashed through fences Labor Day won't be able to run today.

Parker, the Shreveport boy who beat Whitlock's time trial record for the speedway last week with a test run of 30.4 seconds for the half mile oval, but wasn't able to outfox Whitlock in the featured race, is expected back today to accomplish the rout of Royce Earl. Parker, who claimed he was here last week as a "scout" of the speedway, is expected to move in with two or three other Shreveport racers.

Whitlock will be running his well known No. 13 '40 Ford in today's modified feature. In addition to Parker, in No. 1 with a Chevrolet body and a GMC motor, other modified challengers are expected to include Dewayne Richardson, in No. 23; "Red" Futch, No. 4; Bob Shoemaker, No. 37; Joe Mallard, No. 101; and possible other Shreveport entries.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

The Brooklyn Dodgers may be aptly named. They may be called the Los Angeles Dodgers without ever going west.

More and more it begins to appear that Brooklyn is considering dodging Los Angeles after all the fuss about moving to the Pacific coast. Dem Bums may stick right where they are—new park, of course.

Somehow, you get the idea the Dodgers worked a confidence game on the Giants to get the Polo Grounders out of New York, leaving the Bums the sole National League representative in the Big Town. With the Giants already tagged for San Francisco, you can get suspicious of the National League as well.

The league may have suddenly decided, on the quiet, of course, not to let Brooklyn's franchise move for fear the league will be shut out of New York entirely. The American League Yankees are already asking baseball law's support in ruling New York their sole territory if the Dodgers follow the Giants west. We believe the National League wants to feel free to put another club in New York when and if the loop goes to ten—or 12—clubs, or if another current member (rumors had it Cincinnati) wants to move to the Big City.

The Giants don't seem to bother about what the Dodgers are going to do. Admittedly, however, the presence of another league member out west will ease schedule woes and travel expenses. Could be the league wants Brooklyn to stand pat and suddenly jump to ten teams, adding Los Angeles and some other big city anxious for a big league franchise.

The longer the Dodgers put off the expected announcement of their move to L. A. the less we expect them to do so.

The Monroe Recreation Department has wrapped up another summer baseball and softball program, its biggest yet. Fifty-five teams played softball in a total of 341 games in which 825 men and boys participated. Little League baseball had 28 teams and 436 boys playing in 171 games. The Southside All-Stars, in addition, won the Louisiana state championship. And the Dixie League enjoyed its first year here for the 13-14-year-olds. Only four teams, but they played 41 games, and Missouri Pacific Eagles won first championship. The grand total of department sponsored softball and baseball—1,321 men and boys participated in 553 games.

With Sam Hanna "somewhere" on vacation, some of his fishing reports that should have appeared in Friday's Comin' Up Afield were sidetracked.

Now Sam has worked up some good sources of information and we'll try to help him out today by squeezing in his belated fishing reports. Hope to be able to get the regular reports back in the usual spot next Friday.

Ferriday—Welton Brabham and son, Jahme, took big string of white perch and bream with worms on Black river a few days ago. Luther A. Jones, "Butch" Jones and Vernon Traxler caught about 200 bream on Lake Louie using worms. E. W. Horton and Wilburn King also worked Lake Louie for 77 bream, one weighing over a pound. George Perry, Dewey Wills and R. T. Bonnett caught 100 bream, catfish and white perch, all medium, at Lake Louie. Squeezing in some hunting—Albert Chapman, Elliot Wiley and "PeeWee" Lowrey took the legal limit of 10 doves apiece on opening day. Van Nelson and party of two also got dove limit first time out. O. T. Oden killed six doves opening day. Other hunting on opening day slow due to rain.

Lake Providence—Dove hunting is taking precedence over fishing, the latter hurt by heavy rain. Nine schoolboys, Jack Shaffer, Bill Richardson, Bill Burton, Billy Regenold, Leon Overby, Jim Baur, Jerry Johnson, Jerry Bayles and Pat Booner, all went out after school Monday evening, each getting his limit, but dove hunting has been poor since. One boy was accidentally shot but not seriously hurt. One boy shot at a dove on the ground, a pellet glancing and hitting Billy Regenold, penetrating the eye lid. Apparently no permament damage to the eye, reports say.

Franklin parish—Ted LeLux, Crowville, was one of many in area to get limit of doves on first day. Bob Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. George Collier and Mrs. Irvin Siles, all of Crowville, took 200 large bream at Yucatan, using catalpa worms. Walter Woods, Winnsboro, and Sonny Woods, Houma, caught 14 large bass below the "Rocks" at Lake Louie, using hula popper. Leo Welch and Jack Givens, Winnsboro, used paw-paw and plunker at East lake to string 13 bass weighing a total of 26 pounds. Joe Dante and Jack Miller, Winnsboro, caught the limit of large bream and some catfish at Lake Louie using red worms and catalpas. Oscar VanMatre, J. J. Stephens and Tom Walters, Winnsboro, caught 17 large white perch in upper Fool river.

Winnfield—Saline lake fishing slacked off. Heavy rain Tuesday raised lake four inches. Artificial red worm still best bait. Roland Holder and Harry Kemper of Shreveport caught limits of bass Monday. Truett Huddleston and Keiffer Blondell, Jonesboro, got nice string of bass Wednesday. Jim Jimmerson, Jonesboro, took 10 bass on artificial red worm. John Wilkerson, Jonesboro, caught eight good-sized bass. White perch being caught in the channel around the duck blinds on shiners at about three-foot depth. Best catch reported by Carl Butler and party of three of Winnfield who took 30 white perch Tuesday. C. E. Sherwood, Winnfield, and Ardis Brewton, Goldonna, both caught white perch limits.

Southeastern Teams Need Experience

By MERCER BAILEY

ATLANTA, Sept. 7 (AP)—Show me a team that must depend on sophomores to win and I'll show you a team that can be beat."

Kentucky football coach Blanton Collier has expressed that opinion and other coaches have said the same thing in different words.

But this year in the Southeastern Conference, it might be more accurate to say: "Show me a team that doesn't use sophomores and I'll show you a team that can be beat."

Almost without exception, SEC teams are short on experienced players and the coaches are looking hopefully toward their sophomores for reserve strength, and in some instances to fill gaping front-line holes.

Tennessee and Florida, with 25 returning lettermen each, Georgia with 22 and Auburn with 20 boast the largest slices of seasoning in the league, but even they feel the need of sophs coming through. Especially Georgia and Auburn, who are counting strongly on first-year men at quarterback.

A lot of the SEC teams will open with sophs in the starting lineup but probably none will be as sophdominated as Georgia Tech. Coach Bobby Dodd very likely will have four or five youngsters lined up for the opening kickoff against Kentucky. And the Wildcats probably will have one or two sophs in their top troops, too.

It takes a real "find" to make a big splash his first varsity year. Latest prime example of a soph who made good his first year is Billy Stacy, the triple-threat quarterback at Mississippi State who made the all-conference team as a soph last year.

The list of promising youngsters in the SEC this year is a long one. Trying to pinpoint those who will become first-year stars is risky business. But certainly Billy Cannon of Louisiana State, Glenn Shaw of Kentucky and Gary O'Steen of Alabama are in fine positions to snare a lot of spectator attention.

All three are backs, all are slated for starting duty and all come equipped with "can't miss" credentials. Cannon and Shaw are halfbacks with high school and freshmen reputations for rolling up spectacular chunks of yardage. O'Steen is a versatile lad 'Bama plans to use at both halfback and quarterback.

A pair of centers, Jackie Burkett of Auburn and Dave Lloyd of Georgia, may well be the stickouts among soph linemen. Not only are they big, sleek bruisers with loads of talent, but their linebacking posts on defense make their exploits easier to spot from the stands. Although both are listed as sophs on the rosters they are in their third college year. Burkett, 6-4 and 225, was held out last season and Lloyd, 6-3 and 220, was forced to serve a year on the B team after transferring to Georgia from Texas Tech, where he lettered as a freshman in '55.

Other first-year varsity men capable of crashing the limelight include:

LOUISIANA TECH'S LEADERS—Tech's Bulldogs will be led by co-captains Billy (Buzz) Bond, Haynesville senior quarterback, and Tommy Hinton, Ruston senior tackle. They are both three-year lettermen and appear headed for their best season yet with the Bulldogs. Hinton was selected for the All-Gulf States Conference team the past two seasons and last fall received honorable mention on the Little All-American team by Associated Press. Tech opens the season at Ruston Saturday night, September 21, against Mississippi Southern College.

DEFENSE NEXT WEEK

Scrimmage Session Closes Week Of Practice At Tech

RUSTON, La., (Special) — Louisiana Tech's first week of fall football drills came to a close yesterday morning with a rugged scrimmage session, the first full - scale contact work since practice began. It was played under controlled game conditions.

The Techsters have two more weeks of practice before they take on Mississippi Southern in the season opener at Tech Stadium Sept. 21.

On tap for the more than 50 grid candidates next week are rugged defensive drills. A bulldog coach remarked that it looks as if the fellows will need plenty of defensive work in the days ahead since Mississippi Southern appears to have another great club this season.

"We feel that the players made good progress during the first week," said head Coach Joe Aillet. He pointed to improved offensive techniques and said he was pleased with the way the freshman backs are fitting into the squad.

Nine backfield men from the 1956 squad are missing and some of the incoming speedsters are slated for plenty of duty before the season is ended.

Coach Aillet reported that offensive line play came along fine during the week and he gave credit to assistant coaches Huey Williamson, Jim Mize and George Doherty for their work in tutoring the linemen.

"We are far from having the team we hope to have," Coach Aillet commented, "but it appears that we have excellent groundwork for the season ahead."

Some rugged competition has been displayed on the practice field for first string berths. The squad has been divided into four teams for practice purposes.

Two other freshmen have been working at fullback with veteran Wayne Bourgeois, a Sulphur junior who has already earned two letters. They are B. K. Miller, chunky 5-6 172 pounder from Sicily Island, and Max Rudd, 180, Minden.

Two lettermen back for right half are Charles Saucier, Shreveport junior, and George (Sonny) Sumlin, Delhi junior. The Bulldogs have another fine freshman prospect for this spot in Billy Hughes, West Monroe.

LA Negotiator Conferring With Walter O'Malley

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7 (AP) — The negotiator representing Los Angeles in its efforts to bring the Brooklyn Dodgers west flew to Wyoming today for a brass tacks talk with vacationing Dodger president Walter O'Malley.

Businessman Harold C. McClellan carried a brief case bulging with plans and data as he took off to track O'Malley to his hunting and fishing lair near Rawlings Wyo.

McClellan declined to comment on any specific proposal he may have to present to the Dodger president. But he expressed concern over the rising tide of criticism directed at O'Malley by Los Angeles residents who feel he is playing the city off against New York in an effort to get himself a better deal to remain in Brooklyn.

"If Mr. O'Malley is to bring the Dodgers to Los Angeles I feel he should have the good graces of the community and not be discredited in advance," McClellan said.

Sievers Socks Home Run 36 For Senators

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)—Whitey Ford pitched the New York Yankees to a steady eight-hit 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators today, suffering his only damage when Roy Sievers hit his 36th homer of the year in the ninth inning.

It was Ford's first start in more than three weeks, since he hurt his left shoulder in the second inning on Aug. 14 pitching against Boston. He aced himself to his ninth triumph of the year against four losses.

The Yanks rapped out 11 hits as they finally turned on the pesky Senators who had beaten them five out of the last six games before today.

Pedro Ramos started and gave up all four Yankee runs in the 5 2-3 innings he pitched. The loss was his 14th against 11 victories.

Sievers, leading the American League in homers, also strengthened his league lead in runs batted in, driving in his 99th of the season. The big Washington slugger has hit seven homers against the Yankee pitching this year and has driven in 20 runs against the champions.

Tournure First In Manchester; Navarette 2nd

SALEM, N.H., Sept. 7 (AP)—Mrs. J. M. Branham's Tournure, with Davey Deroin up, came from last in a field of six and won the $10,000 Manchester Handicap today at Rockingham Park.

It was a popular victory after a hard ride for the crowd of 16,758 had installed the 4-year-old filly the even money favorite in the mile and one-sixteenth event.

J. and P. Venuti's Hare Raising led for the first mile, but with the finish approaching, Tournure started to pick up horses. She won with a half-length advantage over Reynolds Brothers' Navarette. Bonanza Miss finished third.

Tournure went the distance in the slow time of 1:44.2 and paid $4.00, $2.80, and $2.40. Navarette paid $6.40 and $4.80, and Bonanza Miss $4.60.

Porker Defense Isn't Adequate, Declares Coach

Although the Reds won 31-7, Mitchell told newsmen he wasn't primarily concerned with the score. Besides, he pointed out, the Red team was loaded with first and second stringers.

"Our defense didn't look too sharp to me," Mitchell said.

"However, the boys looked very good otherwise. They have good morale and they are really working hard."

Mexicali Quits, Can't Pay Players

MEXICALI, Mex., Sept. 7 (AP)—The Mexicali Eagles dropped out of the Class C Arizona-Mexico Baseball League today.

Club President Fausto Topete said the club could not finish the season because of financial troubles

Mexicali players, claiming they had not seen their pay checks in over a month, refused to take the field against Douglas last night.

Topete met with player representatives today but said he couldn't meet the payroll now. All games remaining on the Mexicali schedule will be forfeited. The A-M season has only eight days remaining.

League President Chuck Hollinger said the loop could do nothing about the situation.

Mexicali's cash deposit with the National Association will cover two week's back salaries for the players and will be turned over to them after the season, Hollinger said.

WHITLOCK CHALLENGED

Stock Cars Running Today

Royce Earl Whitlock's rule at the Twin Cities Speedway faces a serious challenge this afternoon as he shoots for an eighth straight victory in the featured modified stock car race, with out-of-town competition expected to move in to accomplish what a Shreveport racer almost did on the West Monroe track Labor Day.

One hundred and 20 laps of racing has been scheduled for today's show, beginning at 1 o'clock with the time trials. Events include a pair of trophy dashes, three heat races, a consolation event, and two feature races—one for stock and one for modified.

More than 20 cars are expected to participate although two of the four machines that crashed through fences Labor Day won't be able to run today.

Parker, the Shreveport boy who beat Whitlock's time trial record for the speedway last week with a test run of 30.4 seconds for the half mile oval, but wasn't able to outfox Whitlock in the featured race, is expected back today to accomplish the rout of Royce Earl. Parker, who claimed he was here last week as a "scout" of the speedway, is expected to move in with two or three other Shreveport racers.

Whitlock will be running his well known No. 13 '40 Ford in today's modified feature. In addition to Parker, in No. 1 with a Chevrolet body and a GMC motor, other modified challengers are expected to include Dewayne Richardson, in No. 23; "Red" Futch, No. 4; Bob Shoemaker, No. 37; Joe Mallard, No. 101; and possible other Shreveport entries.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

JAKE'S USUAL START

Some people just naturally seem to do better in the clutch or under pressure or whatever you want to call it.

For instance, guys like Yogi Berra of the Yankees, Ted Williams of the Red Sox, and Don Carter of the St. Louis Budweisers . . . all real pressure guys.

Monroe kegler, J. C. Holloway, who now does his bowling for Neon Sign Company is like that, only "Jake" is at his best in setting an average for the new bowling season.

The first night everyone bowls scratch to set an average. The average is bowled to determine the handicap. The handicap is figured from 70 per cent of 200.

Let's say you roll games of 173, 170 and 160. That would give you a 504 series. Dividing the number of pins knocked down by the number of games bowled (3) would give you a 168 average. A 168 average fits into 75 per cent of the average American bowlers so a 168 isn't too bad. As a matter of fact that's a pretty good average—that is for everyone except J. C. "Jake" Holloway.

It seems that Jake can do nothing wrong that first night. I remember back in 1954 when Jake was bowling for Bill Bennett's Pan-Am Station. That very first night he bowled a terrific 276 game and an enormous 677 series. The series stood the rest of the season as best of the year. The 276 game was knocked down by Ray Olsen who turned in the highest sanctioned game ever bowled in Monroe, a 297.

Last Monday night Jake did it again—only this time it was a fat 258 game and a series that may well be high for the year, a 645. Congratulations, Jake! I hope you can hold that average!

STRIKES AND SPARES

Spatafora's Pharmacy, winner of eight straight points thus far, may well be on the way to another runaway in the Ladies League. Daisy Creighton, Totsie Shoemaker, Bennie Mallery, Ora Lee Johnson and Myrtle Draughn make up this fine team. Last season the girls finished 16½ points ahead of their nearest rival. Myrtle Draughn, who bowls anchor, tossed a 201 game and a 569 series the past week. It's no wonder they keep winning.

Mack Taylor, bowling for McKenzie's Sport Shop, continued to maul the maple. Mack bowled a 593 series and a 222 game during the week.

Hollis Greene, a newcomer in local bowling circles, showed fine form and a striking ball as he bowled a 212 game and a 595 series for Pan-Am in the Kegler League. We'll probably hear a lot from this boy.

Smith Oil Company grabbed the lead in the Industrial League over Louisiana Power and Light. J. Albritton did some fancy bowling for the Oilers, turning in a 216 game and a 601 series.

The University of Kansas claims the largest rental bowling shoes in use today—a pair of size sixteen for Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlin, an ardent bowling fan.

Don Carter was named bowler of the year by the Bowling Writers Association of America. This was the third time for Don. The first bowler to gain the men's honor three times since the award's inception in 1942.

NEW PUNCH READY FOR BASILIO

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y., Sept. 7 (UP)— The "one-two-three" punch replaced the ancient one-two today when Ray Robinson sparred four rounds in preparation for his middleweight championship defense against welterweight king Carmen Basilio on Sept. 23. Robinson, boxing two rounds each with Lee Williams, of New York and Jimmy Taylor, of Wilmington, Del. displayed a new combination which he admitted was "something special" designed for the shorter Basilio. Basilio is 5 feet, 7 1-2 inches tall, Robinson, 5 feet, 11 inches. Both Williams and Taylor are built along Basilio's lines.

NBA Considers Fight Law

By GENE MEAKINS

DENVER, Sept. 7 (UP)—Professional boxing may boycott Louisiana and other areas where bouts between races are prohibited unless such a proposal is killed during the 38th annual National Boxing Association convention opening at Denver Monday

The president of the NBA, Floyd Stevens of Detroit, has acknowledged that some segments of the expected 250 delegates want to oust states and cities where bouts between races are prohibited. He specifically mentioned Louisiana's law prohibiting "mixed" athletic events, and pointed out that some colleges have put the boycott into effect in other sports.

Stevens, who is also a Michigan state boxing commissioner, said the three-day convention, ending Wednesday noon, probably would also take up the NBA's membership in the World Championship Committee.

He said some factions within the NBA want to withdraw from the WCC because the committee selected Julius Helfand, a member of the New York State Athletic Commission, as its president. New York has refused to join the NBA.

The NBA is expected to "draft" Stevens for a second term as president, although Gilbert Jackson, NBA first vice president from Wisconsin's Athletic Commission, is in line to succeed him. Jackson has missed several important executive meetings during the past year, and has not been very active in NBA affairs.

Delegates from throughout the United States, Canada, Central and South America will be here for the meetings. Two sessions will be held Monday and Tuesday, with one on Wednesday.

Garris-Helms Bout Added To Kallio Boxing Program

A four - round go between Monroe's Dewayne Garris and O. J. Helms of Tyler, Texas, a couple of lightheavies, has been added to the Ken Gray - Johnny Hunt fight card, Promoter Gus Kallio announced yesterday.

This city's first professional boxing event since last year, the Gray - Hunt program will be staged at Kallio's Arena September 17.

Three other four - round bouts will be added to the card.

Garris will be seeing his first action since he appeared in a preliminary bout on the Martinez - Cook card last December. Garris, weighing around 158 at that time, fought as a middleweight in at about 170 lb. for the fight with Helms.

A veteran of about 18 fights as a professional, Garris first gained notice as an amateur fighting out of Farmerville. Kallo says Garris is a tough boy over the four - round route.

Helms is not too well known around here, confining most of his action around his native Tyler. He's never appeared in Monroe and saw his latest action about 3 weeks ago i na four-rounder in Tyler.

Also expected to weight in at 170, Helms jumped right into the pro ranks without the benefit of much amateur work.

Tickets for the fight card are currently on sale at Kallio's Arena. First four rows seats are going for $2 each with general admission ducats selling for $1.50. Children under 12 can get in for $.50 but no $.50 ticket holders can sit in the reserved section.

Wallick, LaRance Battle 2 Curtis Boys Monday Night

The semi - final affair of the two bout card has the masked Mysterious Link trading holds with Earl Guess in a one hour or less match with 2 falls needed to win. The main event will be over the 90 - minute route with 2 falls to win.

Allen "Sailor" Parker, one - time wrestler and veteran referee, will officiate the night's bouts.

Wallick's performance last week against Jack Curtis, Jr. must have sold LaRance on the boy from Shelby, Montana. A few weeks ago Wallick was to have teamed with Jules and another grappler in a 6 - man tag match but La Rance turned Wallick down.

However, the fight Wallick waged against the younger Curtis last week must have convinced Jules that Leo was a good man to have in his corner. The Wallick - Curtis bout ended with in a brawl with both wrestlers slugging it out and referee Parker taking his share of the licks too.

After that exhibition, it should be clear that no love is lost between Wallick and Curtis. Leo started the bout off as a gentleman but ended up as a thug of the first order in the eyes of local fans.

That mean man from Montreal, Jules LaRance, took a licking last week when he tangled with the Mysterious Link. The Link's head proved harder than Jules's and the Canadian was counted out when he and his opponent butted heads.

LaRance protested that the Link had a steel plate in his hood but the verdict stood. The Link will need a steel plate Monday night because opponent Earl Guess is a guy that "don't take nothin' from nobody."

The tall grappler from Jackson is well liked in Monroe and should give the Link a tough fight but, going by past records, the Mysterious Link should be the winner.

Moore's Bat Kept Dallas' Club In Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The steadily improving batting of husky Wilcy Moore is one reason why Dallas has kept its lead in last weeks of the Texas League race.

Staging a late season drive, Moore has climbed above the .300 mark in the individual batting race, currently hitting .305 for third place.

The 27 - year - old outfielder seems a cinch to wind up with a better than .300 mark. He hit .285 with Dallas last year.

Jim Frey of Tulsa appears to have the individual batting title sewed up. Frey has a .336 average and has kept plenty of distance behind him with his steady play. His mark 25 points better than second place Nelson Burbrink of Houston, .311.

Those three are the only regulars batting above .300.

Keith Little and Ben Valenzuela lead the home run department, Little with 30 and Valenzuela with 24.

Spencer Robbins has batted in 94 runs to lead that department, followed by Valenzuela with 88.

Frey leads in doubles with 49 and is tied with Charles Oertel for the triples lead with 10.

Young Tommy Bowers, 23, is the best bet to reach 20 wins.

He has a 19 - 8 record to lead the league's hurlers in the latest weekly statistics. Right behind him with a 17-6 record is Ernie Broglio, also of Dallas.

Tommy Hughes of Houston leads in percentage with a .765 mark on his 13-4 record.

Other top hurlers include Charlie Fowler of Dallas 13 - 5, Phil Clark of Hous on 15-6, Howie Nunn of Houston 15-7 and Roger Aldridge of Oklahoma City 14-6.

What's His Line?

Jim Robinson

Here's the answer.

He is the man who likes to make people happy with extra cash to pay bills, make new purchases, or take care of expenses.

People in every walk of life see him for amounts ranging from $50 to $1500. Loans are made on signature or other plan. Fast, one-visit service assured. Everyone treated with courtesy and respect.

Argentine Title Hopeful Favored To Beat Holman

By FRANK PITMAN

DENVER, Sept. 7 (AP)—Alex Miteff, rugged 22-year-old heavyweight from Argentina who beats a devastating carioca with his fists, hopes for a short night's work Tuesday against veteran Johnny Holman of Chicago.

They're scheduled for 10 rounds fight will not be televised or broadcast.

Miteff, a cautious talker on the subject of his fighting, acknowledged "I don't like to work too much." That was as close as he'd come to saying whether or when he'd dispose of Holman.

Fans who've watched the husky from Buenos Aires work out here are predicting a victory for him against Holman, who was ranked No. 5 among the heavyweights after he stopped Ezzard Charles in the ninth on April 9, 1955.

Holman, 6-foot-2, 205-pounder, isn't ranked now. His 31-15-1 record includes 18 knockout victories. He's been stopped five times, the latest on Oct. 24, 1956, by Eddie Machen.

Miteff, undefeated and on his way up, is ranked eighth by the National Boxing Association and 10th by Ring magazine. He's won 11 pro fights after a brilliant amateur career, climaxed by winning the Pan American heavyweight crown in 1955. His three bouts this year include knockout victories over Julio Mederos and Fernando Fala and a decision over Willi Besmanoff.

Miteff told reporters he hopes to win the heavyweight title and make enough money to start him in the home construction business in Argentina.

Sparring partners who've worked against him here expect Miteff to go far. They say the 202-pourd Argentine packs a terrific wallop in short right and left hooks.

He bobs, weaves and dances around the ring in a style reminiscent of Jack Dempsey. "He moves like a leopard," said one partner. "He's real fast; you'd think he was a lightweight," said another.

"I like to fight," Miteff admits.

Asked about his championship hopes, Miteff said: "Not only do I want to win it for my country, but I'd like to do it for Freddie, he's done so much for me."

He was referring to Fred Fierro, Miteff's trainer whose long career has included the training of Billy Conn.

Fierro thinks "Alex is one of the greatest. This boy's going places, he said.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 (UP)— Southern Association play-offs will open Monday (Sept. 9) barring a tie, league president Charlie Hurth announced today.

Play-off games are scheduled to start in the cities which end up in first and second place. After two games are played in those cities the series will move to the home cities of the third and fourth finishing clubs for three more games, if needed. The club that finishes first will play the team that finished fourth, number two finisher meets the third place team.

In event of a final day tie after Sunday's games the pennant will be settled by a best two out of three play off series. A tie for any other first division spot will be settled by a one-game playoff.

Helms is not too well known around here, confining most of his action around his native Tyler. He's never appeared in Monroe and saw his latest action about 3 weeks ago i na four-rounder in Tyler.

Also expected to weight in at 170, Helms jumped right into the pro ranks without the benefit of much amateur work.

Tickets for the fight card are currently on sale at Kallio's Arena. First four rows seats are going for $2 each with general admission ducats selling for $1.50. Children under 12 can get in for $.50 but no $.50 ticket holders can sit in the reserved section.

Wallick, LaRance Battle 2 Curtis Boys Monday Night

The semi - final affair of the two bout card has the masked Mysterious Link trading holds with Earl Guess in a one hour or less match with 2 falls needed to win. The main event will be over the 90 - minute route with 2 falls to win.

Allen "Sailor" Parker, one - time wrestler and veteran referee, will officiate the night's bouts.

Wallick's performance last week against Jack Curtis, Jr. must have sold LaRance on the boy from Shelby, Montana. A few weeks ago Wallick was to have teamed with Jules and another grappler in a 6 - man tag match but La Rance turned Wallick down.

However, the fight Wallick waged against the younger Curtis last week must have convinced Jules that Leo was a good man to have in his corner. The Wallick - Curtis bout ended with in a brawl with both wrestlers slugging it out and referee Parker taking his share of the licks too.

After that exhibition, it should be clear that no love is lost between Wallick and Curtis. Leo started the bout off as a gentleman but ended up as a thug of the first order in the eyes of local fans.

That mean man from Montreal, Jules LaRance, took a licking last week when he tangled with the Mysterious Link. The Link's head proved harder than Jules's and the Canadian was counted out when he and his opponent butted heads.

LaRance protested that the Link had a steel plate in his hood but the verdict stood. The Link will need a steel plate Monday night because opponent Earl Guess is a guy that "don't take nothin' from nobody."

The tall grappler from Jackson is well liked in Monroe and should give the Link a tough fight but, going by past records, the Mysterious Link should be the winner.

Moore's Bat Kept Dallas' Club In Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The steadily improving batting of husky Wilcy Moore is one reason why Dallas has kept its lead in last weeks of the Texas League race.

Staging a late season drive, Moore has climbed above the .300 mark in the individual batting race, currently hitting .305 for third place.

The 27 - year - old outfielder seems a cinch to wind up with a better than .300 mark. He hit .285 with Dallas last year.

Jim Frey of Tulsa appears to have the individual batting title sewed up. Frey has a .336 average and has kept plenty of distance behind him with his steady play. His mark 25 points better than second place Nelson Burbrink of Houston, .311.

Those three are the only regulars batting above .300.

Keith Little and Ben Valenzuela lead the home run department, Little with 30 and Valenzuela with 24.

Spencer Robbins has batted in 94 runs to lead that department, followed by Valenzuela with 88.

Frey leads in doubles with 49 and is tied with Charles Oertel for the triples lead with 10.

Young Tommy Bowers, 23, is the best bet to reach 20 wins.

He has a 19 - 8 record to lead the league's hurlers in the latest weekly statistics. Right behind him with a 17-6 record is Ernie Broglio, also of Dallas.

Tommy Hughes of Houston leads in percentage with a .765 mark on his 13-4 record.

Other top hurlers include Charlie Fowler of Dallas 13 - 5, Phil Clark of Hous on 15-6, Howie Nunn of Houston 15-7 and Roger Aldridge of Oklahoma City 14-6.

Nelson Chittum of Houston is the strikeout leader with 139.

COOPER MEETS ANDERSON

All-Australian Finals Set In Forest Hills' Tourney

By OSCAR FRALEY

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 7 (UP)—Somber Ashley Cooper and rangey Malcolm Anderson smashed their way to the second straight all-Australian final in the U.S. Amateur tennis championships today, while Wimbledon queen Althea Gibson and former champion Louise Brough gained the women's championship round.

The dour Cooper, a school teacher's son, made it four years in a row that an Australian has been in the finals as he scored a decisive but hard-fought victory over Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-1, 7-5, 6-4. The top seeded Cooper reached the finals without loss of a set throughout.

Anderson, an unseeded 22-year-old cattleman, joined his fellow clouter from under the Southern Cross in the finals by knocking off Sweden's third-seeded Sven Davidson, 5-7, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. Cooper's three-set win took one hour and 16 minutes while Anderson required one hour and 36 minutes to take his five-set match.

Althea Gibson, first Negro ever to win at Wimbledon, and Miss Brough also reached the finals without having lost a set enroute. Althea took her semi-final hurdle with a 6-2, 6-2 conquest of Mrs. Dorothy Knode of New York. Miss Brough, the 1947 winner, eliminated Darlene Hard of El Centro, Calif., 6-2, 6-4.

The day's big match, however, was that between Cooper and Flam.

Flam, whose aggravation at being originally left off the Davis Cup team inspired him to an upset win over veteran Vic Seixas Friday, gave it a game try today. But while he made it extremely close at times, in the end he simply couldn't cope with the superior speed and firepower of the top-seeded Aussie.

Dagoon Takes Chicago 'Cap; Lucky Is 2nd

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP) — E. Gay Drake's Dogoon won the $29,950 Chicago Handicap at Hawthorne for the second straight year today, equalling the track record of 1:35 1-5 for the mile turf run.

Dogoon was ridden by L. C. Cook and finished 3½ lengths in front of Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Call Me Lucky with Henry D. Maggio's Kope's Hope third.

Dogoon took an early lead and no horse in the field of 11 challenged him at any time. The track record was set by Insepararable in 1952.

Six thoroughbreds were scratched including Dogoon's stablemate and brother Swoon's Son who was to have carried top weight of 128 pounds.

The victory was worth $20,850 for Dogoon who returned $16.20, $9.60 and $6.60. Call Me Lucky paid $6.80 and $4.80 and Kope's Hoep paid $4.

The crowd of 19,846 made Fesin, owned by the McMillan - Dante stable, a 3-1 choice but the Argentine - bred horse never was a factor.

Mrs. A. M. Creech's Hoop Ring was second most of the way but faltered near the end and finished fourth. Mahan was fifth followed by Festin Warbler, Ambor Reigh, Royal Legion, Otomana and El-Zahbi.

PIERCE WINS 19TH

Aparicio Slugs As Chisox Defeat A's

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (UP)—Luis Aparicio, who hasn't hit a home run all year, smashed two of them today to lead the Chicago White Sox to an 8-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics and give Billy Pierce his 19th win.

The second place Sox thus remained 4½ games behind the New York Yankees.

Aparicio, who wound up the day with three for five and drove in four runs, began his spree in the first inning with a leadoff inside-the-park homer. The ball dropped just inside the right field foul line and, when Lou Skizas missed a diving stab, roll'ed to the wall.

Aparicio's second hit was a third inning single, again off A's starter and loser Arnie Portocarrero. Aparicio's third hit, his fist ins de-the-stands homer in Comiskey Park, came off reliever Al Aber, and climaxed the Sox' six-run fourth inning.

Indian Relief Twins Bail Out Garcia To Top Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 7 (UP)—The Cleveland Indians' relief twins—southpaw Don Mossi and Ray Narleski—bailed out starter Mike Garcia in the eighth inning today and the Indians held their margin to edge the Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

But despite the victory, the Indians, who finished second last year, were mathematically eliminated from the American League pennant, joining Washington, Kansas City and Baltimore.

Narleski retired Jim Finigan on a short fly with Harvey Kuenn on second with the tying run in the eighth. The Tigers scored twice in the seventh to cut Cleveland's lead to 5-2 and added another pair in the eighth.

Packers Beat Giants, 13-10, In Exhibition

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The rejuvenated Green Bay Packers defeated the world champion New York Giants 13-10 tonight on the sure kicking of Fred Cone, timely pass interceptions and some bold quarterback work.

A missed 38-yard field goal attempt by New York's Don Chandler less than two minutes from the final gun assured the unbeaten Packers their fourth straight National Football League exhibition victory.

New York has won three and lost two of its contests since whipping the College All-Stars.

Cone's second field goal at 3:26 of the fourth period, a 30-yard boot, settled matters. It came nine plays after Nate Borden, formerly of Indiana, picked off a Don Heinrich pass on the Giants' 45.

LINDY RELIEVES VON

Cards Win, 7-4, Over Cincinnati

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7 (UP)—Lindy McDaniel came to the rescue of brother Von today and pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-4 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The Redbirds backed Lindy with a 12-hit attack, including home runs by Del Ennis and Wally Moon — their 20th and 19th respectively.

The win boosted Lindy's season mark to 13-8, tieing him with Larry Jackson, the Cards winningest pitcher. He walked two batters in the ninth and Billy Muffett came in to retire Wally Post for the final out.

Von was wobbly from the start. The Redlegs touched him for one run in the first on a walk, Frank Robinson's double, an intentional pass and Wally Post's sacrifice fly.

Then Thomas singled home Virdon and Skinner came home after Mazeroski flied out to right.

IRISH REBUILDING

Miami, Navy Look Strong Among Independent Clubs

By BOB HOOBING
The Associated Press

Miami and Navy seek a slice of the national football pie while Notre Dame starts the long trek back from its worst season in history.

That, in a nutshell, is the outlook for the major independent college teams in the approaching gridiron campaign.

The University of Pittsburgh, a bowl participant for the past two years, figures to be a step below the Hurricanes and Midshipmen on the basis of a murderous schedule. The Panthers open against defending national champion Oklahoma.

At Coral Gables and Annapolis, outstanding records are expected in the event a few "ifs" are resolved favorably.

Miami boosters remember last year, however, when Coach Andy Gustafson's sophomore - laden crew turned predictions of a "building" season into an 8-1-1 performance.

Added incentive has been provided by recent N. C. A. A. action lifting a ban on bowl games which was imposed on Miami two years ago for code violations.

Halfback John Varone from Boston will be the main cog in Gustafson's "drive series" offense. The quarterback chores will be divided among junior Bonnie Yarbrough and sophs Maury Guttman and Fran Curi.

Improved Hurricane Passing could give enemy defenses fits. Yarbrough and Curi throw their running passes lefthanded, Guttman is an ambidexterous aerialist while halfback Joe Plevel is a righthanded thrower.

Navy's biggest worry as it enters its 75th year of inter-collegiate competition is overconfidence. zNumber ing seven starters among the 16 lettermen available, the Middies ended spring practice early because Coach Eddie Erdelatz said "we accomplished our mission." Erdelatz called it "the best spring practice we ever had.

The Middies have depth and the one sof spot — center — was filled by the transfer of 235 pound junior Bob Reifsnyder from tackle. He anchors a line averaging 213 pounds — heaviest in academy history.

Top ground gainer Ned Oldham is back along with flea - sized fullback who tied the 7-7 tie with Army last year, and quarterback Tom Forrestal who ranked 17th nationally as a passer.

Navy brass has not forgotten the ballyhoo - bust of 1944 when the sailors were frequent picks for top national billing. The Middies stumbled over North Carolina preflight and the passing of Otto Graham, 21-14, in the opener. Several weeks later Georgia Tech's Dink Bowne beat them on a field goal 17-15 and Army applied the crusher 23-7.

Signs are encouraging at Notre Dame where the only direction is up following a disastrous 2-8 campaign. Coach Terry Brennan is sure the Irish luck will prevent a which hit the '56 club.

But the schedule is plainly brutal — Purdue, Indiana, Army, Pitt, Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma, Iow Southern California, Southern Methodist. In addition, quarterback Paul Hornung and halfback Jim Morse are gone.

Of the 21 lettermen available, all were plagued by injuries last year. Outstanding guard Al Ecuyer played every game as a soph despite a dislocated thumb, bruised shoulder and sprained ankle.

In Brennan's own words:

"We will have more experience than a year ago, but still lack the depth so necessary to play the type of schedule attempted by Notre Dame every year . . . All in all, it is not a year to be making too many predictions. What is needed are some victories."

Pitt, fresh from its best season since 1938, will field another fine club headed by 222 pound center Charley Brueckman. The record may not prove it, however, after the Panthers run headlong into Oklahoma followed by Oregon, U.S.C. Nebraska, Army, Notre Dame, Syracuse, West Virginia, Penn State and Miami.

At Army, backfield material is plentiful but the line has been shredded by graduations. A major objective will be the Notre Dame renewing a series broken off after 1947.

Guard Stan Slater and center Jim Kernan are the only regulars returning to the Army forward wall. For the first time in three years, the Cadets won't have to experiment at quarterback. Dave Bourland is a seasoned campaigner. Backfield mates Mike Morales, Gill Roseler and Vince Barta also are set. The knee of swift Gene Mi..elonis remains a question.

College of the Pacific, fourth in total offense a year ago, has lettermen for e very position and a line averaging 217 pounds.

Junior Dick Bass ran up 116 yards for each of four games before injured in '56 and still wound up 36th in rushing. Quarterback Tom Flores finished fourth in total offense and eighth in passing. End Farrell Funston was ninth in pass receiving.

Syracuse, voted best in the east last fall, can only go down after the loss of All - America halfback Jim Brown.

In New England, Holy Cross promises fine things now that depth and speed have been added. Guard Jim Healy, end Dave Stecchi, fullback Dick Surrette and quarterback Tome Greene head the roster.

Boston College has a hefty schedule to go with solid material. Boston University is building.

In its third year of competition, the Air Force academy is not likely to duplicate last season's 6-2-1 mark against a higher calibre of opposition. The Falcons' key operatives are fullback Larry Thompson, halfback Mickey Gouyd, quarterback Ed Rosane and Brock Storm, moved from center to tackle.

Marquette, Dayton, Detroit, Rutgers and Temple will improve on last year's showings while Florida State, Villanova, Mississippi Southern and Colgate figure to finish about the same.

Marquette, whose 0-9 record in '56 was the poorest on its books, is looking up. Among the 46 promising sophomores on the 59 player squad is halfback Jim Webster, brother of the professional New York Giants' Alex. Jim was the leading ball carrier in the spring game.

Old Pueblo Captures Del Mar Futurity

DEL MAR, Calif., Sept. 7 (AP)—Old Pueblo made his only Del Mar appearance a winning one today in capturing the $64,680 added Del Mar Futurity over a field of six other 2-year-olds.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who flew from the east to ride the winner, kept Old Pueblo close to the pace and moved him into the lead in the final eighth. The winner finished a length and a half over Disdainful. Strong Bay was third, three and a quarter lengths in front of Lucky H. L. Flashy Token, Real Brass and Count Indigo finished in that order. Rebel Rob was scratched.

Old Pueblo netted $40,570 from the gross purse of $64,680. Disdainful picked up $10,000 and Strong Day $7,000.

RAINED OUT LAST NIGHT

Northeast Indians In For Rough Practice This Week

Northeast State's first full scale grid scrimmage of their fall practice session was rained out last night but Coach Devone Payne hopes to get into some really rough work this week.

The Indians had a little contact work Thursday but Payne had been planning on getting a good look at his boys under game conditions last night before a cold, November-type rain spoiled things.

Timing came in for most of the attention in last week's sessions but the emphasis will be on the rougher side of things this week. Next week the Indians will ease up on the rough stuff a little and polish up for their opener at Stephen F. Austin Sept. 21.

Payne and assistants Bob DeMoss, George Luffey and Lou Hartzog have been working with 49 players. Seventeen of them are returning lettermen from last year's squad with two monogram earners from the 1953 eleven, end Jim Knox and fullback Lloyd Ray Smith, are back, just having gotten out of service.

Fifteen freshmen are working out including a couple of giant tackles, Ted Call of Rockyford, Colorado, conservatively listed at 260 pounds, and Duane Storms. Storms, from Ferriday, has just finished five years in the Army and weighs 240.

COOPER MEETS ANDERSON

All-Australian Finals Set In Forest Hills' Tourney

By OSCAR FRALEY

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 7 (UP)—Somber Ashley Cooper and rangey Malcolm Anderson smashed their way to the second straight all-Australian final in the U.S. Amateur tennis championships today, while Wimbledon queen Althea Gibson and former champion Louise Brough gained the women's championship round.

The dour Cooper, a school teacher's son, made it four years in a row that an Australian has been in the finals as he scored a decisive but hard-fought victory over Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-1, 7-5, 6-4. The top seeded Cooper reached the finals without loss of a set throughout.

Anderson, an unseeded 22-year-old cattleman, joined his fellow clouter from under the Southern Cross in the finals by knocking off Sweden's third-seeded Sven Davidson, 5-7, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. Cooper's three-set win took one hour and 16 minutes while Anderson required one hour and 36 minutes to take his five-set match.

Althea Gibson, first Negro ever to win at Wimbledon, and Miss Brough also reached the finals without having lost a set enroute. Althea took her semi-final hurdle with a 6-2, 6-2 conquest of Mrs. Dorothy Knode of New York. Miss Brough, the 1947 winner, eliminated Darlene Hard of El Centro, Calif., 6-2, 6-4.

The day's big match, however, was that between Cooper and Flam.

Flam, whose aggravation at being originally left off the Davis Cup team inspired him to an upset win over veteran Vic Seixas Friday, gave it a game try today. But while he made it extremely close at times, in the end he simply couldn't cope with the superior speed and firepower of the top-seeded Aussie.

Dagoon Takes Chicago 'Cap; Lucky Is 2nd

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (AP) — E. Gay Drake's Dogoon won the $29,950 Chicago Handicap at Hawthorne for the second straight year today, equalling the track record of 1:35 1-5 for the mile turf run.

Dogoon was ridden by L. C. Cook and finished 3½ lengths in front of Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Call Me Lucky with Henry D. Maggio's Kope's Hope third.

Dogoon took an early lead and no horse in the field of 11 challenged him at any time. The track record was set by Insepararable in 1952.

Six thoroughbreds were scratched including Dogoon's stablemate and brother Swoon's Son who was to have carried top weight of 128 pounds.

The victory was worth $20,850 for Dogoon who returned $16.20, $9.60 and $6.60. Call Me Lucky paid $6.80 and $4.80 and Kope's Hoep paid $4.

The crowd of 19,846 made Fesin, owned by the McMillan - Dante stable, a 3-1 choice but the Argentine - bred horse never was a factor.

Mrs. A. M. Creech's Hoop Ring was second most of the way but faltered near the end and finished fourth. Mahan was fifth followed by Festin Warbler, Ambor Reigh, Royal Legion, Otomana and El-Zahbi.

PIERCE WINS 19TH

Aparicio Slugs As Chisox Defeat A's

CHICAGO, Sept. 7 (UP)—Luis Aparicio, who hasn't hit a home run all year, smashed two of them today to lead the Chicago White Sox to an 8-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics and give Billy Pierce his 19th win.

The second place Sox thus remained 4½ games behind the New York Yankees.

Aparicio, who wound up the day with three for five and drove in four runs, began his spree in the first inning with a leadoff inside-the-park homer. The ball dropped just inside the right field foul line and, when Lou Skizas missed a diving stab, rolled to the wall.

Aparicio's second hit was a third inning single, again off A's starter and loser Arnie Portocarrero. Aparicio's third hit, his fist inside-the-stands homer in Comiskey Park, came off reliever Al Aber, and climaxed the Sox' six-run fourth inning.

Indian Relief Twins Bail Out Garcia To Top Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 7 (UP)—The Cleveland Indians' relief twins—southpaw Don Mossi and Ray Narleski—bailed out starter Mike Garcia in the eighth inning today and the Indians held their margin to edge the Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

But despite the victory, the Indians, who finished second last year, were mathematically eliminated from the American League pennant, joining Washington, Kansas City and Baltimore.

Narleski retired Jim Finigan on a short fly with Harvey Kuenn on second with the tying run in the eighth. The Tigers scored twice in the seventh to cut Cleveland's lead to 5-2 and added another pair in the eighth.

Packers Beat Giants, 13-10, In Exhibition

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON, Sept. 7 (AP)—The rejuvenated Green Bay Packers defeated the world champion New York Giants 13-10 tonight on the sure kicking of Fred Cone, timely pass interceptions and some bold quarterback work.

A missed 38-yard field goal attempt by New York's Don Chandler less than two minutes from the final gun assured the unbeaten Packers their fourth straight National Football League exhibition victory.

New York has won three and lost two of its contests since whipping the College All-Stars.

Cone's second field goal at 3:26 of the fourth period, a 30-yard boot, settled matters. It came nine plays after Nate Borden, formerly of Indiana, picked off a Don Heinrich pass on the Giants' 45.

LINDY RELIEVES VON

Cards Win, 7-4, Over Cincinnati

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7 (UP)—Lindy McDaniel came to the rescue of brother Von today and pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-4 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

The Redbirds backed Lindy with a 12-hit attack, including home runs by Del Ennis and Wally Moon — their 20th and 19th respectively.

The win boosted Lindy's season mark to 13-8, tieing him with Larry Jackson, the Cards winningest pitcher. He walked two batters in the ninth and Billy Muffett came in to retire Wally Post for the final out.

Von was wobbly from the start. The Redlegs touched him for one run in the first on a walk, Frank Robinson's double, an intentional pass and Wally Post's sacrifice fly.

Pirates Extend Win Streak With 6-3 Nod Over Phillies

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 7 (UP)—Frank Thomas and Bill Mazeroski each drove in two runs today to help the Pittsburgh Pirates extend their victory streak through four games with a 6-3 decision over the Philadelphia Phils.

The Pirates broke a 1-1 tie in the third inning by scoring three runs off loser Jack Sanford after the bases were loaded. Roberto Clemente and Dick Groat each beat slow rollers with Bill Virdon walking in between. Bob Skinner forced Groat at second and Clemente scored. Then Thomas singled home Virdon and Skinner came home after Mazeroski flied out to right.

IRISH REBUILDING

Miami, Navy Look Strong Among Independent Clubs

By BOB HOOBING
The Associated Press

Miami and Navy seek a slice of the national football pie while Notre Dame starts the long trek back from its worst season in history.

That, in a nutshell, is the outlook for the major independent college teams in the approaching gridiron campaign.

The University of Pittsburgh, a bowl participant for the past two years, figures to be a step below the Hurricanes and Midshipmen on the basis of a murderous schedule. The Panthers open against defending national champion Oklahoma.

At Coral Gables and Annapolis, outstanding records are expected in the event a few "ifs" are resolved favorably.

Miami boosters remember last year, however, when Coach Andy Gustafson's sophomore - laden crew turned predictions of a "building" season into an 8-1-1 performance.

Added incentive has been provided by recent N. C. A. A. action lifting a ban on bowl games which was imposed on Miami two years ago for code violations.

Halfback John Varone from Boston will be the main cog in Gustafson's "drive series offense. The quarterback chores will be divided among junior Bonnie Yarbrough and sophs Maury Guttman and Fran Curi.

Improved Hurricane Passing could give enemy defenses fits. Yarbrough and Curi throw their running passes lefthanded, Guttman is an ambidexterous aerialist while halfback Joe Plevel is a righthanded thrower.

Navy's biggest worry as it enters its 75th year of inter-collegiate competition is overconfidence. zNumber ing seven starters among the 16 lettermen available, the Middies ended spring practice early because Coach Eddie Erdelatz said "we accomplished our mission." Erdelatz called it "the best spring practice we ever had.

The Middies have depth and the one sof spot — center — was filled by the transfer of 235 pound junior Bob Reifsnyder from tackle. He anchors a line averaging 213 pounds — heaviest in academy history.

Top ground gainer Ned Oldham is back along with flea - sized fulled the 7-7 tie with Army last year, and quarterback Tom Forrestal who ranked 17th nationally as a passer.

Navy brass has not forgotten the ballyhoo - bust of 1944 when the sailors were frequent picks for top national billing. The Middies stumbled over North Carolina preflight and the passing of Otto Graham, 21-14, in the opener. Several weeks later Georgia Tech's Dink Bowne beat them on a field goal 17-15 and Army applied the crusher 23-7.

Signs are encouraging at Notre Dame where the only direction is up following a disastrous 2-8 campaign. Coach Terry Brennan is sure the Irish luck will prevent a which hit the '56 club.

But the schedule is plainly brutal – Purdue, Indiana, Army, Pitt, Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma, Iow Southern California, Southern Methodist. In addition, quarterback Paul Hornung and halfback Jim Morse are gone.

Of the 21 lettermen available, all were plagued by injuries last year. Outstanding guard Al Ecuyer played every game as a soph despite a dislocated thumb, bruised shoulder and sprained ankle.

In Brennan's own words:

"We will have more experience than a year ago, but still lack the depth so necessary to play the type of schedule attempted by Notre Dame every year . . . All in all, it is not a year to be making too many predictions. What is needed are some victories."

Pitt, fresh from its best season since 1938, will field another fine club headed by 222 pound center Charley Brueckman. The record may not prove it, however, after the Panthers run headlong into Oklahoma followed by Oregon, U.S.C. Nebraska, Army, Notre Dame, Syracuse, West Virginia, Penn State and Miami.

At Army, backfield material is plentiful but the line has been shredded by graduations. A major objective will be the Notre Dame renewing a series broken off after 1947.

Guard Stan Slater and center Jim Kernan are the only regulars returning to the Army forward wall. For the first time in three years, the Cadets won't have to experiment at quarterback. Dave Bourland is a seasoned campaigner. Backfield mates Mike Morales, Gill Roseler and Vince Barta also are set. The knee of swift Gene Mi..elonis remains a question.

College of the Pacific, fourth in total offense a year ago, has lettermen for every position and a line averaging 217 pounds.

Junior Dick Bass ran up 116 yards for each of four games before injured in '56 and still wound up 36th in rushing. Quarterback Tom Flores finished fourth in total offense and eighth in passing. End Farrell Funston was ninth in pass receiving.

Syracuse, voted best in the east last fall, can only go down after the loss of All - America halfback Jim Brown.

In New England, Holy Cross promises fine things now that depth and speed have been added. Guard Jim Healy, end Dave Stecchi, fullback Dick Surrette and quarterback Tome Greene head the roster.

Boston College has a hefty schedule to go with solid material. Boston University is building.

In its third year of competition, the Air Force academy is not likely to duplicate last season's 6-2-1 mark against a higher calibre of opposition. The Falcons' key operatives are fullback Larry Thompson, halfback Mickey Gouyd, quarterback Ed Rosane and Brock Storm, moved from center to tackle.

Marquette, Dayton, Detroit, Rutgers and Temple will improve on last year's showings while Florida State, Villanova, Mississippi Southern and Colgate figure to finish about the same.

Marquette, whose 0-9 record in '56 was the poorest on its books, is looking up. Among the 46 promising sophomores on the 59 player squad is halfback Jim Webster, brother of the professional New York Giants' Alex. Jim was the leading ball carrier in the spring game.

Old Pueblo Captures Del Mar Futurity

DEL MAR, Calif., Sept. 7 (AP)—Old Pueblo made his only Del Mar appearance a winning one today in capturing the $64,680 added Del Mar Futurity over a field of six other 2-year-olds.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who flew from the east to ride the winner, kept Old Pueblo close to the pace and moved him into the lead in the final eighth. The winner finished a length and a half over Disdainful. Strong Bay was third, three and a quarter lengths in front of Lucky H. L. Flashy Token, Real Brass and Count Indigo finished in that order. Rebel Rob was scratched.

Old Pueblo netted $40,570 from the gross purse of $64,680. Disdainful picked up $10,000 and Strong Day $7,000.

RAINED OUT LAST NIGHT

Northeast Indians In For Rough Practice This Week

Northeast State's first full scale grid scrimmage of their fall practice session was rained out last night but Coach Devone Payne hopes to get into some really rough work this week.

The Indians had a little contact work Thursday but Payne had been planning on getting a good look at his boys under game conditions last night before a cold, November-type rain spoiled things.

Timing came in for most of the attention in last week's sessions but the emphasis will be on the rougher side of things this week. Next week the Indians will ease up on the rough stuff a little and polish up for their opener at Stephen F. Austin Sept. 21.

Payne and assistants Bob DeMoss, George Luffey and Lou Hartzog have been working with 49 players. Seventeen of them are returning lettermen from last year's squad with two monogram earners from the 1953 eleven, end Jim Knox and fullback Lloyd Ray Smith, are back, just having gotten out of service.

British May Have Strong Entries In U. S. Amateur

BY HUGH FULLERTON JR.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 7 (AP)—For the first time in four years there's a British threat in the U.S Amateur golf championship, which opens Monday at the Country Club, scene of the most famous British - American struggle in golf history.

It was at The Country Club, 75 years old this summer, that Francis Ouimet beat the great English pros, Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, in a playoff for the 1913 open championship and established America as a golfing nation.

How strong Britain's threat will be this year probably depends on how well the amateur players of the British Walker Cup team have adapted themselves to American playing conditions.

Every four years a British amateur golf team comes to America and absorbs a beating in the international team match. Twice in the past Walker Cup losers have stayed over and gone to the finals of the U.S. Amateur. Phil Perkins was trounced by Bobby Jones, 10 and 9, in the 1928 final and Jack McLean, a Glasgow Scot, took Johnny Fischer to the 37th hole at Garden City, N.Y., in 1936.

That could happen again, though it doesn't seem likely now. The 200 men field for the 57th U.S. Amateur looks like one of the strongest and best balanced in many years. While it is hard to see a Briton winning the tournament, its just as difficult to pick an American favorite.

Harvie Ward, a dominant figure in American amateur golf while winning the title for the past two years, can't defend his title here. He's serving a year's probation as an applicant for reinstatement as an amateur because of violations of rules concerning expense payments.

The men he beat in the last two finals, Bill Hyndman and Chuck Kocsis, are a bit too old to receive much consideration. But they have to be listed as possible winners along with the other members of the U.S. team and a half dozen or so others.

The Country Club, Brookline's plush and historic play pasture, probably is more like a British inland course than some on which visiting Britons have had to play. It's gently rolling, well trapped and 6,854-yards long—a strenuous test for the amateurs.

In the international matches at Minikahda, a rather similar layout, the British demonstrated that they can handle the lush grass and soft, watered greens. But they still managed to win only three of 12 matches and halve one.

The Country Club's "anniversary" course isn't the same one that has been the scene of three previous amateur championships. Named because the club is 75 years old the year, this layout combines the best holes of the old championship course and a nine hole course. This increased the length by some 400 yards and par was set at 45-37—72.

In addition to Ouimet's open, the amaetur was played at the Country Club when W. C. Fownes won in 1910 and Jess Sweetser in 1922 and when Lawson Little completed his first "Little slam" of the British and American titles in 1934. Incidentally, Chick Evans, who was runner-up to Sweetser and gave Fownes his toughest match, again is in the field.

Evans is one of five former amateur champions listed among the 200 starters after the field was whittled down from its original 1,592 by the sectional qualifying rounds. Chick won in 1916 and 1920. Others are Jesse Guilford, the 1921 "seige gun," Dick Chapman (1940), Willie Turnesa (1938 and 1948) and Ted Bishop (1946).

Chapman and Turnesa also have won the British Amateur, as has Bob Sweeny, another American entered. The current British Amateur champion, Reid Jack of Scotland, and the 1953 winner, Joe Carr of Ireland, are members of the 11-man British delegation.

These two and Douglas Sewell, the artisan golfer from Knapphill, England, are considered the strongest British threats. Sewell, a railway telegraph linesman, isn't a regular member of a private club and gets to play only at odd times. But a British golf writer accompanying the cup team tabbed him "lets face it—our best player."

Probable favorites among the Americans include the exciting and unpredictable Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., young Rex Baxter, Jr., the national collegiate champion from Amarillo, Tex., and Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor, the dentist from Pomona, Calif.

Outside the Walker Cup team, leading Americans include Dick Yost, Dale Morey and Don Cherry, members of the 1955 team, and such up-and coming young players as Bob McCall, Jimmy Hiskey, Ward Wettlauefr, Jack Nicklaus, Phil Rodgers and Public Links champion Don Essig.

Play starts at 6 a.m. (CST) Monday. Seventy-two 18-hole matches will be played the first day and 64 the second. Double rounds will be played Wednesday and Thursday and the semi-finals and finals at 36 holes on Friday and Saturday.

7th Inning Rally Powers Bosox Over Orioles, 4-3

BOSTON, Sept. 7 (UP)— Frank Malzone delivered a bases-loaded single and Pete Daley hit a two-run homer to provide the Boston Red Sox with a four-run seventh inning rally in a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles today.

Starter Connie Johnson, Baltimore's ace hurler, was working on a two-hitter with a 2-0 lead going into the seventh but Mickey Vernon greeted him with a single to start the Red Sox rally. After Ken Aspromonte forced him at second, Daley cracked his third homer over the left field wall to tie the score. Winning pitcher Frank Sullivan and Jimmy Piersall singled in succession and Gene Stephens reached on an infield hit after Billy Klaus struck out to load the bases.

The two leagues are to open action on September 16.

Anyone desiring information about the leagues before the Monday night meeting can contact McKay at the Community Center at 113 Catalpa St., or phone FA 2-2170.

Yankees Suffer Bad Day During World U. Games

PARIS, Sept. 7 (UP)—Little Ira Murchison, an Olympic sprinter from Chicago, barely qualified for the 200-meter final today in a generally dismal day for U.S. athletes at the World University games.

A crowd of 10,000 looked on as Jerry Welbourn of Columbus, Ohio, finished second in the pole vault; Lang Stanley of Los Angeles ran fourth in the 800-meter final; and Mrs. Earlene Brown of Los Angeles came in second in the women's shot put although she bettered her own American record.

Murchison, a roly-poly 5 ft. 4 in. athlete from Western Michigan College, was upset Friday by Manfred Germar of Germany in the 100-meter dash final. Murchison almost was knocked out of the 200 today in the semi finals.

After winning his quarter final heat in a blanket finish in 22.1 seconds, Murchison finished second to Leonid Bartenev of Russia in the second semi-final to qualify for Sunday's final. Bartenev was timed in 21.6. Murchison, 22.2. A Frenchman who finished third in 22.2 was eliminated.

ENTER ITALIAN PRIX

MONZA, Italy, Sept. 7 (UP)—Eighteen entries from seven nations were entered today for Sunday's 28th Grand Prix of Italy auto race, with Ferrari making a desperate bid to salvage some glory from what has been a tragic year. Three British Vanwalls were favored to win, since their fuel-injection formula has proved good enough to win recent races at Syracuse in Sicily, Aintree in England and Pescara, Italy.

SCHOOL FINED $100

Baton Rouge Out Of Race

HAMMOND, La., Sept. 7 (AP)—Commissioner T. H. Waters of the Louisiana High School Athletic Assn. today fined Baton Rouge High School $100 and placed it on probation for one year for offering "undue influence" to enroll Errol Van Buren.

The commissioner also declared the school ineligible for championship honors in the current football race. The pre-season Associated Press poll ranked Baton Rouge seventh among the state's AAA teams. Its games scheduled for last night against Fair Park was postponed because of flu on the Baton Rouge team.

"The coach and other persons not connected with the school used undue influence in seeking employment for the father of a student whom they wish to move to Baton Rouge High to participate in athletics," Waters said.

Van Buren, half-brother of former football star Steve Van Buren, attended Hillsborough High in Tampa, Fla., last year. He moved to Houma this summer and reported for football practice at Terrebonne High.

One week later he told school officials at Houma he was moving to Baton Rouge because his father had obtained a job there.

Waters said the Baton Rouge school had violated section 13, article 1 of the bylaws pertaining to undue influence.

Tick Tock 1st In Belmont's Sysonby Mile

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Tick Tock, who hadn't won a race in 2 attempts this year, outfought Reneged in a thrilling duel for about a half mile today and pulled away in the final strides for a neck decision in the $30,200 Sysonby Mile at Belmont Park.

A crowd of 31,762 whopped it up as Tick Tock made No. 13 lucky as he carried to victory the maroon silks of Howell E. Jackson of Middleburg, Va. The pho o finish camera caught four horses only necks apart at the wire. The Christiana stables' Ricci Tavi was third with Greentree stable's Riley fourth in the field of 12.

Bill Boland, the little Texas jockey who scored another Sysonby thriller in 1955, wore the Jackson silks, oldest in the country and originated by the Jackson family with the Bel Meade stud of Tennessee in 1825.

Two years ago when the Sysonby value was $100,000, Boland came with a rush aboard High Gun and nipped Jet Action in another blanket finish as mighty Nashua finished third.

This was the first victory for Tick Tock, a brown 4-year-old gelded son of Double Jay-Up Early, since he took the Sophomore special at Narragansett last Nov. 17.

The winner, co-favorite at 4-1 with the Mrs. E. D. Jacob's entry of Searching and Promised Land, returned $10, $5.70 and $3.60. Reneged, topweighted at 124 pounds, paid $6.60 and $4.20. Ricci Tavi, with 123 pounds, and ridden by Eldon Nelson, was $3.90 to show.

Tick Tock had won only $25,150 this year with a second in the Wilson Handicap and third in the Massachusetts, Brooklyn and Whitney. Today's race was worth $21,150.

Dupas Signed To Box Miceli September 18

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 (UP)—Promoter Heard Ragas said today Ralph Dupas, highly ranked lightweight, has been signed to meet Joe Miceli of New York in Municipal auditorium here Sept. 18.

Ragas announced the fight after Miceli was awarded a fourth round TKO over Johnny Saxon in their nationally televised contest at Washington Friday night.

Dupas, fresh from a close victory over Johnny Busso at Miami Beach, said he hoped to take Miceli with ease and schedule bouts with Vince Martinez or Kenny Lane.

The Louisiana boxing commission ruled this week it will sanction more fights for Dupas. Three months ago it ruled he could not box in Louisiana again until he obtained a birth certificate.

Health department officials claimed Dupas is Negro. Dupas is currently in the middle of a court fight attempting to force the city to issue him a birth certificate showing he is white.

Interracial bouts are banned in Louisiana.

RICHARDS GIVES UP STANDING

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7 (UP)—One of America's greatest athletes, the pole-vaulting parson, Bob Richards, announced today he was relinquishing his amateur standing to become sports director for an oil company and host for its television sports program. Richards, twice winner of the pole vault in the Olympic games in 1952 and 1956 and three times National A.A.U. decathlon champion, said he accepted the offer of the Union Oil Company of California because of the opportunity it gave him to work with youngsters.

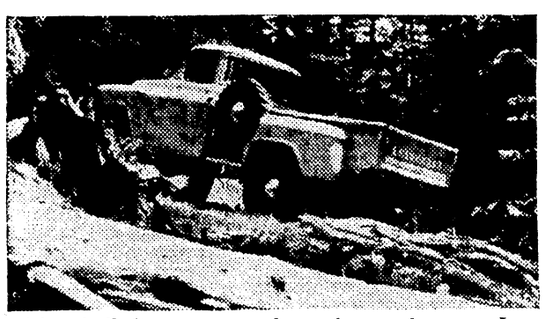
CHEVROLET PICKUP CLIMBS PIKES PEAK THE HARD WAY ...OFF THE ROAD!

An off-the-road run up Pikes Peak, through a sky-high wasteland of towering grades, was called impossible by people who know the mountain well. But a production Chevrolet pickup actually did it . . . to prove its pulling power and ruggedness!

All the way to the top without using the road! Here a towering field of boulders near the 14,110-foot summit puts a heavy strain on truck components.



Pickup bulls its way upward over logs and stumps. Low on the mountain, terrain rises steadily through rough timberland. The Chevy pickup kept on going up with only routine rest stops for the crew.

Steep grade near timberline—a rugged test of power. This country tested the power and torque of Chevrolet's famous Thriftmaster 6. The big engine proved more than a match for the most difficult grades.

Breaking out of timber at 11,000 feet, like a mountain goat with gears! Climb provided an ideal test for the go-anywhere, do-anything versatility of Chevrolet 4-wheel drive. It will whip any off-the-road job!

Long, rocky slope (elevation 13,000 feet) requires real stamina. Above the timberline, Chevrolet truck frame, springs, body and tubeless tires withstood mile after mile of jarring impacts against hard granite.

Miles of loose boulders and thinning air offer extreme challenge. Near the summit, towering boulder fields look impassable and thin air lowers engine performance. Yet the Chevy engine performed flawlessly!

Final effort achieves summit! Pickup with standard components conquers the toughest truck run imaginable . . . shows why Chevrolet trucks are famous for staying and saving on tough jobs! See your Chevrolet dealer.

Phil Perkins was trounced by Bobby Jones, 10 and 9, in the 1928 final and Jack McLean, a Glasgow Scot, took Johnny Fischer to the 37th hole at Garden City, N.Y., in 1936.

That could happen again, though it doesn't seem likely now. The 200 men field for the 57th U.S. Amateur looks like one of the strongest and best balanced in many years. While it is hard to see a Briton winning the tournament, its just as difficult to pick an American favorite.

Harvie Ward, a dominant figure in American amateur golf while winning the title for the past two years, can't defend his title here. He's serving a year's probation as an applicant for reinstatement as an amateur because of violations of rules concerning expense payments.

The men he beat in the last two finals, Bill Hyndman and Chuck Kocsis, are a bit too old to receive much consideration. But they have to be listed as possible winners along with the other members of the U.S. team and a half dozen or so others.

The Country Club, Brookline's plush and historic play pasture, probably is more like a British inland course than some on which visiting Britons have had to play. It's gently rolling, well trapped and 6,854-yards long—a strenuous test for the amateurs.

In the international matches at Minikahda, a rather similar layout, the British demonstrated that they can handle the lush grass and soft, watered greens. But they still managed to win only three of 12 matches and halve one.

The Country Club's "anniversary" course isn't the same one that has been the scene of three previous amateur championships. Named because the club is 75 years old the year, this layout combines the best holes of the old championship course and a nine hole course. This increased the length by some 400 yards and par was set at 45-37—72.

In addition to Ouimet's open, the amaetur was played at the Country Club when W. C. Fownes won in 1910 and Jess Sweetser in 1922 and when Lawson Little completed his first "Little slam" of the British and American titles in 1934. Incidentally, Chick Evans, who was runner-up to Sweetser and gave Fownes his toughest match, again is in the field.

Evans is one of five former amateur champions listed among the 200 starters after the field was whittled down from its original 1,592 by the sectional qualifying rounds. Chick won in 1916 and 1920. Others are Jesse Guilford, the 1921 "seige gun," Dick Chapman (1940), Willie Turnesa (1938 and 1948) and Ted Bishop (1946).

Chapman and Turnesa also have won the British Amateur, as has Bob Sweeny, another American entered. The current British Amateur champion, Reid Jack of Scotland, and the 1953 winner, Joe Carr of Ireland, are members of the 11-man British delegation.

These two and Douglas Sewell, the artisan golfer from Knapphill, England, are considered the strongest British threats. Sewell, a railway telegraph linesman, isn't a regular member of a private club and gets to play only at odd times. But a British golf writer accompanying the cup team tabbed him "lets face it—our best player."

Probable favorites among the Americans include the exciting and unpredictable Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., young Rex Baxter, Jr., the national collegiate champion from Amarillo, Tex., and Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor, the dentist from Pomona, Calif.

Outside the Walker Cup team, leading Americans include Dick Yost, Dale Morey and Don Cherry, members of the 1955 team, and such up-and coming young players as Bob McCall, Jimmy Hiskey, Ward Wettlauefr, Jack Nicklaus, Phil Rodgers and Public Links champion Don Essig.

Play starts at 6 a.m. (CST) Monday. Seventy - two 18 -hole matches will be played the first day and 64 the second. Double rounds will be played Wednesday and Thursday and the semi-finals and finals at 36 holes on Friday and Saturday.

DALEY STILL HOT

7th Inning Rally Powers Bosox Over Orioles, 4-3

BOSTON, Sept. 7 (UP)— Frank Malzone delivered a bases-loaded single and Pete Daley hit a two-run homer to provide the Boston Red Sox with a four-run seventh inning rally in a 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles today.

Starter Connie Johnson, Baltimore's ace hurler, was working on a two-hitter with a 2-0 lead going into the seventh but Mickey Vernon greeted him with a single to start the Red Sox rally. After Ken Aspromonte forced him at second, Daley cracked his third homer over the left field wall to tie the score. Winning pitcher Frank Sullivan and Jimmy Piersall singled in succession and Gene Stephens reached on an infield hit after Billy Klaus struck out to load the bases.

Yankees Suffer Bad Day During World U. Games

PARIS, Sept. 7 (UP)—Little Ira Murchison, an Olympic sprinter from Chicago, barely qualified for the 200-meter final today in a generally dismal day for U.S. athletes at the World University games.

A crowd of 10,000 looked on as Jerry Welbourn of Columbus, Ohio, finished second in the pole vault; Lang Stanley of Los Angeles ran fourth in the 800-meter final; and Mrs. Earlene Brown of Los Angeles came in second in the women's shot put although she bettered her own American record.

Murchison, a roly-poly 5 ft. 4 in. athlete from Western Michigan College, was upset Friday by Manfred Germar of Germany in the 100-meter dash final. Murchison almost was knocked out of the 200 today in the semi finals.

After winning his quarter final heat in a blanket finish in 22.1 seconds, Murchison finished second to Leonid Bartenev of Russia in the second semi-final to qualify for Sunday's final. Bartenev was timed in 21.6· Murchison, 22.2. A Frenchman who finished third in 22.2 was eliminated.

ENTER ITALIAN PRIX

MONZA, Italy, Sept. 7 (UP)—Eighteen entries from seven nations were entered today for Sunday's 28th Grand Prix of Italy auto race, with Ferrari making a desperate bid to salvage some glory from what has been a tragic year. Three British Vanwalls were favored to win, since their fuel-injection formula has proved good enough to win recent races at Syracuse in Sicily, Aintree in England and Pescara, Italy.

SCHOOL FINED $100

Baton Rouge Out Of Race

HAMMOND, La., Sept. 7 (AP) — Commissioner T. H. Waters of the Louisiana High School Athletic Assn. today fined Baton Rouge High School $100 and placed it on probation for one year for offering "undue influence" to enroll Errol Van Buren.

The commissioner also declared the school ineligible for championship honors in the current football race. The pre-season Associated Press poll ranked Baton Rouge seventh among the state's AAA teams. Its games scheduled for last night against Fair Park was postponed because of flu on the Baton Rouge team.

"The coach and other persons not connected with the school used undue influence in seeking employment for the father of a student whom they wish to move to Baton Rouge High to participate in athletics," Waters said.

Van Buren, half-brother of former football star Steve Van Buren, attended Hillsborough High in Tampa, Fla., last year. He moved to Houma this summer and reported for football prcatice at Terrebonne High.

One week later he told school officials at Houma he was moving to Baton Rouge because his father had obtained a job there.

Waters said the Baton Rouge school had violated section 13, article 1 of the bylaws pertaining to undue influence.

Tick Tock 1st In Belmont's Sysonby Mile

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP)—Tick Tock, who hadn't won a race in 2 attempts this year, outfought Reneged in a thrilling duel for about a half mile today and pulled away in the final strides for a neck decision in the $30,200 Sysonby Mile at Belmont Park.

A crowd of 31,762 whopped it up as Tick Tock made No. 13 lucky as he carried to victory the maroon silks of Howell E. Jackson of Middleburg, Va. The pho o finish camera caught four horses only necks apart at the wire. The Christiana stables' Ricci Tavi was third with Greentree stable's Riley fourth in the field of 12.

Bill Boland, the little Texas jockey who scored another Sysonby thriller in 1955, wore the Jackson silks, oldest in the country and originated by the Jackson family with the Bel Meade stud of Tennessee in 1825.

Two years ago when the Sysonby value was $100,000, Boland came with a rush aboard High Gun and nipped Jet Action in another blanket finish as mighty Nashua finished third.

This was the first victory for Tick Tock, a brown 4-year-old gelded son of Double Jay-Up Early, since he took the Sophomore special at Narragansett last Nov. 17.

The winner, co-favorite at 4-1 with the Mrs. E. D. Jacob's entry of Searching and Promised Land, returned $10, $5.70 and $3.60. Reneged, topweighted at 124 pounds, paid $6.60 and $4.20. Ricci Tavi, with 123 pounds, and ridden by Eldon Nelson, was $3.90 to show.

Tick Tock had won only $25,150 this year with a second in the Wilson Handicap and third in the Massachusetts, Brooklyn and Whitney. Today's race was worth $21,150.

Dupas Signed To Box Miceli September 18

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 (UP)—Promoter Heard Ragas said today Ralph Dupas, highly ranked lightweight, has been signed to meet Joe Miceli of New York in Municipal auditorium here Sept. 18.

Dupas, fresh from a close victory over Johnny Busso at Miami Beach, said he hoped to take Miceli with ease and schedule bouts with Vince Martinez or Kenny Lane.

The Louisiana boxing commission ruled this week it will sanction more fights for Dupas. Three months ago it ruled he could not box in Louisiana again until he obtained a birth certificate.

Health department officials claimed Dupas is Negro. Dupas is currently in the middle of a court fight attempting to force the city to issue him a birth certificate showing he is white.

Interracial bouts are banned in Louisiana.

RICHARDS GIVES UP STANDING

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7 (UP)—One of America's greatest athletes, the pole-vaulting parson, Bob Richards, announced today he was relinquishing his amateur standing to become sports director for an oil company and host for its television sports program. Richards, twice winner of the pole vault in the Olympic games in 1952 and 1956 and three times National A.A.U. decathlon champion, said he accepted the offer of the Union Oil Company of California because of the opportunity it gave him to work with youngsters.

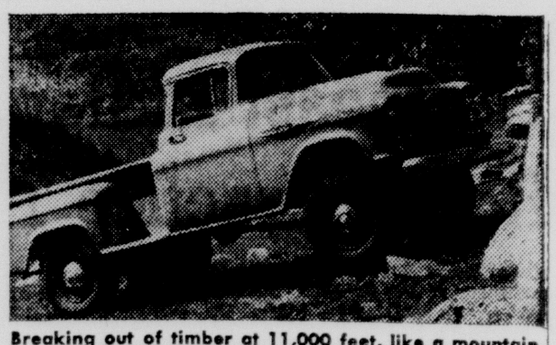
CHEVROLET PICKUP CLIMBS PIKES PEAK THE HARD WAY ...OFF THE ROAD!

An off-the-road run up Pikes Peak, through a sky-high wasteland of towering grades, was called impossible by people who know the mountain well. But a production Chevrolet pickup actually did it . . . to prove its pulling power and ruggedness!

All the way to the top without using the road! Here a towering field of boulders near the 14,110-foot summit puts a heavy strain on truck components.

Pickup bulls its way upward over logs and stumps. Low on the mountain, terrain rises steadily through rough timberland. The Chevy pickup kept on going up with only routine rest stops for the crew.

Steep grade near timberline—a rugged test of power. This country tested the power and torque of Chevrolet's famous Thriftmaster 6. The big engine proved more than a match for the most difficult grades.



Breaking out of timber at 11,000 feet, like a mountain goat with gears! Climb provided an ideal test for the go-anywhere, do-anything versatility of Chevrolet 4-wheel drive. It will whip any off-the-road job!

Long, rocky slope (elevation 13,000 feet) requires real stamina. Above the timberline, Chevrolet truck frame, springs, body and tubeless tires withstood mile after mile of jarring impacts against hard granite.

Miles of loose boulders and thinning air offer extreme challenge. Near the summit, towering boulder fields look impassable and thin air lowers engine performance. Yet the Chevy engine performed flawlessly!

Final effort achieves summit! Pickup with standard components conquers the toughest truck run imaginable . . . shows why Chevrolet trucks are famous for staying and saving on tough jobs! See your Chevrolet dealer.

BEAUTIFUL PASSENGER! Popularity With Kids Impels Jock To Lead Double Life

For the past couple of years Jock Mahoney has been leading a double life. And from all indications he will continue leading that dual existence for some time to come.

In one existence he is a movie star at Universal - International, playing a wide variety of roles, the latest of which was in "Joe Dakota," the U-I picture in color opening Thursday at the Jim Theatre, in which he co-stars with Luana Patten, Charles McGraw and Barbara Lawrence.

The other existence is one which he expected to step away from some four years ago but which he has found he must continue to live and work at because of the insistence of the small fry of America. That is as the "Range Rider."

Jock made a total of 78 "Range Rider" films for television, but he made the last of them in December of 1952. They were very popular with junior America the first time they were shown, but that first showing seems to have been only a beginning. They're still being shown all around the country; in fact, in some localities they're on their third time around.

One result of this continuing identification of jock as the "Range Rider" is that from all over the country he gets countless requests to appear in parades. What's more, whenever his time permits he dons his "Range Rider" get-up and does ride in parades.

Another result is a continuing and lucrative sideline. Whenever Jock has sufficient time off between movies he goes on personal appearance tours, making these appearances in theatres, auditoriums or outdoor arenas, with admission being charged. Attired, of course, as the "Range Rider," he puts on a thrilling and entertaining act, for, as a former stunt man, Jock is expert at all the riding, roping and shooting tricks the kids love to see.

While there is a profit motive in these tours, it's more than likely Jock would put on such shows for nothing if he had to, for he genuinely loves children and is never happier than when he's entertaining them.

North, 4 no trump; East, Pass; South, 6 hearts; West, Pass.

North, Pass; East, Pass.

Opening lead: King of spades.

To some observers it may appear that the typesetter has taken liberties with the bidding text in recording South's first call. In fact he was but doing his duty. The four club bid is an artificial device in accordance with the conventi · devised by my friend. John Gerber, of Houston, Tex. The Gerber four club bid is employed in the fashion of the Blackwood four no trump, and is a request for the showing of aces. I have adopted it, in a restricted manner, for use in connection with no trump bidding, where four no trump is not available as an asking bid. North's response of four no trump showed three aces. Four diamonds would have shown none, four hearts one, etc.

South might have barged directly into six hearts, but exercised caution because North might have had a perfectly sound no trump with only one ace.

West opened the king of spades and it looked like easy sailing, so much so, that a bit of complacency on the part of South would have resulted in the loss of the slam. Many players would impulsively lay down the ace of hearts in the anxiety to get trumps out and with that simple gesture, incur a loss, for West would then cash two trump tricks.

South realized that with this combination of cards he could protect himself against the loss of two trump tricks regardless of who had the three outstanding hearts. The play involved 'eading a low heart from the South hand. If West shows out, declarer goes up with the ace and comes back through East's king - jack. If West plays a low heart North plays the nine from dummy and is assured of success, for if it should lose to the jack the king must fall under the ace next round.

Red Skelton Back As Daffy 'Pigeon' At The Paramount

That nut, Red Skelton, will be back on the local screen at the Paramount Theater starting Thursday, when he becomes the "Public Pigeon No. 1."

It's been a long time away from the big movie screen for Red, busy lately with TV. But his admirers can now take cheer, for they can once again relax in the comfort of their movie seats and join all their fellow citizens in laughing long and loud at the king of daffy comedy.

In "Public Pigeon No. 1," Red plays a dumb - but - nice lunchroom attendant. He and Janet Blair, of TV's "Caesar's Hour," have saved up $1500 to get married, of which $40 is Red's contribution. But gullible Red entrusts their savings to a bunch of stock swindlers whose gorgeous "front" is none other than Vivian Blaine, in her first movie since the fabulous "Guys and Dolls."

How Vivian Blaine and her crew of swindlers get Red's money and put poor Red himself behind bars, until he escapes in a riotous jailbreak scene, is sure to keep audiences howling.

"Public Pigeon No. 1" also stars Allyn Joslyn, Benny Baker and Jay C. Flippen. It is produced in Technicolor.

FIRST DAY AT WORK

Since Bogart's Death And Lauren Bacall Was Nervous

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was Lauren Bacall's first day at work since the death of Humphrey Bogart, and she was nervous.

"Nervous as I can possibly be," she confessed in her half-kidding, half-serious way. "This is the first time I've started a picture without having Bogey say, 'Good luck, baby.' It's kinda tough, you know."

The whole set knew, and everyone admired her courage. It was her first day on "Our Love" (stand by for a title change any moment), in which she stars with Robert Stack. "It's a real tear-jerker," she reported. "I die in it and get to run the gamut of my emotions—from A to B."

I watched her rehearse her firat scene in which she and Stack meet. She tossed it off with skill, later said she was aided by having worked with director Jean Negulesco in two previous pictures—"A Woman's World" and "How to Marry a Millionaire."

Still, she had nerves.

"It's been eight months since I did 'Designing Woman,'" she remarked. "Think of all the things that have happened in that time.

"I'm glad to be going back to work. It gives me something to keep myself busy, and I need that desperately. All I've had to do is sit and think. If I hadn't had the children, I would have been in really bad shape."

Her son and her daughter have taken their father's loss well, she said, though young Stephen had a difficult adjustment to make at first. Betty (no one ever calls her Lauren) said she planned to put their Holmby Hills house up for sale as soon as she can find another place nearby. The house is too big and there are too many memories there.

Her own formula for the future is more work.

"I'd like to go right into another picture if I can find one," she said. "I think work is a good thing for me.

"If I don't go right to work, I'm going to get out of this town for a while. I'm going to make a habit of going to New York regularly; that's my home and I like the life there.

"You have the theater in New York and lots of things to do. Hollywood is no place for a single woman."

LA. IS BOOMING

Mixing Of Oil And Water Credited For Expansion

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 7 (AP) — Anybody who still thinks oil and water don't mix has never been to Louisiana.

Louisiana's rich oil and gas fields combined with the broad Mississippi and Atchafalaya rivers to touch off a boom that has added 1.8 billion dollars in new industry since 1946.

The Baton Rouge-New Orleans area is the focal point of the greatest activity, but Lake Charles also is growing swiftly out of its industrial knee pants.

One of the nation's largest real estate developers, vice president William Zeckendorf Jr., of Webb and Knapp Inc., comments:

"This area along the river between New Orleans and Baton Rouge is the hottest industrial potential in the United States. Just about five per cent of the industrial potential along both sides of the Mississippi in this area has been realized.

Sleepy cane plantations, even small towns have been shoved aside by the booming petro-chemical industry.

Louisiana has a 10-year property tax writeoff for new or expanding industry, and localities may vote bond issues to help construct new plants.

While practically every industry grabs the tax exemption, a state Department of Commerce and Industry expert says out of 563 million dollars in new industrial construction last year only a half million of it came from the industry inducement program.

Joseph Horan, director of research and industrial development, said, "industry inducement is almost out of the picture. That's more for small communities. It has helped some in encouraging light industries for small towns."

From St. Francisville, 30 miles north of Baton Rouge, where Time-Life Inc. and Crown Zellerbach are building a 30-million-dollar paper plant, to Braithwaite, 10 miles southeast of New Orleans, where Freeport Sulphur Co. plans one of the world's largest nickel and cobalt plants, new industry is springing to life along the Mississippi.

A new city of 20,000 is under construction near Laplace, about 20 miles upstream from New Orleans.

Webb and Knapp—backing up Zeckendorf's optimism with a 150 million dollar investment—plans 4,400 homes, shopping areas, a country club and heavy industrial areas.

The magic New Orleans-Baton Rouge area produces sulphuric acid, chlorine, soda ash, sodium, anti-knock compounds, synthetic rubber, alumina, ethylene derivatives and a vast assortment of other raw materials and finished products in the chemicals line.

The chemical plants often buy from each other. One new industry, commenting on its good chemical neighbors, said that was a factor in bringing it here, since "we might expand our line into a chemical that might be used by some of our neighbors."

And the established industry in the area is expanding rapidly.

FIRST DAY AT WORK

Since Bogart's Death And Lauren Bacall Was Nervous

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was Lauren Bacall's first day at work since the death of Humphrey Bogart, and she was nervous.

"Nervous as I can possibly be," she confessed in her half-kidding, half-serious way. "This is the first time I've started a picture without having Bogey say, 'Good luck, baby.' It's kinda tough, you know."

The whole set knew, and everyone admired her courage. It was her first day on "Our Love" (stand by for a title change any moment), in which she stars with Robert Stack. "It's a real tear-jerker," she reported. "I die in it and get to run the gamut of my emotions—from A to B."

I watched her rehearse her firat scene in which she and Stack meet. She tossed it off with skill, later said she was aided by having worked with director Jean Negulesco in two previous pictures—"A Woman's World" and "How to Marry a Millionaire."

Still, she had nerves.

"It's been eight months since I did 'Designing Woman,'" she remarked. "Think of all the things that have happened in that time.

"I'm glad to be going back to work. It gives me something to keep myself busy, and I need that desperately. All I've had to do is sit and think. If I hadn't had the children, I would have been in really bad shape."

Her son and her daughter have taken their father's loss well, she said, though young Stephen had a difficult adjustment to make at first. Betty (no one ever calls her Lauren) said she planned to put their Holmby Hills house up for sale as soon as she can find another place nearby. The house is too big and there are too many memories there.

Her own formula for the future is more work.

"I'd like to go right into another picture if I can find one," she said. "I think work is a good thing for me.

"If I don't go right to work, I'm going to get out of this town for a while. I'm going to make a habit of going to New York regularly; that's my home and I like the life there.

"You have the theater in New York and lots of things to do. Hollywood is no place for a single woman."

Popularity With Kids Impels Jock To Lead Double Life

For the past couple of years Jock Mahoney has been leading a double life. And from all indications he will continue leading that dual existence for some time to come.

In one existence he is a movie star at Universal - International, playing a wide variety of roles, the latest of which was in "Joe Dakota," the U-I picture in color opening Thursday at the Jim Theatre, in which he co-stars with Luana Patten, Charles McGraw and Barbara Lawrence.

The other existence is one which he expected to step away from some four years ago but which he has found he must continue to live and work at because of the insistence of the small fry of America. That is as the "Range Rider."

Jock made a total of 78 "Range Rider" films for television, but he made the last of them in December of 1952. They were very popular with junior America the first time they were shown, but that first showing seems to have been only a beginning. They're still being shown all around the country; in fact, in some localities they're on their third time around.

One result of this continuing identification of jock as the "Range Rider" is that from all over the country he gets countless requests to appear in parades. What's more, whenever his time permits he dons his "Range Rider" get-up and does ride in parades.

Another result is a continuing and lucrative sideline. Whenever Jock has sufficient time off between movies he goes on personal appearance tours, making these appearances in theatres, auditoriums or outdoor arenas, with admission being charged. Attired, of course, as the "Range Rider," he puts on a thrilling and entertaining act, for, as a former stunt man, Jock is expert at all the riding, roping and shooting tricks the kids love to see.

While there is a profit motive in thse tours, it's more than likely Jock would put on such shows for nothing if he had to, for he genuinely loves children and is never happier than when he's entertaining them.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
North, Pass	East, Pass

Opening lead: King of spades.

To some observers it may appear that the typesetter has taken liberties with the bidding text in recording South's first call. In fact he was but doing his duty. The four club bid is an artificial device in accordance with the conventi - devised by my friend. John Gerber, of Houston, Tex. The Gerber four club bid is employed in the fashion of the Blackwood four no trump, and is a request for the showing of aces. I have adopted it, in a restricted manner, for use in connection with no trump bidding, where four no trump is not available as an asking bid. North's response of four no trump showed three aces. Four diamonds would have shown none, four hearts one, etc.

South might have barged directly into six hearts, but exercised caution because North might have had a perfectly sound no trump with only one ace.

West opened the king of spades and it looked like easy sailing, so much so, that a bit of complacency on the part of South would have resulted in the loss of the slam. Many players would impulsively lay down the ace of hearts in the anxiety to get trumps out and with that simple gesture, incur a loss, for West would then cash two trump tricks.

South realized that with this combination of cards he could protect himself against the loss of two trump tricks regardless of who had the three outstanding hearts. The play involved leading a low heart from the South hand. If West shows out, declarer goes up with the ace and comes back through East's king - jack. If West plays a low heart North plays the nine from dummy and is assured of success, for if it should lose to the jack the king must fall under the ace next round.

LA. IS BOOMING

Mixing Of Oil And Water Credited For Expansion

BATON ROUGE, Sept. 7 (AP) — Anybody who still thinks oil and water don't mix has never been to Louisiana.

Louisiana's rich oil and gas fields combined with the broad Mississippi and Atchafalaya rivers to touch off a boom that has added 1.8 billion dollars in new industry since 1946.

The Baton Rouge-New Orleans area is the focal point of the greatest activity, but Lake Charles also is growing swiftly out of its industrial knee pants.

One of the nation's largest real estate developers, vice president William Zeckendorf Jr., of Webb and Knapp Inc., comments:

"This area along the river between New Orleans and Baton Rouge is the hottest industrial potential in the United States. Just about five per cent of the industrial potential along both sides of the Mississippi in this area has been realized.

Sleepy cane plantations, even small towns have been shoved aside by the booming petro-chemical industry.

Louisiana has a 10-year property tax writeoff for new or expanding industry, and localities may vote bond issues to help construct new plants.

While practically every industry grabs the tax exemption, a state Department of Commerce and Industry expert says out of 563 million dollars in new industrial construction last year only a half million of it came from the industry inducement program.

Joseph Horan, director of research and industrial development, said, "industry inducement is almost out of the picture. That's more for small communities. It has helped some in encouraging light industries for small towns."

From St. Francisville, 30 miles north of Baton Rouge, where Time-Life Inc. and Crown Zellerbach are building a 30-million-dollar paper plant, to Braithwaite, 10 miles southeast of New Orleans, where Freeport Sulphur Co. plans one of the world's largest nickel and cobalt plants, new industry is springing to life along the Mississippi.

A new city of 20,000 is under construction near Laplace, about 20 miles upstream from New Orleans.

Webb and Knapp—backing up Zeckendorf's optimism with a 150 million dollar investment—plans 4,400 homes, shopping areas, a country club and heavy industrial areas.

The magic New Orleans-Baton Rouge area produces sulphuric acid, chlorine, soda ash, sodium, anti-knock compounds, synthetic rubber, alumina, ethylene derivatives and a vast assortment of other raw materials and finished products in the chemicals line.

The chemical plants often buy from each other. One new industry, commenting on its good chemical neighbors, said that was a factor in bringing it here, since "we might expand our line into a chemical that might be used by some of our neighbors."

And the established industry in the area is expanding rapidly.

Kaiser Aluminum is building its third plant in the region. Esso Standard Oil's mammoth refinery, largest in the nation, is steadily growing in Baton Rouge.

Louisiana ranks a close third to California in oil production and second to Texas in natural gas output. It is third in salt production and scond in sulphur output.

BELOW THE SALT

Thomas B. Costain, who is noted for writing interesting and unusual novels, has hit the jackpot in his latest book. It is written in a unique fashion, but the idea and theme of the story is as important as it was when most of the action occurred. It deals primarily with the freedom and rights of man.

"His voice was cast in a lower tone, but it still carried the suggestion of a lionlike rumble . . . I want to explain everything for reasons you'll understand when you've heard. But not yet. This is the queerest and blastedest story that any human being has ever told; and every word of it true . . ." It — well, it must be led up to."

With these words, John Foraday, an aspiring young writer, realized something remarkably strange lay ahead.

Young Foraday had been mysteriously summoned by the aging U. S. Senator O'Rawn whom he had not previously known — But what had the senator to say which must be ladled out — bit by bit —inkling by inkling.

The answers to these puzzling questions took John into visits to strange places and a love affair with a beautiful Irish girl.

It also took him back 700 years so that he was hearing an account of those stirring, violent events in England and Europe that led the Magna Charta and thus contributed so much to the liberties of future generations; with a story as well, most of it straight from history of a lost princess and the recovery of a lost charter.

The senator, under another name, was present at all those stirring events and was raised from a low-born to a knight as the result of his participation in them.

It is the story of "Black Henry," one of the worst kings in English history. It deals with the lost princess — how he locked her up in a castle after killing her brother because he was in direct line for the throne.

The thrilling story tells of her escape.

Through the story is weaved the intrigue and brutality, but behind it is the hope and the desire and the necessity that men must be free. It is a lesson for our time also.

Major Novel, But It Is Not A Great One

VOSS. By Patrick White. Viking.

"That German — Mr. Voss."

So the quizzical people of Sydney speak of the complex man who, in this novel of a century ago, sets out with demoniacal determination to explore Australia.

We first meet him, a somewhat pretentious but dedicated fellow, at the Bonners'. Merchant Bonner was helping to finance the venture, but he was away at the moment and his orphan niece Laura receives the visitor. They are antipathetic, then curious, then sympathetic; when he leaves for the dangerous bush, they are, in their perverse fashion, in love. She warns him of his pride, he is shocked by her indifference to a higher power; still, they are powerfully attracted.

Laura remains with her cousin Belle, the Bonners and the society of Sydney. Voss leads off an odd band, forged, for a time, into a fanatic unity by devotion ' him.

The man and the woman, separated physically yet spiritually together, are tested by almost unendurable ordeals; neither could have served the other so well by his presence as he did, during absence, by the ideal each conjured up, by the vision each created.

This is a major novel, not a great one, as White is a major novelist, and not, or not yet, a great one. Voss' 40 days and nights in the wilderness need to be less remote, and the legend a little more convincing. But White can write pages of real poetic beauty, and he sees deeply into the heart. Perhaps at this stage he is more a writer than a novelist.

New Usage Dictionary Is Excellent

There is no "ought" in writing or speech. Nothing is right or wrong abstractly, there is only the standard of use, or so these 600 pages of examples have been assembled to prove. In other words, language is merely a matter, the Evanses say, of keeping up with the Joneses.

By this easy method, you don't have to know anything, you only have to count. If more people in your neighborhood confuse "lie" and "lay" than not, then you should confuse them, otherwise the Evanses will call you a purist and accuse you of showing off. They approve of "who do you want" and "more unique, most unique;" they see nothing wrong in "ump ump tastes good like a cigaratte should," and they split infinitives as quick as you bat an eye.

I am a purist, which by their definition is just anti - Evans — and to be sure it is all relative. But they throw away too much too fast. Cut off an accuracy here, add vagueness there, and language is no longer a useful tool.

You remember the farmer with the horse to sell? He admitted to the purchaser, "It don't look good." But the purchaser thought it looked fine. He came back later however to complain it was blind. "I told you," the farmer retorted. The Evanses pave the way to "look good" and so on to the sign language, which is back where we started. We should go in the other direction, not the easy Evans way but the hard way, we should refine the language instead of blunting it.

LOW LEVEL MISSION

LOW LEVEL MISSION By Leon Wolff (Doubleday, $4.50).

This is the story of the Ploesti Raids in World War II—raids that seriously hampered the German war effort. The introduction to the book is by John R. Kane, a native of Shreveport, La., who led one flight of the bombers on the historic mission.

Only once in Americtn history have five Congressional Medals of Honor been awarded to participants of a single military operation That single instance was the low-level AAF bombing of the oil refineries at Ploesti, Rumania, on August 1, 1943.

How did it happen that one air assault could create these and a thousand lesser decorations? The reasons are told by Leon Wolff in this book based largely on recorded interviews and eyewitness reports of survivors of that Ploesti mission. Here is the complete story, told with grim intensity, of the remarkable 2700-mile run from Africa to the Balkans and back.

Most Ploesti documents are still classified "secret" by the air force. Is there a valid reason for this reticence? The 1943 Ploesti raid was among the most controversial episodes of the air war; a battle of words still rages over its planning and execution. Somehow a disaster occurred at Ploesti that haunts World War II fliers even today. How did it happen? What really took place there? From dozens of sources Leon Wolff has traced the sequence of events to the complex truth.

Ploesti was more than an oil target — it was the Number One air target in Nazi Europe. And LOW LEVEL MISSION is more than teh story of one hair-raising, zero - altitude raid. It ties in the Ploesti raids thtt preceded and followed the one of August 1, 1943.

In his conclusions the author bridges the gap between the Ploesti mission and "major principles of aerial warfare." He underscores the points that major air operations cannot be launched without air superiority, nor won without air supremacy — and that the two terms are not synonymous. These points, like many of his other observations, bear directly on national defense spending and planning.

A SCENE OF STILLED BEAUTY

CAMERA NOTES

Light Yellow Filter Cuts Glare, Makes Sky Darker

A week ago while on an assignment at the groundbreaking for the Sportsman's Lodge near Campti, I took note of the fine background nature had provided for the occasion. A sky full of well - defined clouds was suddenly lighted by the sun, which had been covered most of the day.

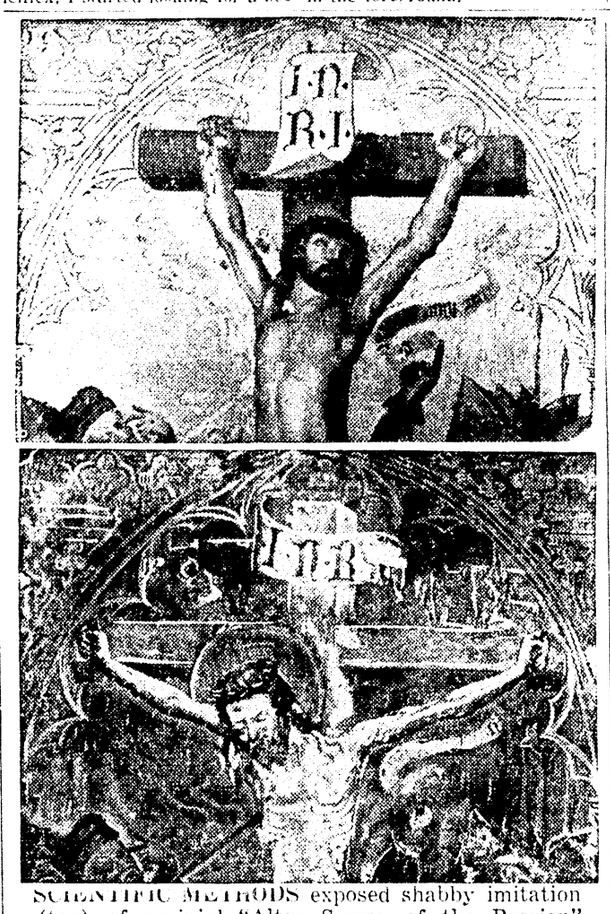
Putting a sky - darkening K-2 filter in the lens hood on my Rolleiflex, I started looking for a section of the landscape which would make a good natural composition. D wn by the water's edge, I found a spot where I could keep a tree in the foreground and shoot for great depth by stopping down to a small lens opening (f-22 with a corresponding slow shutter speed (1-25 sec.)

The effects of stopping down may be noted — the opposite shoreline of the lake was at least two miles away, yet it shows quite clearly as do the intervening trees, water and even the grass in the foreground.

It might have been possible to achieve such an effect without the aid of the yellow filter, but the risk of over - exposure — which would make a white sky hence no clouds — is far greater through an unguarded lens. Here, the filter did the job I wanted by darkening the foreground sky and whitening the edges of the clouds so they would show in sharp relief against the dark background

This picture is a good example of the rule which states an object in the foreground will create the impression of depth.

It is gratifying to come up with a photograph which looks like the picture you were shooting for. Further, it may be added anyone with simple equipment can make an interesting cloud study. Filters are available for all cameras, and a little careful planning does the rest. Give it a try and send one or two in.



SCIENTIFIC METHODS exposed shabby imitation (top) of orginial "Altar Screen of the Passion" (bottom) in Basancon museum. Ultra-violet rays detected patches of repaint. Infra-red rays revealed a second inscription on cross, X-rays uncovered a whole second painting, with new head and body of Christ.

Radiation Causes Fall Out Among Art Counterfeiters

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—The days of the forged painting and the faked signature are numbered.

If you were scheming for a lucrative career in this field — Van Meegeren got rich with his imitation Vermeers — it's almost too late.

It took a Frenchwoman to remind us of it: The vivacious expert Madeleine Hours, head of the Louvre Museum Laboratory, a recent lecturer here and in Washington under the auspices of the French Cultural Embassy, and author of a book still availably only in French though it may appear in English.

We translate the title of this book, an intriguing summary of investigative processes, as "Exploring Painting by Physical Methods." It was published in February in Paris.

"False cracks, false signatures can be discovered by radiographic examination," she writes, explaining, "the copyist, the forger having tried only to reproduce the superficial aspects of the master he imitates."

In the case of Van Gogh, whose sky-high market value has tempted the forger frequently, Mrs. Hours says specifically:

"The new techniques" — ultra-violet and infra-red rays, X-ray and so on — "bring out the qualities of his work. It isn't at all the same way with the work of the forgers who have imitated him."

In fact, Mrs. Hours declared: "The principal role of these radiations is indeed to help uncover the copies."

How much progress has been made by this country compared with France? Mme. Hours told me:

"There is no great difference. I would think Paris leads in general documentation, in the systematic study not of some special paintings but of all. We apply the new techniques to our entire collections in order to establish standards by which these techniques themselves can be assessed accurately."

"On the other hand," she acknowledged, with a bit of envy in her voice, "the Metropolitan Museum has a remarkable new machine."

Murray Pease, who has charge of these things at the big Fifth Avenue institution, identified it as an infra - red direct viewer. It was developed from a device invented for the Army, a sniperscope.

The direct viewer shows the naked eye what a much more expensive infra - red camera shows only in a finished picture. It is in its field what the doctor's fluoroscope is to the X-ray. With it you can run over all the paintings in a gallery in minutes insteads of the weeks or months usually required.

"It's very much more difficult for a forged painting to get by than it was 20 years ago," Pease said. "About the same equipment was available then, but the attitude now is more receptive to the scientific tool."

STAMPS

The Universal Postal Union, the worldwide body that governs and regulates international postal matters, meets every five years. The 14th UPU Congress met this year in Ottawa, with much fanfare in the Canadian capital.

To honor this occasion Canadian postal officials issued two new stamps. The 5-cent blue shows the building where thme meetings were held. The 15-cent blue depicts a posthorn and globe.

To commemorate the centenary of its "struggle for freedom," India has issued two new stamps, reports the New York Stamp Co. One stamp illustrates a symbolic flame against a background of an open door. The other shows the Rani of Jhansi on horseback. The stamps were late in being issued because of a strike by post and telegraph workers in India.

A familiar face will be missing from the Washington philatelic scene. Robert E. Fellers, director of the Division of Philately, U. S. Post Office Dept., has announced his retirement. Fellers has been in government service since 1914 and was appointed to the Division of Philately in 1933.

America's oldest stamp publications. Robert Knobel, editor and general manager of the National Stamp News, will also head the new combined paper which will be published in Anderson, S. C.

Stamp Notes . . . Italy has issued a new 25-lire green adhesive on behalf of its traffic education camptign. Depicted is a traffic light in the center of crossroads. . . . Eight new stamps have been issued by Portuguese India. Each stamp bears a map of the Damao district but a different color and denomination . . . Western Germany has issued a 25-pfennig red brown stamp commemorating the Congress of German Culture. The design features a statue of Uta from the Naumburg Cathedral.

No Thrill Like Opening New Book

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

There is no thrill quite like that of opening a new book and finding that it is just the one you have been needing. The Ouachita Parish Public Library purchases book on a variety of subjects to fit the needs and interests of all types of people. Among this weeks additions are books that will interest many people. There is only one new book of fiction. It is "The Moon By Night" and was written by Joy Packer. The mysterious beauty of the South African wilds haunts the pages of this romantic novel about a young woman's journey to an unknown lover. It is the story of Alice Lang, a young London nurse who had always been drawn by the lure of Africa, an interest intensified by four years of correspondence with game warden Andrew Miller. When Alice's mother dies, she follows Andrew's urging and flies to th game preserve at Velaba. There she will meet him and she hopes marry him. From this point complications set in and the story moves swiftly to an interesting climax.

"I'd Do It Again" is the autobiography of James Michael Curley, who was one of the most impressive, influential and irrepressible politicans of twentieth century America. James Michael Curley has held every high political office his native Boston and Massachusetts could offer — including the governorship of the state, two terms in Congress and a four-time mayoralty of Boston. He refused President Roosevelt's offer to appoint him ambassador tc Poland and became known as the "Ambassador to South Boston." Now at eighty - two he has written his own account of more than fifty years in public life. It is one you won't want to miss.

Cookbooks are always popular with the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and we have a fine collection. The latest one of this group is called "Twelve Company Dinners" and was prepared by Margo Rieman. It gives every step in cooking and preparing a dinner from the making up of the grocery list to serving the after dinner coffee. A book which every man with a young family should read is called "Your Family Without You" and was written by N. R. Caine, a C. P. A. He explains the best ways to plan and arrange your affairs to assure the maximum income and protection for your wife and children. This is a book which can be of far reaching value and I cannot recommend it highly enough.

Someone recently wrote that the preoccupation of the American people with the War was one of the phenonoma of the age we live in. Among this week's additions are two new titles dealing with the Civil War. They are: "Inside the Confederate Government"; the diary of Robert Garlick Hill Kean and "When the World Ended", the diary of Emma Le Conte. These books are quite different. The first one has been called one of the most important historical discoveries of our time and presents a revealing and historical account of the working of the Confederate government. "When the World Ended" is the diary of a 17-year-old girl and her emotions when she saw the city which she loved fall to Sherman. It portrays the events which took place in the city of Columbia, S. C. during the winter of 1864 and the spring of 1865. It is a sensitive and revealing book and very true to the spirit of the times.

Probably the strongest section of our library collection is that dealing with gardening in all of its phases; one newest book in this group is called "Plants Indoors; How to Grow and Arrange Them." The author is C. R. Boutard and he has done a beautiful job with it. The only criticism is that the plates are not in color. Ashley Montagu, a professor of anthropology made a national name for himself when he appeared on a quiz show last spring. He is the author of several books and his newest title is "Man; His First Million Years"; which he calls a primer of anthropology physical and cultural. This is a very scholarly book, written in a most interesting manner. Many people are interested in the history of ancient man and will want to read this book.

Remember that your public library can help you with material on any subject that you need and that if we do not have the book, we can borrow it. Try the library when you next need reading material for pleasure or entertainment.

Bartow, Fla., Democrat: "Reading is not a completely universal habit, but fortunately for those who publish and edit newspapers the habit is so general that here are few homes today where one or more members of each family do not find it a pleasant and informative habit to keep up with what is going on in their home community and in the nation and the world at large through the simple process of reading their newspapers."

MAY BE SOLUTION

Test Devised To Spot Delinquency-In-Making

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana may have a solution to the problem of prisons and correctional institutions jammed beyond capacity by a swiftly rising crime rate.

He's about 15. He comes from a large family without much money. His father is either dead or has left his mother. His mother works. He's two years behind other kids in school but tests show he is just as smart.

Attitude tests by the state department of institutions show he has a lot of problems:

His family doesn't care what happens to him. But the family doesn't approve of what he wants to do for a life's work. Also, they disapprove of his friends.

Money Above Friends

He has trouble talking in a crowd, but denies he is shy. Anyway, he says, friends are not important. He'd rather have a lot of money than friends.

He has played hooky from school, been a constant problem to teachers while in school, even committed crimes, but realizes that's not the right kind of life.

Teachers gave him a raw deal in school, he claims, but adds that education is not very important. He doesn't think much of churches or religion either.

If you can cheat someone out of a lot of money, he holds, you should be allowed to keep it. He's convinced most criminals escape punishment. It's impossible for a honest man to get ahead in the world, he maintains, because if you are nice to people they step all over you.

Besides the delinquent survey, the department of institutions also made a study of 100 non-delinquents of high school age.

"These studies may well provide us with the information needed to take the first step in crime prevention — finding the pre-delinquent before he has gotten into trouble," comments Dr. Edward Grant, director of institutions.

BELOW THE SALT

Thomas B. Costain, who is noted for writing interesting and unusual novels, has hit the jackpot in his latest book. It is written in a unique fashion, but the idea and theme of the story is as important as it was when most of the action occurred. It deals primarily with the freedom and rights of man.

"His voice was cast in a lower tone, but it still carried the suggestion of a lionlike rumble . . . I want to explain everything for reasons you'll understand when you've heard. But not yet. This is the queerest and blastedest story that any human being has ever told; and every word of it true . . . It — well, it must be led up to."

With these words, John Foraday, an aspiring young writer, realized something remarkably strange lay ahead.

Young Foraday had been mysteriously summoned by the aging U. S. Senator O'Rawn whom he had not previously known — But what had the senator to say which must be ladled out — bit by bit —inkling by inkling.

The answers to these puzzling questions took John into visits to strange places and a love affair with a beautiful Irish girl.

It also took him back 700 years so that he was hearing an account of those stirring, violent events in England and Europe that led the Magna Charta and thus contributed so much to the liberties of future generations; with a story as well, most of it straight from history of a lost princess and the recovery of a lost charter.

The senator, under another name, was present at all those stirring events and was raised from a low-born to a knight as the result of his participation in them.

It is the story of "Black Henry," one of the worst kings in English history. It deals with the lost princess — how he locked her up in a castle after killing her brother because he was in direct line for the throne.

The thrilling story tells of her escape.

Through the story is weaved the intrigue and brutality, but behind it is the hope and the desire and the necessity that men must be free. It is a lesson for our time also.

Major Novel, But It Is Not A Great One

VOSS. By Patrick White. Viking. "That German — Mr. Voss."

So the quizzical people of Sydney speak of the complex man who, in this novel of a century ago, sets out with demoniacal determination to explore Australia.

We first meet him, a somewhat pretentious but dedicated fellow, at the Bonners'. Merchant Bonner was helping to finance the venture, but he was away at the moment and his orphan niece Laura receives the visitor. They are antipathetic, then curious, then sympathetic; when he leaves for the dangerous bush, they are, in their perverse fashion, in love. She warns him of his pride, he is shocked by her indifference to a higher power; still, they are powerfully attracted.

Laura remains with her cousin Belle, the Bonners and the society of Sydney. Voss leads off an odd band, forged, for a time, into a fanatic unity by devotion to him.

The man and the woman, separated physically yet spiritually together, are tested by almost unendurable ordeals; neither could have served the other so well by his presence as he did, during absence, by the ideal each conjured up, by the vision each created.

This is a major novel, not a great one, as White is a major novelist, and not, or not yet, a great one. Voss' 40 days and nights in the wilderness need to be less remote, and the legend a little more convincing. But White can write pages of real poetic beauty, and he sees deeply into the heart. Perhaps at this stage he is more a writer than a novelist.

New Usage Dictionary Is Excellent

There is no "ought" in writing or speech. Nothing is right or wrong abstractly, there is only the standard of use, or so these 600 pages of examples have been assembled to prove. In other words, language is merely a matter, the Evanses say, of keeping up with the Joneses.

By this easy method, you don't have to know anything, you only have to count. If more people in your neighborhood confuse "lie" and "lay" than not, then you should confuse them, otherwise the Evanses will call you a purist and accuse you of showing off. They approve of "who do you want" and "more unique, most unique;" they see nothing wrong in "ump ump tastes good like a cigaratte should," and they split infinitives as quick as you bat an eye.

I am a purist, which by their definition is just anti - Evans — and to be sure it is all relative. But they throw away too much too fast. Cut off an accuracy here, add vagueness there, and language is no longer a useful tool.

You remember the farmer with the horse to sell? He admitted to the purchaser, "It don't look good." But the purchaser thought it looked fine. He came back later however to complain it was blind. "I told you," the farmer retorted. The Evanses pave the way to "look good" and so on to the sign language, which is back where we started. We should go in the other direction, not the easy Evans way but the hard way, we should refine the language instead of blunting it.

LOW LEVEL MISSION

LOW LEVEL MISSION By Leon Wolff (Doubleday, $4.50).

This is the story of the Ploesti Raids in World War II—raids that seriously hampered the German war effort. The introduction to the book is by John R. Kane, a native of Shreveport, La., who led one flight of the bombers on the historic mission.

Only once in American history have five Congressional Medals of Honor been awarded to participants of a single military operation That single instance was the low-level AAF bombing of the oil refineries at Ploesti, Rumania, on August 1, 1943.

How did it happen that one air assault could create these and a thousand lesser decorations? The reasons are told by Leon Wolff in this book based largely on recorded interviews and eyewitness reports of survivors of that Ploesti mission. Here is the complete story, told with grim intensity, of the remarkable 2700-mile run from Africa to the Balkans and back.

Most Ploesti documents are still classified "secret" by the air force. Is there a valid reason for this reticence? The 1943 Ploesti raid was among the most controversial episodes of the air war; a battle of words still rages over its planning and execution. Somehow a disaster occurred at Ploesti that haunts World War II fliers even today. How did it happen? What really took place there? From dozens of sources Leon Wolff has traced the sequence of events to the complex truth.

Ploesti was more than an oil target — it was the Number One air target in Nazi Europe. And LOW LEVEL MISSION is more than teh story of one hair-raising, zero - altitude raid. It ties in the Ploesti raids thtt preceded and followed the one of August 1, 1943.

In his conclusions the author bridges the gap between the Ploesti mission and "major principles of aerial warfare." He underscores the points that major air operations cannot be launched without air superiority, nor won without air supremacy — and that the two terms are not synonymous. These points, like many of his other observations, bear directly on national defense spending and planning.

A SCENE OF STILLED BEAUTY

CAMERA NOTES

Light Yellow Filter Cuts Glare, Makes Sky Darker

A week ago while on an assignment at the groundbreaking for the Sportsman's Lodge near Campti, I took note of the fine background nature had provided for the occasion. A sky full of well - defined clouds was suddenly lighted by the sun, which had been covered most of the day.

Putting a sky - darkening K-2 filter in the lens hood on my Rolleiflex, I started looking for a section of the landscape which would make a good natural composition. Down by the water's edge, I found a spot where I could keep a tree in the foreground and shoot for great depth by stopping down to a small lens opening (f-22 with a corresponding slow shutter speed (1-25 sec.)

The effects of stopping down may be noted — the opposite shoreline of the lake was at least two miles away, yet it shows quite clearly as do the intervening trees, water and even the grass in the foreground.

It might have been possible to achieve such an effect without the aid of the yellow filter, but the risk of over - exposure — which would make a white sky hence no clouds — is far greater through an unguarded lens. Here, the filter did the job I wanted by darkening the foreground sky and whitening the edges of the clouds so they would show in sharp relief against the dark background

It is gratifying to come up with a photograph which looks like the picture you were shooting for. Further, it may be added anyone with simple equipment can make an interesting cloud study. Filters are available for all cameras, and a little careful planning does the rest. Give it a try and send one or two in.

NEW YORK (AP)—The days of the forged painting and the faked signature are numbered.

It took a Frenchwoman to remind us of it: The vivacious expert Madeleine Hours, head of the Louvre Museum Laboratory, a recent lecturer here and in Washington under the auspices of the French Cultural Embassy, and author of a book still availably only in French though it may appear in English.

We translate the title of this book, an intriguing summary of investigative processes, as "Exploring Painting by Physical Methods." It was published in February in Paris.

"False cracks, false signatures can be discovered by radiographic examination," she writes, explaining, "the copyist, the forger having tried only to reproduce the superficial aspects of the master he imitates."

In the case of Van Gogh, whose sky-high market value has tempted the forger frequently, Mrs. Hours says specifically:

"The new techniques" — ultra-violet and infra-red rays, X-ray and so on — "bring out the qualities of his work. It isn't at all the same way with the work of the forgers who have imitated him."

In fact, Mrs. Hours declared: "The principal role of these radiations is indeed to help uncover the copies."

How much progress has been made by this country compared with France? Mme. Hours told me:

"There is no great difference. I would think Paris leads in general documentation, in the systematic study not of some special paintings but of all. We apply the new techniques to our entire collections in order to establish standards by which these techniques themselves can be assessed accurately."

"On the other hand," she acknowledged, with a bit of envy in her voice, "the Metropolitan Museum has a remarkable new machine."

Murray Pease, who has charge of these things at the big Fifth Avenue institution, identified it as an infra - red direct viewer. It was developed from a device invented for the Army, a sniperscope.

The direct viewer shows the naked eye what a much more expensive infra - red camera shows only in a finished picture. It is in its field what the doctor's fluoroscope is to the X-ray. With it you can run over all the paintings in a gallery in minutes insteads of the weeks or months usually required.

"It's very much more difficult for a forged painting to get by than it was 20 years ago," Pease said. "About the same equipment was available then, but the attitude now is more receptive to the scientific tool."

STAMPS

The Universal Postal Union, the worldwide body that governs and regulates international postal matters, meets every five years. The 14th UPU Congress met this year in Ottawa, with much fanfare in the Canadian capital.

To honor this occasion Canadian postal officials issued two new stamps. The 5-cent blue shows the building where thme meetings were held. The 15-cent blue depicts a posthorn and globe.

To commemorate the centenary of its "struggle for freedom," India has issued two new stamps, reports the New York Stamp Co. One stamp illustrates a symbolic flame against a background of an open door. The other shows the Rani of Jhansi on horseback. The stamps were late in being issued because of a strike by post and telegraph workers in India.

A familiar face will be missing from the Washington philatelic scene. Robert E. Fellers, director of the Division of Philately, U. S. Post Office Dept., has announced his retirement. Fellers has been in government service since 1914 and was appointed to the Division of Philately in 1933.

America's oldest stamp publications. Robert Knobel, editor and general manager of the National Stamp News, will also head the new combined paper which will be published in Anderson, S. C.

Stamp Notes . . . Italy has issued a new 25-lire green adhesive on behalf of its traffic education camptign. Depicted is a traffic light in the center of crossroads. . . . Eight new stamps have been issued by Portuguese India. Each stamp bears a map of the Damao district but a different color and denomination . . . Western Germany has issued a 25-pfennig red brown stamp commemorating the Congress of German Culture. The design features a statue of Uta from the Naumburg Cathedral.

No Thrill Like Opening New Book

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

There is no thrill quite like that of opening a new book and finding that it is just the one you have been needing. The Ouachita Parish Public Library purchases book on a variety of subjects to fit the needs and interests of all types of people. Among this weeks additions are books that will interest many people. There is only one new book of fiction. It is "The Moon By Night" and was written by Joy Packer. The mysterious beauty of the South African wilds haunts the pages of this romantic novel about a young woman's journey to an unknown lover. It is the story of Alice Lang, a young London nurse who had always been drawn by the lure of Africa, an interest intensified by four years of correspondence with game warden Andrew Miller. When Alice's mother dies, she follows Andrew's urging and flies to th game preserve at Velaba. There she will meet him and she hopes marry him. From this point complications set in and the story moves swiftly to an interesting climax.

"I'd Do It Again" is the autobiography of James Michael Curley, who was one of the most impressive, influential and irrepressible politicans of twentieth century America. James Michael Curley has held every high political office his native Boston and Massachusetts could offer — including the governorship of the state, two terms in Congress and a four-time mayoralty of Boston. He refused President Roosevelt's offer to appoint him ambassador to Poland and became known as the "Ambassador to South Boston." Now at eighty - two he has written his own account of more than fifty years in public life. It is one you won't want to miss.

Cookbooks are always popular with the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and we have a fine collection. The latest one of this group is called "Twelve Company Dinners" and was prepared by Margo Rieman. It gives every step in cooking and preparing a dinner from the making up of the grocery list to serving the after dinner coffee. A book which every man with a young family should read is called "Your Family Without You" and was written by N. R. Caine, a C. P. A. He explains the best ways to plan and arrange your affairs to assure the maximum income and protection for your wife and children. This is a book which can be of far reaching value and I cannot recommend it highly enough.

Someone recently wrote that the preoccupation of the American people with the War was one of the phenonoma of the age we live in. Among this week's additions are two new titles dealing with the Civil War. They are: "Inside the Confederate Government"; the diary of Robert Garlick Hill Kean and "When the World Ended", the diary of Emma Le Conte. These books are quite different. The first one has been called one of the most important historical discoveries of our time and presents a revealing and historical account of the working of the Confederate government. "When the World Ended" is the diary of a 17-year-old girl and her emotions when she saw the city which she loved fall to Sherman. It portrays the events which took place in the city of Columbia, S. C. during the winter of 1864 and the spring of 1865. It is a sensitive and revealing book and very true to the spirit of the times.

Probably the strongest section of our library collection is that dealing with gardening in all of its phases; one newest book in this group is called "Plants Indoors; How to Grow and Arrange Them." The author is C. R. Boutard and he has done a beautiful job with it. The only criticism is that the plates are not in color. Ashley Montagu, a professor of anthropology made a national name for himself when he appeared on a quiz show last spring. He is the author of several books and his newest title is "Man; His First Million Years"; which he calls a primer of anthropology physical and cultural. This is a very scholarly book, written in a most interesting manner. Many people are interested in the history of ancient man and will want to read this book.

Remember that your public library can help you with material on any subject that you need and that if we do not have the book, we can borrow it. Try the library when you next need reading material for pleasure or entertainment.

Bartow, Fla., Democrat: "Reading is not a completely universal habit, but fortunately for those who publish and edit newspapers the habit is so general that here are few homes today where one or more members of each family do not find it a pleasant and informative habit to keep up with what is going on in their home community and in the nation and the world at large through the simple process of reading their newspapers."

MAY BE SOLUTION

Test Devised To Spot Delinquency-In-Making

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana may have a solution to the problem of prisons and correctional institutions jammed beyond capacity by a swiftly rising crime rate.

He's about 15. He comes from a large family without much money. His father is either dead or has left his mother. His mother works. He's two years behind other kids in school but tests show he is just as smart.

Attitude tests by the state department of institutions show he has a lot of problems:

His family doesn't care what happens to him. But the family doesn't approve of what he wants to do for a life's work. Also, they disapprove of his friends.

Money Above Friends

He has trouble talking in a crowd, but denies he is shy. Anyway, he says, friends are not important. He'd rather have a lot of money than friends.

He has played hooky from school, been a constant problem to teachers while in school, even committed crimes, but realizes that's not the right kind of life.

Teachers gave him a raw deal in school, he claims, but adds that education is not very important. He doesn't think much of churches or religion either.

If you can cheat someone out of a lot of money, he holds, you should be allowed to keep it. He's convinced most criminals escape punishment. It's impossible for a honest man to get ahead in the world, he maintains, because if you are nice to people they step all over you.

Besides the delinquent survey, the department of institutions also made a study of 100 non-delinquents of high school age.

"These studies may well provide us with the information needed to take the first step in crime prevention — finding the pre-delinquent before he has gotten into trouble," comments Dr. Edward Grant, director of institutions.

Chou En-Lai Asks Equal News Rights

PEIPING Sept. 7 (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai said today 24 U.S. newsmen won't enter China unless Chinese reporters get equal rights to visit the United States.

Chou talked with 41 visiting young Americans, just after 10 of them had visited two Americans imprisoned about five years.

The young Americans saw the two prisoners in separate groups, talked with them for half an hour, and reported both looked healthy and well-fed.

The prisoners are John Downey of New Britain, Conn., and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., serving life and 20 years respectively. They were in a plane shot down in 1952 in the Korean War. They were accused of dropping supplies to anti-Communist agents in Manchuria.

Two Hour Interview

Chou said in a two-hour interview that Chinese reporters must be allowed the same rights in the United States as he was willing to grant the U.S. newsmen now waiting in Hong Kong.

Chou asserted, "The State Department put an end to the matter by refusing reciprocal rights of coverage to Chinese reporters."

(Secretary of State Dulles said recently that the Chinese applications "will have to run the gamut of applicable law, which in this case is rather severe." No Communist Chinese newsmen have applied as yet for U.S. visas.)

In the marathon interview, one of the youths who had just visited one of the two American prisoners asked how many Americans were being held in Red China.

"I am glad you visited the American prisoner today," Chou said. "I would like it if you could tell his family about his life in China and the families of five other prisoners.

Ready To Receive Them

"If the families of the six are willing to come to China, we are quite ready to receive them."

He added that the prisoners can expect time off their sentences for good behavior.

Chou rpeated the old claim that the United States is holding 5,000 Chinese who cannot write or visit their families. He said 30 Chinese are being held in U.S. jails.

Turning to Formosa, the island bastion of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Chou said it means as much to Red China as Hawaii does to the United States.

"If a foreign power should take the Hawaiian Islands and tell the United States not to use force to take it back — how would the Americans feel?" he said.

Chou accused America of trying to live in isolation from Red China.

He charged that the United States was in league with bad elements and was attempting to instigate an independence movement in Tibet.

Chou ended the interview by joining the Americans in singing "Down by the Riverside."

Woman Captures Burglary Suspect In Grocery Store

Keen hearing and courage of the woman owner of the Eleventh Street Grocery landed a would-be Negro burglar in the parish jail early yesterday.

Mrs. Jewel Atkins, who owns the grocery located at 1114 Louise Ann avenue, and lives in the same building, heard noises in the store shortly before 1 a.m. Saturday.

Arming herself with a pistol, she quitly opened the door leading into the grocery and saw, she said, George M. Williams, 39, Negro of 1104 Louise Ann standing in front of the cash register.

She held him at gunpoint while she phoned the Monroe police department. Officers rushed to the scene, and found that Williams had stuffed his pockets with quarters, dimes, nickles and pennies.

He was charged with burglary at 1:30 a.m. at the police station, then transferred to the parish jail.

UNEXPECTEDLY

King Saud Flies To Discuss Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Sept. 7 (AP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia flew unexpectedly to Beirut today and promptly went into talks with President Camille Chamoun on Syria's swing toward the Soviet orbit.

The monarch apparently sought a first-hand report on Soviet penetration in the Arab nation.

Within an hour after his arrival, King Saud was in conference with Chamoun. He ordered the Saudi Arabian ambassador to Baghdad to rush to Beirut tonight.

In the past three weeks, the pro-Communist shift in Syria has increased steadily.

Syria's anti-Communist neighbors—Lebanon, Jordan and Iraq—are worried that so-called trade agreements between the Soviet Union and Syria are giving the Russians their long-sought outpost in the Middle East.

The United States recognizes these fears and is shipping arms to Syria's three Arab neighbors and Turkey. An airlift of U. S. weapons to Jordan started today.

King Saud's visit caught Lebanon by surprise. President Chamoun got word of the visit in his summer home only 12 hours before the monarch's arrival.

Chamoun left hastily for Beirut to meet the King. Saud received only a minimum of the pomp usually accorded visiting Arab dignitaries. Then he and his party of four set up lodgings in a wing of the Bristol Hotel—not one of Beirut's luxury hotels.

Saud himself apparently decided at the last minute to make the trip. He was scheduled to visit Lebanon, but not until October. He plans to stay in Beirut two days and then go on to Switzerland.

Saud, a friend of the United States, comes to Lebanon close behind a visit by Loy Henderson, U. S. State Department troubleshooter.

Henderson is back in Washington and has reported to Secretary of State Dulles that the situation in Syria is serious. His report prompted the arms shipments to Syria's neighbors.

In Damascus, meanwhile, the leftist Syrian government also appeared jittery.

Akram Hourani, who has emerged from the Syrian crisis as the real power in Damascus, warned that "any attack on Syria might lead to a world war."

Hourani holds no public office but is the leader of the Baath (Arab Socialist Renaissance) party, a leftist, pro-Soviet group. The party has the full backing of the Syrian army and, while its membership is the smallest in Syria, it virtually runs the country.

Army Engineers

Dam, Spillway Plan Considered For D'Arbonne

Plans to construct a dam and a spillway across Bayou D'Arbonne near Farmerville are under consideration by the U.S. Army Engineer District Corps of Engineers at Vicksburg, Miss.

The plans, as submitted, show an earth dam 27.7 miles above the mouth of Bayou D'Arbonne and 10 miles below its confluence with Bayou Corney. It is to be, if approved, 2400 feet long with a 21-foot crown. The dam would provide a concrete spillway with sluice openings for low water flow.

IN ST. LOUIS

Two Daily Newspapers Paralyzed By Strike

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7 (AP)—St. Louis' two daily newspapers, paralyzed today by a strike of twenty-two electricians, asked again for arbitration to settle the wage dispute. Printers and paper handlers refused to cross picket lines at the Post-Dispatch and the Globe-Democrat.

Both papers said they would deliver or sell on newsstands Sunday editions, consisting of comics, magazine sections and other sections already prepared. There will be no local or national news in the Sunday editions.

The St. Louis Newspaper Publishers Assn., representative of the newspapers, said it would send Local 1, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, a telegram asking for arbitration.

A spokesman said the telegram urges the men to go back to work "in the interests of serving the public." The electricians rejected arbitration in earlier talks.

The afternoon post-Dispatch publishes three editions on Saturday.

KSD and KSD-TV, the Post-Dispatch's radio and television stations, were off the air when the strike started this morning. However, KSD returned to the air after a three-hour silence by transmitting from Illinois, just across the Mississippi River.

Reporters and copy readers prepared copy in case a fast settlement was reached.

The Globe-Democrat, a morning paper, was on the street with its late edition before the strike.

Electricians receive $3.25 an hour for day work, $3.35 for the first night shift and $3.40 for the second night shift. The union asks an increase over a two-year period of 30, 32 and 34 cents an hour, respectively, for the three shifts. The newspapers have offered a 25-cent hourly boost over two years, 15 cents the first year and 10 cents the second. The newspapers are not in favor of the shift differentials the union asks.

The two-year contract expired at midnight last night and the union and the publishers' association talked until 4:40 a.m. in a last-ditch attempt at averting a strike. Pickets formed shortly after the talks concluded.

The printers are members of International Typographical Union, Local 8.

RAZOR BLADES, TURPENTINE

Two Klansmen Confess To Butchery Of Negro Man

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 7 (UP) — Two Ku Klux Klansmen confessed today that they and four others did a cruel job of butchery, using razor blades and turpentine, on a feeble-minded Negro they chose at random "to scare hell out of."

They said they went out looking for the first Negro they could find after a Klan meeting. They dragged back a Negro named Judge Aaron to their little block meeting house with a dirt floor and there, by lamp light, emasculated him "100 per cent."

Three klansmen in all were held, including the exalted cyclops of a local "klavern," one of the many loosely organized klan chapters that have sprung up in the south since school integration began.

Wore Gaudy Robe

The cyclops, Joe P. Pritchett, 31, according to the statements of the other two, wore a robe with gaudy red trim at the time Aaron was seized and mutilated.

Pritchett, who refused to make a statement, John N. Griffin, 38, and William J. Miller, 28, all were held under $5,000 bail on a charge of mayhem. The crime carries up to 20 years imprisonment in Alabama.

Aaron is in fair condition at the Veterans Administration hospital where he was taken after police found him in agony by a roadside early last Tuesday.

Police were seeking three other klansmen, who had not been publicly identified, for the fiendish attack on the 34-year-old part-time painter whose only offense was his color. His family said Aaron had been treated at a mental hospital and had the mind of a four-year-old.

There was no possible connection between Aaron and the integration movement in Birmingham, where eight Negro families are seeking to enroll their children in white schools, police said.

Officers could only go along with the suspects' explanation of a motive—they wanted to "scare hell out of' a Negro.

Chou En-Lai Asks Equal News Rights

PEIPING Sept. 7 (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai said today 24 U.S. newsmen won't enter China unless Chinese reporters get equal rights to visit the United States.

Chou talked with 41 visiting young Americans, just after 10 of them had visited two Americans imprisoned about five years.

The young Americans saw the two prisoners in separate groups, talked with them for half an hour, and reported both looked healthy and well-fed.

The prisoners are John Downey of New Britain, Conn., and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., serving life and 20 years respectively. They were in a plane shot down in 1952 in the Korean War. They were accused of dropping supplies to anti-Communist agents in Manchuria.

Two Hour Interview

Chou said in a two-hour interview that Chinese reporters must be allowed the same rights in the United States as he was willing to grant the U.S. newsmen now waiting in Hong Kong.

Chou asserted, "The State Department put an end to the matter by refusing reciprocal rights of coverage to Chinese reporters."

(Secretary of State Dulles said recently that the Chinese applications "will have to run the gamut of applicable law, which in this case is rather severe." No Communist Chinese newsmen have applied as yet for U.S. visas.)

In the marathon interview, one of the youths who had just visited one of the two American prisoners asked how many Americans were being held in Red China.

"I am glad you visited the American prisoner today," Chou said. "I would like it if you could tell his family about his life in China and the families of five other prisoners.

Ready To Receive Them

"If the families of the six are willing to come to China, we are quite ready to receive them."

He added that the prisoners can expect time off their sentences for good behavior.

Chou rpeated the old claim that the United States is holding 5,000 Chinese who cannot write or visit their families. He said 30 Chinese are being held in U.S. jails.

Turning to Formosa, the island bastion of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, Chou said it means as much to Red China as Hawaii does to the United States.

"If a foreign power should take the Hawaiian Islands and tell the United States not to use force to take it back — how would the Americans feel?" he said.

Chou accused America of trying to live in isolation from Red China.

He charged that the United States was in league with bad elements and was attempting to instigate an independence movement in Tibet.

Chou ended the interview by joining the Americans in singing "Down by the Riverside."

Woman Captures Burglary Suspect In Grocery Store

Keen hearing and courage of the woman owner of the Eleventh Street Grocery landed a would-be Negro burglar in the parish jail early yesterday.

Mrs. Jewel Atkins, who owns the grocery located at 1114 Louise Ann avenue, and lives in the same building, heard noises in the store shortly before 1 a.m. Saturday.

Arming herself with a pistol, she quitly opened the door leading into the grocery and saw, she said, George M. Williams, 39, Negro of 1104 Louise Ann standing in front of the cash register.

She held him at gunpoint while she phoned the Monroe police department. Officers rushed to the scene, and found that Williams had stuffed his pockets with quarters, dimes, nickles and pennies.

He was charged with burglary at 1:30 a.m. at the police station, then transferred to the parish jail.

UNEXPECTEDLY

King Saud Flies To Discuss Syria

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Sept. 7 (AP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia flew unexpectedly to Beirut today and promptly went into talks with President Camille Chamoun on Syria's swing toward the Soviet orbit.

The monarch apparently sought a first-hand report on Soviet penetration in the Arab nation.

Within an hour after his arrival, King Saud was in conference with Chamoun. He ordered the Saudi Arabian ambassador to Baghdad to rush to Beirut tonight.

In the past three weeks, the pro-Communist shift in Syria has increased steadily.

Syria's anti-Communist neighbors—Lebanon, Jordan and Iraq—are worried that so-called trade agreements between the Soviet Union and Syria are giving the Russians their long-sought outpost in the Middle East.

The United States recognizes these fears and is shipping arms to Syria's three Arab neighbors and Turkey. An airlift of U. S. weapons to Jordan started today.

King Saud's visit caught Lebanon by surprise. President Chamoun got word of the visit in his summer home only 12 hours before the monarch's arrival.

Chamoun left hastily for Beirut to meet the King. Saud received only a minimum of the pomp usually accorded visiting Arab dignitaries. Then he and his party of four set up lodgings in a wing of the Bristol Hotel—not one of Beirut's luxury hotels.

Saud himself apparently decided at the last minute to make the trip. He was scheduled to visit Lebanon, but not until October. He plans to stay in Beirut two days and then go on to Switzerland.

Saud, a friend of the United States, comes to Lebanon close behind a visit by Loy Henderson, U. S. State Department troubleshooter.

Henderson is back in Washington and has reported to Secretary of State Dulles that the situation in Syria is serious. His report prompted the arms shipments to Syria's neighbors.

In Damascus, meanwhile, the leftist Syrian government also appeared jittery.

Akram Hourani, who has emerged from the Syrian crisis as the real power in Damascus, warned that "any attack on Syria might lead to a world war."

Hourani holds no public office but is the leader of the Baath (Arab Socialist Renaissance) party, a leftist, pro-Soviet group. The party has the full backing of the Syrian army and, while its membership is the smallest in Syria, it virtually runs the country.

Dam, Spillway Plan Considered For D'Arbonne

Plans to construct a dam and a spillway across Bayou D'Arbonne near Farmerville are under consideration by the U.S. Army Engineer District Corps of Engineers at Vicksburg, Miss.

The plans, as submitted, show an earth dam 27.7 miles above the mouth of Bayou D'Arbonne and 10 miles below its confluence with Bayou Corney. It is to be, if approved, 2400 feet long with a 21-foot crown. The dam would provide a concrete spillway with sluice openings for low water flow.

IN ST. LOUIS

Two Daily Newspapers Paralyzed By Strike

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7 (AP)—St. Louis' two daily newspapers, paralyzed today by a strike of twenty-two electricians, asked again for arbitration to settle the wage dispute. Printers and paper handlers refused to cross picket lines at the Post-Dispatch and the Globe-Democrat.

Both papers said they would deliver or sell on newsstands Sunday editions, consisting of comics, magazine sections and other sections already prepared. There will be no local or national news in the Sunday editions.

The St. Louis Newspaper Publishers Assn., representative of the newspapers, said it would send Local 1, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, a telegram asking for arbitration.

A spokesman said the telegram urges the men to go back to work "in the interests of serving the public." The electricians rejected arbitration in earlier talks.

The afternoon post-Dispatch publishes three editions on Saturday.

KSD and KSD-TV, the Post-Dispatch's radio and television stations, were off the air when the strike started this morning. However, KSD returned to the air after a three-hour silence by transmitting from Illinois, just across the Mississippi River.

SAM SMITH

Veteran Banker Recounts Fifty Years In Business

By H. H. BRINSMADE
Staff Writer

In the life of Sam Smith, vice-president and cashier of the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company, the date of Sept. 7 has for years loomed before him with importance. It was on September 7, 1907 that he became member of the bank's staff as runner. In subsequent years he has assumed a place as important member of the staff with the official title by which he is known.

This time he admits September 7 seems to have rolled around more quickly than ever and this time with added new importance for it marks a half century since the day, in a far back September that he entered the service of the Central bank.

Served At Argonne

To be sure there was a short break when Smith, as loyal American, served his country by service in the first World War which took him overseas, seeing service as a lieutenant in infantry in the famed Argonne Forest in France. The war quickly ended. Smith was back in his old bank job.

In 1923, upon urgent persuasion of a friend, Mr. Smith was rather reluctantly induced to leave the bank here and accept a position with an automobile finance company in Shreveport. When he left the Central bank, with considerable reluctance, he had been invested with the title of vice-president.

A few years later, to be exact in 1938, the Central bank here had gone through the depression years and was coming through and facing expansions and Travis Oliver, then the president, requiring just such a man as Smith had proved, induced him to leave his Shreveport job and assume his former position and title with the bank here.

Business Expands

In 1938, upon his return, the depression was over and the country was on the gain along all business lines banking and business generally had great expansion and Smith was able to fit right into the picture here and he has ever been one of the best known most trusted and substantial members of the bank's staff. The public is well aware of the progress of this institution in which Smith, with other staff members, has played an important role.

In reminiscent mood, Smith told the writer of some of the past history in which he has been concerned.

"Back in 1907," he said, "Monroe had a population of about 8,000. The Central Savings Bank and Trust company had been organized in January, 1906, a little more than a year before I went to work with it. Uriah Millsaps was first president and what amazed Monroyans was the erection of the building now known as the Heninger building as first home of the newly - organized Central bank. It was the first lofty building here and in jest was called Monroe's "skyscraper". The bank started with a capital of about a half million dollars, and the staff then comprised the president, cashier, bookkeeper, teller and bank "runner", — my job at the time I joined them.

"Incidentally, such a thing as a typewriter was not known in a bank like this one. All was done with pen and ink, even to the bank's correspondence. For records an indelible pencil was used.

"Today the Central's staff for the main office and its branch banks on Louisville avenue, West Monroe and the new one near the college, require approximately 80 employes and soon another branch bank is slated far out Jackson street.

"Banking today is big business," assured Smith and with the present outlook there is no telling how fast cities like Monroe will grow and how fast banking will be forced to make expansions."

Smith, native of Louisville, Ky., was removed with his parents to Ruston, La., at a tender age. His father and two other relatives owned and operated "The Famous," a rather large store for a city like Ruston.

He admits he failed to continue in high school when he was about to graduate but he longed to get into business. For a time he worked in his father's store until he came to Monroe in 1907.

He knew all the presidents of the Central bank for he served under all of them starting with the first president, Uriah Millsaps, who was succeeded by Col. Frank Stubbs, Jr. and then by Travis Oliver, none of them living today. John M. Breard, Jr., from a well known local family, and a long time staff member, became successor as president after the death of Oliver.

Smith was married to Miss Minnie Harris, of Orlando, Fla., and they are parents of two sons and a daughter. They are Louis D. Smith, well known Monroe attorney; Ansel Smith, a television man in Monroe and Miss Minette Smith, L. S. U. class of 1957 member who this month is starting as a teacher with the Dallas, Tex. public schools.

Smith states that he has been too busy with banking to take up golf or other sports, although he enjoys football and baseball as an onlooker. He has been active in Temple and club work, member of Temple B'Nai Israel, he has herved as president of the Congregation and is a past president of the men's club there. He has for years been active in the Lions club and member and president of the Chamber of Commerce; also for 30 years he has been member of the L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion.

Tall of figure like an arrow, with ruddy countenance and pleasant smile he belies that he has seen a half century in the business world.

Asked if he had thought of retiring, he stated: "What on earth would I do for amusement if I did such a foolish thing as to shut myself off from the business world?"

YMCA Fall Youth Work Plan Ready

Haywood Miles, chairman of the Twin Cities Y.M.C.A. Youth Committee, announced yesterday that the fall youth program will begin in the schools in the very near future.

The program will include boys with an age range from six to 18 years. This year it will be expanded into the two new junior high schools in the city and into all new elementary schools and all high schools in Ouachita Parish.

Programs to be carried on in the schools consist of "Y" Indian Guides for boys 6-8; Gra-Y for boys 9-12; Junior Hi-Y for boys 13-14; and Hi-Y for boys 15-18.

"Y" Indian Guides is a father and son program which helps to bring a better understanding and a closer relationship between the two when a son really needs his father's guidance, Miles said.

Gra-Y provides an opportunity for a boy to associate with other boys under the guidance of a competent leader during leisure time. Activities of the Gra-Y includes: athletics, crafts, campouts, service projects, devotionals, and educational trips.

The platform for Junior Hi-Y and Hi-Y is: "Clean Living, Clean Scholarship, Clean Speech, and Clean Sports. These boys are members of a fellowship not only across the nation but also in foreign countries. Hi-Y boys participat- in service projects, conferences, forums, and many other programs that help keep them clean in body, mind, and spirit," Miles added.

In addition to the school programs, there will also be activities at the Y.M.C.A. building such as the all-purpose club which includes model airplane classes, chess clubs, ping-pong, and other activities. The Twin Cities Y.M.C.A. is a participating member of the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish.

SAM SMITH

Veteran Banker Recounts Fifty Years In Business

By H. H. BRINSMADE
Staff Writer

In the life of Sam Smith, vice-president and cashier of the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company, the date of Sept. 7 has for years loomed before him with importance. It was on September 7, 1907 that he became member of the bank's staff as runner. In subsequent years he has assumed a place as important member of the staff with the official title by which he is known.

This time he admits September 7 seems to have rolled around more quickly than ever and this time with added new importance for it marks a half century since the day, in a far back September that he entered the service of the Central bank.

Served At Argonne

To be sure there was a short break when Smith, as loyal American, served his country by service in the first World War which took him overseas, seeing service as a lieutenant in infantry in the famed Argonne Forest in France. The war quickly ended, Smith was back in his old bank job.

In 1923, upon urgent persuasion of a friend, Mr. Smith was rather reluctantly induced to leave the bank here and accept a position with an automobile finance company in Shreveport. When he left the Central bank, with considerable reluctance, he had been invested with the title of vice-president.

A few years later, to be exact in 1938, the Central bank here had gone through the depression years and was coming through and facing expansions and Travis Oliver, then the president, requiring just such a man as Smith had proved, induced him to leave his Shreveport job and assume his former position and title with the bank here.

Business Expands

In 1938, upon his return, the depression was over and the country was on the gain along all business lines banking and business generally had great expansion and Smith was able to fit right into the picture here and he has ever been one of the best known most trusted and substantial members of the bank's staff. The public is well aware of the progress of this institution in which Smith, with other staff members, has played an important role.

In reminiscent mood, Smith told the writer of some of the past history in which he has been concerned.

"Back in 1907," he said, "Monroe had a population of about 8,000. The Central Savings Bank and Trust company had been organized in January, 1906, a little more than a year before I went to work with it. Uriah Millsaps was first president and what amazed Monroyans was the erection of the building now known as the Heninger building as first home of the newly - organized Central bank. It was the first lofty building here and in jest was called Monroe's "skyscraper". The bank started with a capital of about a half million dollars, and the staff then comprised the president, cashier, bookkeeper, teller and bank "runner", — my job at the time I joined them.

"Incidentally, such a thing as a typewriter was not known in a bank like this one. All was done with pen and ink, even to the bank's correspondence. For records an indelible pencil was used.

"Today the Central's staff for the main office and its branch banks on Louisville avenue, West Monroe and the new one near the college, require approximately 80 employes and soon another branch bank is slated far out Jackson street.

"Banking today is big business," assured Smith and with the present outlook there is no telling how fast cities like Monroe will grow and how fast banking will be forced to make expansions."

Smith, native of Louisville, Ky., was removed with his parents to Ruston, La., at a tender age. His father and two other relatives owned and operated "The Famous," a rather large store for a city like Ruston.

He admits he failed to continue in high school when he was about to graduate but he longed to get into business. For a time he worked in his father's store until he came to Monroe in 1907.

He knew all the presidents of the Central bank for he served under all of them starting with the first president, Uriah Millsaps, who was succeeded by Col. Frank Stubbs, Jr. and then by Travis Oliver, none of them living today. John M. Breard, Jr., from a well known local family, and a long time staff member, became successor as president after the death of Oliver.

Smith was married to Miss Minnie Harris, of Oralndo, Fla., and they are parents of two sons and a daughter. They are Louis D. Smith, well known Monroe attorney; Ansel Smith, a television man in Monroe and Miss Minette Smith, L. S. U. class of 1957 member who this month is starting as a teacher with the Dallas, Tex. public schools.

Smith states that he has been too busy with banking to take up golf or other sports, although he enjoys football and baseball as an onlooker. He has been active in Temple and club work, member of Temple B'Nai Israel, he has herved as president of the Congregation and is a past president of the men's club there. He has for years been active in the Lions club and member and president of the Chamber of Commerce; also for 30 years he has been member of the L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion.

Tall of figure like an arrow, with ruddy countenance and pleasant smile he belies that he has seen a half century in the business world.

Asked if he had thought of retiring, he stated: "What on earth would I do for amusement if I did such a foolish thing as to shut myself off from the business world?"

YMCA Fall Youth Work Plan Ready

Haywood Miles, chairman of the Twin Cities Y.M.C.A. Youth Committee, announced yesterday that the fall youth program will begin in the schools in the very near future.

The program will include boys with an age range from six to 18 years. This year it will be expanded into the two new junior high schools in the city and into all new elementary schools and all high schools in Ouachita Parish.

Programs to be carried on in the schools consist of "Y" Indian Guides for boys 6-8; Gra-Y for boys 9-12; Junior Hi-Y for boys 13-14; and Hi-Y for boys 15-18.

"Y" Indian Guides is a father and son program which helps to bring a better understanding and a closer relationship between the two when a son really needs his father's guidance, Miles said.

Gra-Y provides an opportunity for a boy to associate with other boys under the guidance of a competent leader during leisure time. Activities of the Gra-Y includes: athletics, crafts, campouts, service projects, devotionals, and educational trips.

The platform for Junior Hi-Y and Hi-Y is: "Clean Living, Clean Scholarship, Clean Speech, and Clean Sports. These boys are members of a fellowship not only across the nation but also in foreign countries. Hi-Y boys participat- in service projects, conferences, forums, and many other programs that help keep them clean in body, mind, and spirit," Miles added.

In addition to the school programs, there will also be activities at the Y.M.C.A. building such as the all-purpose club which includes model airplane classes, chess clubs, ping-pong, and other activities. The Twin Cities Y.M.C.A. is a participating member of the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Jacob Lantz, assisted by Rabbi Nathaniel Share, of New Orleans, at 8 o'clock in the evening at Temple B'Nai Israel.

Miss Snyder was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a traditional wedding gown of creamy silk cloud peau de soie cut in flowing Princess style, the full skirt ending in a sweeping court train. MRS. MORRIS HENRY LEVY

Miss Snyder And Morris Levy Are Wed Thursday In Monroe Temple B'Nai Israel Is Setting

Miss Sarah Sue Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Snyder, of Bastrop, became the bride Thursday of Morris Henry Levy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Levy of New Orleans. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Jacob Lantz, assisted by Rabbi Nathaniel Share, of New Orleans, at 8 o'clock in the evening at Temple B'Nai Israel.

Decorating the church were large arrangements of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums against a background of cathedral candles. The nuptial music was presented by Leon Hammond at the organ and Garland Shell, soloist.

Miss Snyder was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a traditional wedding gown of creamy silk cloud peau de soie cut in flowing Princess style, the full skirt ending in a sweeping court train. A fold of the silk accentuated the Empire line and over - embroidered red Point de Lyons lace, with delicate traceries of seed pearls formed a yoke with tiny sleeves and a Sabrina neckline. Her veil of French illusion was held to her hair with a petalled cap of lace and peau de soie. She carried an heirloom Bible, covered with sprays of lilies of the valley. The Bible had first been used by her maternal grandmother on her wedding day.

Matron of honor to the bride was her cousin, Mrs. Louis Daniel Smith, and her other attendants were Miss Louise Faye Doernberg, Miss Barbara Lee Miller, Miss Dotty Lee Gold, cousin of the bride and Miss Florette Michael Snyder, another cousin. They all wore dresses of romance blue chiffon. The tightly draped bodices had soft folds of a lighter shade of material forming a high front neckline and floating loosely from the deep V back to the hemline. On their heads they wore little circular blue veils attached to matching bandeaux of silken petals and carried yellow roses with their natural foliage.

Mr. Levy had his father as best man and as groomsmen and ushers, Elliott Bain, Berrill Bohrer, Julius Cahn, Jr., Jack Dienes, Roy Gonsenhein, Maurice Katz, Sanford Maslansky, C. E. Snyder, Charles Snyder, brother of the bride, and Leonard Stern.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder were hosts at a reception following the ceremony at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Mrs. Snyder was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Levy, mother of the bridegroom. Mrs. Snyder chose for the occasion a princess styled dress of gold cloth with a shoulder corsage of green cyprepedium orchids. Mrs. Levy's gown was of apricot haze colored lace made over champagne satin. Her accessories were the same shade and she also wore green orchids.

Mrs. Sol Snyder, Mrs. David Kaplan, Mrs. H. I. Seligman and Mrs. Joe Kern greeted the guests at the entrance and presented them to the hosts and members of the wedding party. Others in the houseparty were Mrs. Fausta Hogan, Mrs. Maurice Raphael, Mrs. Joe Schendle, Mrs. Jacob Seligman, Mrs. F. M. Goldsmith, Mrs. Mortimer Raphael, Mrs. Alan Sugar, Sr. and Miss Jennie Smith. At different times guests were registered by Mrs. Leonard Stern and Mrs. Abry Cahn, Jr.

Arrangements of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were used throughout the club rooms. The bride's table, covered in white satin and bridal maline, caught with nosegays of valley jilies, held the square tiered wedding cake frosted in white and embossed with lilies of the valley. Here Mrs. Morris Haas, Sr., Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. A. C. Volk and Mrs. Mack Barham served. At the nearby punch table a Baroque angel candelabra with fountain effect of white Fugi chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece. At either end were silver punch bowls. Scraggly Brows Mar Beauty

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Many a schoolgirl this fall will try her hand at tweezing her eyebrows for the first time. And after removing those first few straggly hairs, she will realize that eyebrow tweezing is an art, requiring a little knowledge and a good deal of deftness in finger movement.

The first rule is never to tweeze the top arch of the eyebrow. That is the line that lends a special character to the face, and it seems that no matter what type of face one has, the natural eyebrow line is the most flattering.

It is the straggly hairs below the arch and between the eyebrows that should be removed for a clean look in that area. Then the brows may be emphasized, widened, broadened, if necessary, with eyebrow pencil.

You may judge where to tweeze the eyebrow by taking a pencil and holding it straight up from the side of your nostril to your eyebrow. Remove all hairs that grow inside this line on either side.

Tears may come to the eyes during that first tweezing, and these seem to be caused primarily by hesitation, anticipated pain and inexperience with the tweezers. The eyebrow skin is delicate and should be prepared in advance of tweezing by washing it with a mild soap and warm water, holding the warm washcloth against the skin for several minutes. This will open the pores and make hairs come out more easily.

Pat the skin dry, working a little cold cream into it. Do this around both eyebrows at once, so that the one you're not working on will stay soft. Now sit down before a magnifying mirror in good light. Dip the point of your eyebrow tweezers into alochol to keep it antiseptic. Newer tweezers have scissor handles and are easily manipulated. You can grasp the end of the tweezers as you would scissors making it easier to get hold of little hairs. Pat the skin with tissue to remove excess cream so hairs will not be slippery. Spread skin around eyebrow hairs with first and third fingers of your left hand pulling it very taut. Grasp one hair at a time close to the skin with your instrument. Pull with a quick motion. The hairs should come out easily.

After removing all the excess hair, dip a clean tissue into alcohol, witch hazel or astringent and pat the area. This helps close the pores and prevent infection. Some girls wrap an ice cube in a cloth and rub it gently over the skin.

Argyles Inspire New Femme Fad

ST. LOUIS — (UP) — Trust a woman to make a sock high fashion.

St. Louis designers admired the Argyle patterns in men's knitted footwear, then turned out a "sock dress."

"It's as easy to slip into as a sock," they said.

It has a drawstring belt, a cardigan neckline and brief sleeves, in woven wool jersey. The dress goes along with the new lean, stretched - out look for youth, the experts said.

The look stretches to the 29-inch long coats, and pullover sweaters above slim skirts and tapered slacks.

But they hasten to add that the bell silhouette has not waned in popularity. On the contrary, early fall cottons and the sheerer winter fabrics are as full - pleated as ever.

The sock dress, the straight sheath and the jumper best express the slim silhouette — and all come in sweater colors. The colors are bright — pepper red, kerry green, lapin blue and camel.

SUMMER SQUASH SAUTE

NEW YORK —(UP)—Summer squash is an easy addition to the menu, when it is prepared this way. Chop an onion and saute until it is golden brown. Add ½ cup of chicken broth and 2 cups of sliced squash. Cook until it is just tender. Season with salt and pepper and a bit of basil. Serve immediately.

You can shorten the defrosting time of a home freezer by using a ordinary room fan to blow warm air into the freezer box.

Today's Subject Is Hospital Etiquette

Because at one time or another most of us go to a hospital—fortunately most of us go only as visitors, but there are times when we ourselves have to go as patients — I have chosen as today's subject, hospital etiquette.

Whether we go as a patient or visitor, we must behave so that our presence there, when we are visitors, fits into an orderly pattern and so that, as a patient the hospital's staff can do its best for us.

Far too often visitors are thoughtless and careless. One should think of the problems that a visitor makes under the busy, crowded hospital conditions of today. Courtesy to nurses and the other hospital personnel, quiet ness of manner and approach in the hospital buildings, avoidance of asking for special attention from busy people, these we can show —and above all we must not act in any way that will be tiring or harmful to the patient we are visiting.

We must make our visits short and friendly. We must not engage the patient in long discussions, nor ask questions about his or her illness that properly are in the sphere of the doctor and the nurse. We must time our visits so that the patient neither becomes tired nor anxious and, of course, we must always follow the rules as they are given to us by the nurse. A surgeon that I know claims that visitors kill more patients than do operations, certainly an overstatement, but be sure that you are not one of those visitors.

When we ourselves are ill there are times when we are apt to forget that doctors and nurses are people too, and that they are doing their very best to help us. Unless one has private nurses, we must realize that the hospital staff serves many people and only so much of their time can be devoted to us. We, therefore, should not ask for services that are not really necessary. Simply remember that the doctors and nurses, from professional pride if for no other reason, do their best for you. But if you are as considerate as possible in your demands on their time and sympathy, they will probably on their own give you an extra amount of both, and the patient who is irritable without cause will surely receive little of either.

Don't bring as your gift elaborate floral arrangements or foods that the patient is not permitted to have.

Don't forget, whenever it is possible, to bring your flowers with their own container and let them be of a size that can easily be handled. It should be clear that heavily scented flowers have no place in the sickroom.

Don't be fault-finding and constantly critical over small and trivial things, and be sure that those attentions which really will be helpful to you are asked for politely and in a friendly manner.

Don't think that the hospital routine has been devised to bedevil you as it is only a part of a long-range plan carefully worked out to serve you.

Don't as a visitor overstay your welcome. Visit briefly, cheerfully, and leave the patient rested and encouraged.

Don't fail to remember that the average patient is not his normal self and the burden of good behavior is on your side, not his.

Don't talk about his illness in front of the patient. Ask the necessary questions quietly from those who are competent to answer them for you, out of his hearing and sight.

Don't worry a patient about anything which you feel might upset or disturb him.

Don't fail when you are in a semi-private room or in a larger ward to remember that there are others there who are ill and who may be disturbed by your talking.

Details on the use of service plates, finger bowls, and place cards are included in leaflet E-30, "Table Settings and Service." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c-o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

In a 9 o'clock morning ceremony, September 2, at St. Matthews Catholic Church, Miss Frances Dolores Fontana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Fontana, became the bride of John A. The musical background was provided by Mrs. Everett Zeagler and soloists were Mrs. Dorman Clayton and Rev. Charles B. Littleton.

Mrs. Gonzales chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of pastel pink lace over pink silk. Her hat was the same shade of pink and her corsage was of white blooms. Mrs. Johnson was dressed in blue lace over ice - blue silk with matching hat and navy accessories.

A reception followed the ceremony in the garden of the bride's home on Gordon Ave. The guests entered the gardens through an arch entwined with ivy and white blossoms. That's How Barbecues Were Born

By EDWARD S. KITCH

The Chicago Natural History Museum's staff of explorers and world travelers points out that the inhabitants of New Ireland in the South Pacific are old hands at outdoor cooking.

If you're one gourmet who has made a mess of what otherwise would have been an expertly prepared meal, you can bolster your chef's ego by observing how mumu or baked pig is prepared.

Mumu is eaten only at feast time and often is served to as many as 1,000 persons. For a very small feast, one wild pig is caught, suffocated and cleaned.

An outdoor oven is built with tiers of rocks.

When the rocks are very hot they are wrapped in banana leaves. Then they are placed inside the pig through a flap provided for that purpose. Then the entire pig is wrapped in banana and other leaves and bound with vines.

Sweet potatoes and taro (a starch root) also are wrapped in leaves and placed around the pig on hot rocks and covered with more layers of rocks and leaves. Beach sand is then added so that no steam can escape.

After that all is covered with burlap sacking and one can ignore the five - foot - high oven for several hours.

The process begins at sunup and when the sun begins to wane dinner is ready. The cooks don't worry about heat regulation or electric timers.

The pig emerges very well-done but very juicy and tender. Huge portions of the meat along with sweet potatoes, taro and bananas are served on banana leaves.

The natives have a cleanup system of their own.

When the meal is over the refuse is disposed of in the sea, where a strong undertow instantly carries it away. The sea also serves as a giant finger bowl and the beach sand as effective napkins.

In minutes, all the evidence of any feasting is gone.

KEEP TISSUES IN CAR

When you take the youngsters for a ride in the car be sure to have plenty of cleansing tissue in a convenient, ever - ready place. Some drivers have found that keeping a small package of tissues tucked in the rear view mirror frame serves as a good spot for emergency mop-up jobs.

Do It Yourself Soda For Kids

NEW YORK (UP) — The child with a taste for soda fountain concoctions can make his own with this easy-to-follow recipe from the Florida citrus commission.

Take 8 ounces of orange juice, 1 egg, a small mixing bowl and a rotary egg beater. Beat the egg first, add the orange juice and beat well again. Or, put both ingredients into a blender for a frothy, nutritious "orangegg" that takes only seconds to prepare.

TIPS ABOUT GARDENING

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Flower Show Staged By College Heights Club

By Mary M. Jardine

The College Heights Garden Club presented a beautiful flower show at the Garden Center this week. In the horticulture section, Mrs. William Love was awarded blue ribbons for lavender zinnias and a collection of hibiscus. The variety Pride of Hankin with its double coral pink blooms was especially beautiful.

Mrs. H. F. Shepard was awarded blue ribbons for two magnificent specimens of achyranthes (commonly called chicken-gizzard coleus). Both the dark red and variegated varieties were on display.

In the arrangement section Mrs. M. L. Johnson was awarded first place blue ribbon. Mrs. Johnson created a lovely triangular design in tints and tones of yellow and green. The triangular pattern was achieved with placements of yellow canna buds and foliage of the Peruvian daffodil. Magnolia leaves were added for depth. The design was completed within the established pattern with buds and blooms of marigold shading from chartreuse to deep yellow. The color blending was most harmonious.

Mrs. Leo Montgomery was awarded second place. A color scheme of red-orange and green was the feature of this design, blending perfectly with the container which was lined with a deep value of red-orange. A right-angle triangle was formed with tall spikes of the buds of cry-baby plant (Erythrina). Light green canna leaves were used for background in erest. Celosia in a deep salmon shade was massed in the foreground with deeper red-orange shrimp plant flowers low in the design. An excellent color harmony and combination of materials. This would be most effective in a pine-paneled room.

Mrs. Sam Donald designed a most attractive mass arrangement in a pyramid triangle pattern. The container was a white milkglass compote. The red-violet color scheme was carried out with plumes of celosia for the top placements and a wide crest of the cockscomb in the center. Deep red-violet coleus edged in green was massed low in the arrangement. This colorful arrangement was staged against a rose pink background.

Important dates for your calendar:

September 25-26-27, Flower Show School II, United Gas Building, Monroe, instructors, Mrs. M. B. Latham, Raymond, Miss. and Mr. C. G. Hobgood, Louisiana Tech.

October 30. Reading examination for Flower Show School Students who have completed their fifth school within the past three months. Please contact Dr. Katherine Foster, chairman, 814 N. 4th St., West Monroe for time and place.

The colorful new year books are arriving daily. They are so attractive and the programs sound so interesting. Come by for a visit and look them over. We request that all clubs notify us of the new presidents and send a copy of the year book to the Garden Center when they are ready.

Rains Came In Time For Grass, Flowers

By Mildred Swift

The rains came just in time. My! I was getting worried. Seems the earth got so dry so quickly. You just couldn't get around with the hose fast enough. Especially those of us who have large gardens. While we're having these rains, it's a wonderful time to fertilize the lawn. Then you won't have to water — that is if it rains immediately after.

Gardening

Saturday I was reminded of something Wren Terzia said one day . . . that washing woodwork was like washing a little boy's face. One minute the surface is clean; next minute, dirty. Well, while pulling grass from the iris bed, I decided that job was very much like washing the little boy's face. You do have some compensation in the latter case, though. Occasionally you can get in a quick caress. In the matter of grass pulling, you just do the same thing next week. So, I took Iris Gates' recommendation and mulched the bearded iris bed with pine straw. I'm afraid my hand was a little heavy with the straw, though. If so, I'll get rhizome rot. A light mulch shouldn't cause any trouble, but the heavy straw holds too much moisture and does not allow enough sun to get to the roots. However, pine straw does decay pretty fast.

If you're one of those gardeners who wants beds of blooming flowers, I doubt if you'll have time to do all the weed pulling that goes along with it. Here's a solution, if you have patience. Work up the bed as soon as the rains stop. Get every sprig of grass. Then pile any type of mulch, one foot deep. Cotton waste, straw, leaves, sawdust, any of those will do. Leave this until next spring. Then with a heavy hand sprinkle 8-8-8 in the bed, turn under the almost decayed mulch, getting any weeds or grass that have shown up. Mulch again one foot deep. Next fall, turn under the decayed mulch and you have the weed and grass problem whipped. A well shaped, mulched bed that has no flowers or shrubs is a very pretty addition to the garden. A year from now you can plant your seed and have little trouble with weeds or grass.

I've never seen scale as prevalent as this year. One gardener brought a limb of camellia to the office to ask the treatment. The leaves were so covered with scale that it was almost impossible to identify the plant. It isn't best to spray with oil emulsion now, since we don't know when we'll have a freeze. It is safe to spray with malathion according to Miss Winona Chauffe, our state garden specialist. Use a good strong spray gun and get the insecticide well under the leaves. Mix spray according to instructions on the outside of the bottle.

Food News

It's "come east" instead of "go west" when you mention Bartlett pears this time of year. This year's abundance of fresh Bartletts from the west is at its seasonal peak. This pear is a universal favorite high in Vitamins A and C. Look for its classic "pear shape" and pale yellow color, with reddish tint on one side and scattered russet dots all over. Not only does the Bartlett look good, it tastes good. It has a fine, grained white flesh and is juicy and sweet with a tang peculiarly its own.

Most popular way of using Bartlett's is for out-of-hand eating. Next in popularity is in salads with a French dressing. Try using orange juice with the salad oil instead of lemon juice. DE-LI-CIOUS! Combine this fruit with other fruits, or use as a base for cheese and seafoods.

Try this Pear Recipe:

4 large pears.
½ cup sugar
¼ cup raisins
½ cup chopped nuts (optional)
¼ teaspoon ground mace
4 teaspoons honey
½ cup hot water

Leave pears whole. Core. Mix the sugar, raisins, nuts and mace. Fill pears with this mixture. Place in baking dish. Top each with 1 teaspoon honey. Add the hot water in the dish. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Uncover and bake 10 minutes longer.

Another Vitamin C rich food on the plentiful foods list is green cabbage. The red is also available. There's no difference in the food value, but a change to red can sometimes whet the appetite.

Don't forget your other September food plentifuls: turkeys, broilers and fryers, vegetable fats and oils, fresh and frozen fish, dry peas, apples, milk and milk products.

Household Hints

Homemakers! You'll be happy to know that very soon you can renew worn or torn trouser or jacket pockets in minutes with new press-on pockets applied in a jiffy with a hot iron.

Coffee cans placed under the feet of a ladder will keep it from sinking into the ground or slipping away from the wall.

You can remove most of the rust from car bumper headlights and other items made of chrome, with aluminum foil. Dampen a sheet of foil and rub the rust spots.

Chenile spreads will look like new if you dry them wrong side out. The chenile rubs together and fluffs up.

Rusty screws can be removed more easily if you heat the tip of the screw driver first.

If you paint the tiny screws that hold the arms to the main frame of your eyeglasses with colorless nail polish, they won't come loose.

Alpine Plants Perish Here Because Of Hot Summer Sun

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

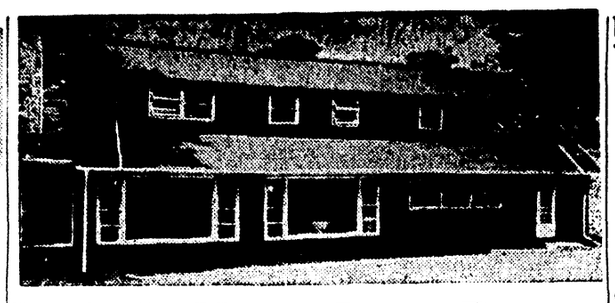
Southern gardeners who travel as far as the Swiss Alps during their summer vacations often want to know from the column why we cannot grow all those amazingly beautiful little plants they saw in Switzerland. The blazing hot days we have in September and off and on during the summers are enough of a reason why alpines perish here, but there are many other reasons.

The true alpine plants in the Alp over the world are highly specialized plant mechanisms. If you think the "precious little gentians and edelweiss" are small plants, you might get a surprise if you tried to dig one up. Alpine plants are apt to have small, even tiny leaves and stems, and many of them are no more than little pincushions on top of the ground. Their root systems, however, may run two or three feet through the rocky soil up in the mountains.

Alpines have had to adapt themselves to a very short season of growth before the snows return and cover them up for more than six months at a time. One of the greatest thrills of the botanist or the nature lover can possibly have is the experience of watching the wild flowers of the Alps come out and bloom right through the very edge of the snow as it melts in spring. The little plants have some very special equipment for getting through the melting snow before it has quite gone. They must gain every day they possibly can in which to bloom and then make seeds and prepare themselves for their next deep freeze.

Botanists have discovered that true alpine plants have more sugar in their sap than ordinary plant. Perhaps this is one of the things that enables alpines to penetrate that last few inches of snow and flowers at the very instant the snow is gone. There are wonderful descriptions of the wild flowers at high elevations blooming right up against the very snow line and into its edge.

Here in the hot old south, there is not any winter snow cover. Nor is there the constant moisture from water seeping down underneath the soil from snows still melting at higher elevations. One of our droughts will usually finish off most any alpine. The sun here in the south is terribly hot and the days are very long. No; the alpines are not for any southerners except those very few who will try anything and do everything possible to make a plant grow. of course, there are some mountain plants that are not true alpines. In the cooler parts of the southern states, some of these will succeed, but most of us had better read books about alpine plants and scenery and try growing the exciting plants from The Mediterranean, Eastern Asia, South Africa and South America along with the best of our own native plants in their prettiest forms.



Look Of House From Rear As Important As Front View

Does your house look as good from the back yard as it does from the street? More and more families today are recognizing the importance of a good-looking rear view as well as a handsome front because of the time they spend "out back."

A good example is the back-yard view of this modern, two-story home. Its owner - builder used subtle good taste in combining vertical and horizontal wood siding stained in redwood tones with white windows of ponderosa pine.

Stone work on the chimney and porch foundation add a further modern touch, while overall color is contributed by green blend asphalt shingles on the main roof and the long dormer. Even though the dormer roof has a relatively low pitch, asphalt shingles were used because of a recently-developed application technique especially designed for low-pitched roofs.

Windows upstairs and in the kitchen downstairs are ponderosa pine awning style. The large picture windows consist of a fixed sash flanked by smaller awning windows which open for ventilation. All are stock windows available fron. building materials dealers.

Wind Storms Challenging U.S. Builders

Anyone who has lived through a hurricane or toured an area of hurricane destruction knows that it's a big order when the home-building industry receives a challenge for more wind-resistant construction.

Yet, because of damaging blows to homes by hurricanes and other destructive wind storms across the nation in recent years, the public is demanding homes that will successfully resist the impact when a severe blow strikes.

One group of manufacturers that has met this challenge is the asphalt roofing industry. Thanks to years of scientific research, home-owners can have roofs of asphalt shingles which will resist even winds of hurricane velocity.

Winds Recorded

This is important not only to home-owners in the East Coast's hurricane belt but to the rest of the nation as well. Winds of hurricane force — 75 miles per hour and higher — have been recorded in at least 37 states by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Roofers in all parts of the country use three principal methods of applying asphalt shingles to resist winds:

1. Self-sealing method. Strip shingles with a factory-applied backing of adhesive are applied with roofing nails in the conventional manner. Under the heat of the sun the self-sealing adhesive bonds each shingle tab firmly to the underlying shingle.

2. Interlocking method. Using asphalt shingles with a special locking device — usually tabs which slide into slots — the roofer locks each shingle to adjacent shingles in the course next below. This makes a roof highly resistant to high winds, and a roof which retains good appearance.

Pass Rigid Tests

3. Hand-application. After three-tab, square butt strip shingles, the most popular of all asphalt shingles, are applied, a spot of quick-setting asphalt cement is placed under each tab which is then pressed firmly against the underlying shingle. The cement makes a firm window-resistant bond.

Wind-resistant applications of asphalt shingles have undergone rigid tests in wind tunnels and in actual use, and have survived the severest blows from hurricanes and other storms. Often entire roof assemblies which have been blown down have been found with their asphalt singles still in place.

WEEDERS GUIDE

There Is A Difference Between Bush, And Shrub

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Botanically speaking, there is a difference betwen a bush and a shrub. A bush is a small cluster of shrubs which gives the appearance of a single plant. But a lot of us use the words interchanbly. Shrubs are woody plants of modest size which develop several stems instead of a trunk, like a tree. In my own lexicon, a bush is a shrub which eithr seeded itself and grew where it was wanted or is one I found in the woods and transplanted onto my own premises. A shrub to me, is a bush which I purchased, balled and burlapped, from the nurseryman. Some of my fellow gardeners, however, inform me that they think "shrub" is a fancy word for bush — as "lawn" is a fancy word for "yard," and "to dine" for "dinner."

But whether you need bushes or shrubs, planting time for most of them is now. And with all the varieties of these plants available — the gamut of color of their blooms, the many shapes and forms they take, and the uses to which they can be put — they are among the most important plants to the home owner.

Shrubs may be used as a screen for privacy or to cut off an unsightly view; to conceal the house foundation and tie the building to the ground; to make a house seem higher, or to make it seem lower. With a little planning, they will provide color of leaf, flower or fruit from early spring to late fall.

And most of them are not fussy about soil conditions. However, like other plant materials, shrubs appreciate and thrive best when the gardner has taken the trouble to plant them well, particularly where the top-soil is thin and th esub-soil is hard. The trick of successful planting is mostly hard work — deep digging. And this means the preparation of a hole which is more than adequate to accommodate the root system, and at least two feet deep. That doesn't mean the plant should necessarily be set two feet down, but that the ground should be broken up to at least that depth. If the soil is particularly clayey — which shuts out air and water — it can be treated with soil conditioners which help open it up. If on the sandy side — permitting water to drain away too fast — it can be improved by the addition of organic materials and even clay to make it less porous.

Well - rotted manure, humus and other slow - acting fertilizer or peat moss can be incorporated with the soil at this time, for shrubs are permanent plantings designed to stay in place for the rest of their lives. Once established, most shrubs require a minimum of care — pruning as necessary, occasional feeding and sometimes spraying to control insect pest.

No one can lay down any specific rules for the use of shrubs, of course. On a large piece of property it is possible to use a larger number of varieties, even to plant for mass effects of color and texture. Where the property is smaller, it is usually wiser to chose carefully among a few types and to use them for their best effects. The principal error to avoid is over - planting — setting the small, young shrubs so closely that they have no room in which to grow and expand. When buying shrubs, it is well to find out their adult size and to take this into consideration when setting them in. Also make certain that the shrub you want for a sunny spot loves sun; that one for a shady corner appreciates shade.

Work Day Cut By Machines

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The farm workday is slowly but surely becoming shorter. Declines in working hours per day in nearly all states are reported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, says W. D. Curtis, economist, L. S. U. Agricultural Extension Service.

Farmers averaged 10.7 hours work per day around June 1 of this year. At the same time in 1956 the average was 10.9 hours per day, and in 1955 it was 11.2. Much of the decrease in the farm workday comes about as a result of reductions in chore labor.

USDA studies show that gains in labor efficiency are possible through such things as increased size of flocks and herds, improved arrangement of buildings, use of more modern equipment, and adaptation of chore routines. In one series of tests annual dairy chore labor was reduced from 225 hours labor per cow to less than 70 hours through such practices.

Another study, by the USDA and the Illinois experiment station, shows that the annual time spent on poultry chores may be cut by 80 per cent. Again, time - saving practices decreased the amount of labor needed to tend the flock. For example, an automatic waterer providing continuous flow might lower the time required to water poultry by hand from 42 hours annually to 3 hours.

Through newer and better methods and machinery the farmer will be able to enjoy more leisure time while still getting his work done.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

By Mary M. Jardine

The College Heights Garden Club presented a beautiful flower show at the Garden Center this week. In the horticulture section, Mrs. William Love was awarded blue ribbons for lavender zinnias and a collection of hibiscus. The variety Pride of Hankin with its double coral pink blooms was especially beautiful.

Mrs. H. F. Shepard was awarded blue ribbons for two magnificent specimens of achyranthes (commonly called chicken-gizzard coleus). Both the dark red and variegated varieties were on display.

In the arrangement section Mrs. M. L. Johnson was awarded first place blue ribbon. Mrs. Johnson created a lovely triangular design in tints and tones of yellow and green. The triangular pattern was achieved with placements of yellow canna buds and foliage of the Peruvian daffodil. Magnolia leaves were added for depth. The design was completed within the established pattern with buds and blooms of marigold shading from chartreuse to deep yellow. The color blending was most harmonious.

Mrs. Leo Montgomery was awarded second place. A color scheme of red-orange and green was the feature of this design, blending perfectly with the container which was lined with a deep value of red-orange. A right-angle triangle was formed with tall spikes of the buds of cry-baby plant (Erythrina). Light green canna leaves were used for background interest. Celosia in a deep salmon shade was massed in the foreground with deeper red-orange shrimp plant flowers low in the design. An excellent color harmony and combination of materials. This would be most effective in a pine-paneled room.

Mrs. Sam Donald designed a most attractive mass arrangement in a pyramid triangle pattern. The container was a white milkglass compote. The red-violet color scheme was carried out with plumes of celosia for the top placements and a wide crest of the cockscomb in the center. Deep red-violet coleus edged in green was massed low in the arrangement. This colorful arrangement was staged against a rose pink background.

This is important not only to home-owners in the East Coast's hurricane belt but to the rest of the nation as well. Winds of hurricane force — 75 miles per hour and higher — have been recorded in at least 37 states by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Roofers in all parts of the country use three principal methods of applying asphalt shingles to resist winds:

1. Self-sealing method. Strip shingles with a factory-applied backing of adhesive are applied with roofing nails in the conventional manner. Under the heat of the sun the self-sealing adhesive bonds each shingle tab firmly to the underlying shingle.

2. Interlocking method. Using asphalt shingles with a special locking device — usually tabs which slide into slots — the roofer locks each shingle to adjacent shingles in the course next below. This makes a roof highly resistant to high winds, and a roof which retains good appearance.

Pass Rigid Tests

3. Hand-application. After three-tab, square butt strip shingles, the most popular of all asphalt shingles, are applied, a spot of quick-setting asphalt cement is placed under each tab which is then pressed firmly against the underlying shingle. The cement makes a firm window-resistant bond.

Wind-resistant applications of asphalt shingles have undergone rigid tests in wind tunnels and in actual use, and have survived the severest blows from hurricanes and other storms. Often entire roof assemblies which have been blown down have been found with their asphalt singles still in place.

There Is A Difference Between Bush, And Shrub

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Botanically speaking, there is a difference betwen a bush and a shrub. A bush is a small cluster of shrubs which gives the appearance of a single plant. But a lot of us use the words interchanbly. Shrubs are woody plants of modest size which develop several stems instead of a trunk, like a tree. In my own lexicon, a bush is a shrub which eithr seeded itself and grew where it was wanted or is one I found in the woods and transplanted onto my own premises. A shrub to me, is a bush which I purchased, balled and burlapped, from the nurseryman. Some of my fellow gardeners, however, inform me that they think "shrub" is a fancy word for bush — as "lawn" is a fancy word for "yard," and "to dine" for "dinner."

But whether you need bushes or shrubs, planting time for most of them is now. And with all the varieties of these plants available — the gamut of color of their blooms, the many shapes and forms they take, and the uses to which they can be put — they are among the most important plants to the home owner.

Shrubs may be used as a screen for privacy or to cut off an unsightly view; to conceal the house foundation and tie the building to the ground; to make a house seem higher, or to make it seem lower. With a little planning, they will provide color of leaf, flower or fruit from early spring to late fall.

And most of them are not fussy about soil conditions. However, like other plant materials, shrubs appreciate and thrive best when the gardner has taken the trouble to plant them well, particularly where the top-soil is thin and th esub-soil is hard. The trick of successful planting is mostly hard work — deep digging. And this means the preparation of a hole which is more than adequate to accommodate the root system, and at least two feet deep. That doesn't mean the plant should necessarily be set two feet down, but that the ground should be broken up to at least that depth. If the soil is particularly clayey — which shuts out air and water — it can be treated with soil conditioners which help open it up. If on the sandy side — permitting water to drain away too fast — it can be improved by the addition of organic materials and even clay to make it less porous.

Well - rotted manure, humus and other slow - acting fertilizer or peat moss can be incorporated with the soil at this time, for shrubs are permanent plantings designed to stay in place for the rest of their lives. Once established, most shrubs require a minimum of care — pruning as necessary, occasional feeding and sometimes spraying to control insect pest.

No one can lay down any specific rules for the use of shrubs, of course. On a large piece of property it is possible to use a larger number of varieties, even to plant for mass effects of color and texture. Where the property is smaller, it is usually wiser to chose carefully among a few types and to use them for their best effects. The principal error to avoid is over - planting — setting the small, young shrubs so closely that they have no room in which to grow and expand. When buying shrubs, it is well to find out their adult size and to take this into consideration when setting them in. Also make certain that the shrub you want for a sunny spot loves sun; that one for a shady corner appreciates shade.

Work Day Cut By Machines

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The farm workday is slowly but surely becoming shorter. Declines in working hours per day in nearly all states are reported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, says W. D. Curtis, economist, L. S. U. Agricultural Extension Service.

Farmers averaged 10.7 hours work per day around June 1 of this year. At the same time in 1956 the average was 10.9 hours per day, and in 1955 it was 11.2. Much of the decrease in the farm workday comes about as a result of reductions in chore labor.

USDA studies show that gains in labor efficiency are possible through such things as increased size of flocks and herds, improved arrangement of buildings, use of more modern equipment, and adaptation of chore routines. In one series of tests annual dairy chore labor was reduced from 225 hours labor per cow to less than 70 hours through such practices.

Another study, by the USDA and the Illinois experiment station, shows that the annual time spent on poultry chores may be cut by 80 per cent. Again, time - saving practices decreased the amount of labor needed to tend the flock. For example, an automatic waterer providing continuous flow might lower the time required to water poultry by hand from 42 hours annually to 3 hours.

Through newer and better methods and machinery the farmer will be able to enjoy more leisure time while still getting his work done.

Alpine Plants Perish Here Because Of Hot Summer Sun

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Southern gardeners who travel as far as the Swiss Alps during their summer vacations often want to know from the column why we cannot grow all those amazingly beautiful little plants they saw in Switzerland. The blazing hot days we have in September and off and on during the summers are enough of a reason why alpines perish here, but there are many other reasons.

The true alpine plants in the Alp over the world are highly specialized plant mechanisms. If you think the "precious little gentians and edelweiss" are small plants, you might get a surprise if you tried to dig one up. Alpine plants are apt to have small, even tiny leaves and stems, and many of them are no more than little pincushions on top of the ground. Their root systems, however, may run two or three feet through the rocky soil up in the mountains.

Alpines have had to adapt themselves to a very short season of growth before the snows return and cover them up for more than six months at a time. One of the greatest thrills of the botanist or the nature lover can possibly have is the experience of watching the wild flowers of the Alps come out and bloom right through the very edge of the snow as it melts in spring. The little plants have some very special equipment for getting through the melting snow before it has quite gone. They must gain every day they possibly can in which to bloom and then make seeds and prepare themselves for their next deep freeze.

Botanists have discovered that true alpine plants have more sugar in their sap than ordinary plant. Perhaps this is one of the things that enables alpines to penetrate that last few inches of snow and flowers at the very instant the snow is gone. There are wonderful descriptions of the wild flowers at high elevations blooming right up against the very snow line and into its edge.

Here in the hot old south, there is not any winter snow cover. Nor is there the constant moisture from water seeping down underneath the soil from snows still melting at higher elevations. One of our droughts will usually finish off most any alpine. The sun here in the south is terribly hot and the days are very long. No; the alpines are not for any southerners except those very few who will try anything and do everything possible to make a plant grow. of course, there are some mountain plants that are not true alpines. In the cooler parts of the southern states, some of these will succeed, but most of us had better read books about alpine plants and scenery and try growing the exciting plants from The Mediterranean, Eastern Asia, South Africa and South America along with the best of our own native plants in their prettiest forms.

Craig-McDonald Nuptials Said In Jonesboro

At four o'clock in the afternoon of September 1, 1957, at the Jonesboro Methodist Church, Miss Nelwyn McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker S. McDonald of Jonesboro, and Archie William Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Burke of Norphlet, Arkansas, were wed. Reverend G. A. Morgan officiated at the double ring ceremony. The vows were spoken in a setting of white gladioli blossoms, slender white candles in floor candelabra entwined with white clematis, with a background of emerald leaves against the chancel rail.

The musical prelude was rendered by Mrs. Joe G. Key, organist. She accompanied Mrs. S. L. Ledbetter, soloist, who sang. Candles were lighted by usher groomsmen Wilbur C. McDonald, Jr., of Jonesboro and Bryan Langley of Norphlet, Arkansas.

Attendants of the bride were her cousin, Mrs. J. M. Mooney of New Orleans, matron of honor, and Mrs. Ray Hill of Jonesboro, bridesmaid. Mrs. Mooney and Mrs. Hill wore identical dresses fashioned of maize and gold nylon chiffon, which featured a cowl neckline of pleated maize chiffon, a gold cumberbund ending in gold panels in the back. Their hats were pleated maize velvet bandeaus, each with gold hackle feather over the ear. Each attendant carried a bouquet of bronze mums.

Reception In Church Parlor

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor which was beautifully decorated with southern smilax and standard baskets of white gladioli placed at vantage points throughout.

Receiving with the bride and groom were the wedding attendants, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walker S. McDonald, and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. W. C. McDonald.

The bride's table, laid with white linen cutwork, held beautiful arrangements of white gladioli and asters and was centered with the square, tiered wedding cake of green and white and topped with a miniature wedding bouquet. White candles in silver candelabra decorated with white ribbon and flowers burned on each side of the cake.

After the bride and groom had cut the traditional "first piece of cake," it was served to the guests by Mrs Howard Collins of Shreveport, aunt of the bride.

Another table, laid with linen cutwork and featuring a lovely arrangement of white glads, mums, and feverfew in a silver bowl, held two crystal punch bowls. Serving the punch were Mrs. Harold B. McDonald and Mrs. Louis C. Boss alternating with Mrs. Wilbur C. McDonald and Mrs. Allen R. McDonald, all aunts of the bride.

The brides' bouquet graced the registration table which was attended by a cousin of the bride, Mrs. J. W. Randall of Shreveport.

Six tea girls dressed in dainty summer frocks, were Misses Sibyl Cox, Martha Sneed, Karen Keith, Dana Hearne, Claudia Stewart, and Virginia Stewart.

Mrs. Howard Hearne rendered appropriate musical selections during the reception.

Upon their return they will be at home in Ruston, where they are both members of the faculty of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Craig received their Bachelor of Science degrees from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and their Master of Science degrees fro Louisiana State University.

Ever hear of a disposable dust rag? One is a product called Duorag? One is a scientifically treated paper which will pick up dust and absorb it without scattering it about the house. When you're through dusting, just throw away the paper strip and next time start with a fresh length off the roll.

Some 8-inch skillets come with egg poachers; these are insert devices with cutouts into which shallow cups may be inserted.

10,000 Women Of Methodism For World Meet

About 10,000 women are expected to gather in St. Louis, Mo., May 6-9, 1958, for the quadrennial Assembly of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, which is the woman's organization of the Methodist Church. The assembly probably will draw the largest attendance of any Methodist meeting in the next four years.

Women will come from all 48 states, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and some overseas countries. They will represent 1,676,000 members of 31,000 local Woman's Societies of Christian Service.

The assembly will be followed immediately by the Guild Week-end of the Wesleyan Service Guild, an organization auxiliary to the Woman's Society and especially for employed women. The Week-end, May 9-11, is exected to draw about 1,000 women, representing 130,000 members of 5,400 local Guilds.

The assembly will not be a legislative meeting, but one for inspiration and information. The purpose is to "promote and deepen interest in the work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service."

Sessions of the Assembly will be held in the Kiel Auditorium and those of the Gild Week-end at the Hotel Sheraton - Jefferson.

Though there will be about 1,000 official delegates to the assembly, attendance is open to any Methodist woman. Visitors are expected to a count for most of the attendance. The program for the Assembly and the Guild Week-end have not been finally worked out and will be announced when completed.

Plans for the Assembly are being made by committees of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, which is the national body under which the Woman's Societies function.

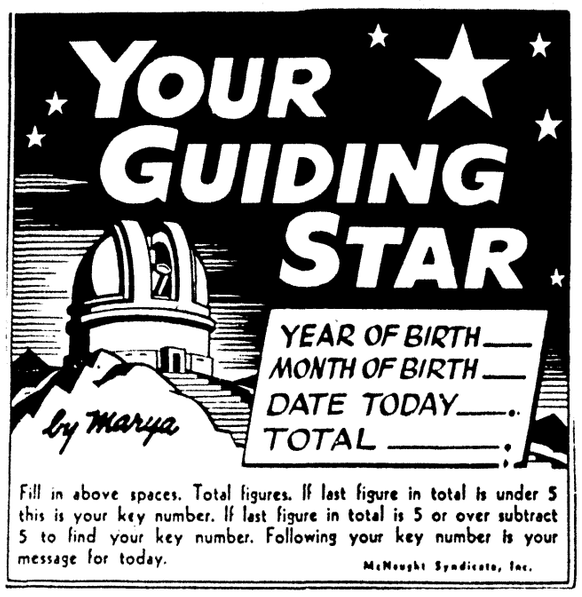
Through the Woman's Society and the Wesleyan Service Guild, Methodist women support missionary work in the United States, Alaska, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and 30 countries overseas. They give about $27.00 ,000 yearly, of which $17,000,000 is for local church purposes and $10,000,000 is for missions.

Ridge Ave Revival Reaching Climax

The big youth led revival at the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe will reach a climax today with three sermons by Rev. Paul H. Williams, senior student at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Numbers of youth have been making decisions during the services. A large youth choir with some 50 youth voices under the direction of Luther Burney, student at Northeast Louisiana State College have been singing.

Bread should be baked at a constant moderate temperature so that there is time for thorough cooking without too heavy a crust.



Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0. Prov. 1:4. Prudence may be given to the simple, knowledge and discretion to the youth.
1. Acts 3:22. You shall listen to Him in whatever He tells you.
2. Acts 2:39. The promise is to you and to your children and to all who are far off.
3. Acts 4:19, 20. Whether it is right to listen, you must judge; for we cannot but speak of what we have seen and heard.
4. Acts 5:29. We must obey God rather than man.

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 18:21,22 — "Then Peter came up and said to Him, "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?" Jesus said to him, "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven." (RSV)

I have read that when airliners are losing altitude in a vicious storm, the crew of the ship will sometimes cast some of the cargo overboard to lighten the load so that the ship will stay aloft.

If we are to be adequate Christians, to have the power and the confidence which faith imparts, it is essential that we discard all the attitudes that hold us down, resentments, vindictiveness and grudge-bearing. These weights on the human spirit cause broken health, unbearable tension and war. Petty hatreds plague too many homes and flame like a raging fire across the nations.

It is imperative that we hurry to find the power to forgive, to learn to practice it fully ourselves and release it with all of its life-saving power.

Huckleberry Finn said sometimes conscience "takes up more room than all the rest of a person's insides." A sharpened Christian conscience will cause the devoted man to have a zealous concern to find and release the power to forgive in this and every age.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: What do you mean when you speak of "the grace of God"? N. E.

ANSWER: The Bible says, "The Lord God is a sun and a shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will be withheld from them that walk uprightly." (Psalm 84:11). God has given us light to walk by, and has protected us from danger. He has showered us with blessings, above and beyond what we have earned. Someone has said that "Grace is unmerited favor."

One day the preacher was invited to dinner at a home in his parish. As he was leaving he looked into the wistful blue eyes of the youngest member of the family, and then slipped into her tiny hand a shiny half-dollar. Money wasn't plentiful in that house, and the mother, touched by this generosity asked, "Oh, why did you do that?" The preacher replied, "It was to teach her of the grace of God." At first the family was perplexed, but as they pondered they understood: God gives to us not according to what we ask, or expect, or deserve. He gives abundantly because of His great love for us.

That is why He sent His Son to earth. Only Christ could fully interpret to us the heart of the Father.

Now we as Paul, can hear the Lord saying, "My grace is sufficient for thee." (I Corinthians 12: 9). The Bible gives a record of more than thirty-five times that Paul spoke of "grace." He was ever conscious of the fact that he was unworthy of God's goodness, that he was unworthy of the Son who suffered on the Cross for him, and for all.

When I use the words "the grace of God," I, as Paul, refer to the generosity of God and to the fact that, unworthy though we are, He gave us the greatest gift His Son, Jesus Christ.

International Group To Study Church Program

When they open this fall, 26 colleges and universities in 16 states will have in their student bodies 100 selected men and women who will be studying there under an international scholarship program of the Methodist Church.

The 100 persons are from the United States, Alaska, Hawaii and 26 countries overseas. They will receive study grants under the $200,000 "Crusade Scholarship" program, which begins its twelfth year.

Under this program, the Methodist Church has since 1946 brought carefully chosen students from its overseas mission areas to the United States for graduate or specialized study. And, as this year, there have also been "Crusade scholars" from American territories and from continental U. S. (usually from language and ethnic minority groups).

In addition to the 100 studying in American schools, 26 persons will study under the Crusade scholarship program at educational institutions in Portugal, Canada, England, Australia, Brazil, Scotland, Malaya and Belgium.

Most of the Crusade scholars will return to their homelands and go into some phase of full - time church work. The program is, in a sense a specialized training course for the future professional leaders of Methodism and sometime of other denominations overseas. Some of the scholars go to work for non - church agencies.

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 8, 1957.
The Golden Text is: "O Come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand." (Ps. 95:6, 7).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth." (Gen. 1:26).
The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Science man is the offspring of Spirit. The beautiful, good, and pure constitute his ancestry. Spirit is his primitive and ultimate source of being; God is his father and Life is the law of his being." (63).

10,000 Women Of Methodism For World Meet

About 10,000 women are expected to gather in St. Louis, Mo., May 6-9, 1958, for the quadrennial Assembly of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, which is the woman's organization of the Methodist Church. The assembly probably will draw the largest attendance of any Methodist meeting in the next four years.

Women will come from all 48 states, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and some overseas countries. They will represent 1,676,000 members of 21,000 local Woman's Societies of Christian Service.

The assembly will be followed immediately by the Guild Weekend of the Wesleyan Service Guild an organization auxiliary to the Woman's Society and especially for employed women. The Weekend, May 9-11, is exected to draw about 1,000 women, representing 130,000 members of 5,400 local Guilds.

The assembly will not be a legislative meeting, but one for inspiration and information. The purpose is to "promote and deepen interest in the work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service."

Sessions of the Assembly will be held in the Kiel Auditorium and those of the Gild Week-end at the Hotel Sheraton - Jefferson.

Though there will be about 1,000 official delegates to the assembly, attendance is open to any Methodist woman. Visitors are expected to a count for most of the attendance. The program for the Assembly and the Guild Weekend have not been finally worked out and will be announced when completed.

Plans for the Assembly are being made by committees of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, which is the national body under which the Woman's Societies function.

Through the Woman's Society and the Wesleyan Service Guild, Methodist women support missionary work in the United States, Alaska, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and 30 countries overseas. They give about $27,000,000 yearly, of which $17,000,000 is for local church purposes and $10,000,000 is for missions.

Ridge Ave Revival Reaching Climax

The big youth led revival at the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church of West Monroe will reach a climax today with three sermons by Rev. Paul H. Williams, senior student at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Numbers of youth have been making decisions during the services. A large youth choir with some 50 youth voices under the direction of Luther Burney, student at Northeast Louisiana State College have been singing.

Bread should be baked at a constant moderate temperature so that there is time for thorough cooking without too heavy a crust.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

O. Prov. 1:4. Prudence may be given to the simple, knowledge and discretion to the youth.

1. Acts 3:22. You shall listen to Him in whatever He tells you.

2. Acts 2:39. The promise is to you and to your children and to all who are far off.

3. Acts 4:19, 20. Whether it is right to listen, you must judge; for we cannot but speak of what we have seen and heard.

4. Acts 5:29. We must obey God rather than man.

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 18:21,22 — "Then Peter came up and said to Him, "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?" Jesus said to him, "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven." (RSV)

I have read that when airliners are losing altitude in a vicious storm, the crew of the ship will sometimes cast some of the cargo overboard to lighten the load so that the ship will stay aloft.

If we are to be adequate Christians, to have the power and the confidence which faith imparts, it is essential that we discard all the attitudes that hold us down, resentments, vindictiveness and grudge-bearing. These weights on the human spirit cause broken health, unbearable tension and war. Petty hatreds plague too many homes and flame like a raging fire across the nations.

It is imperative that we hurry to find the power to forgive, to learn to practice it fully ourselves and release it with all of its life-saving power.

Huckleberry Finn said sometimes conscience "takes up more room than all the rest of a person's insides." A sharpened Christian conscience will cause the devoted man to have a zealous concern to find and release the power to forgive in this and every age.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: What do you mean when you speak of "the grace of God"? N. E.

ANSWER: The Bible says, "The Lord God is a sun and a shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will be withheld from them that walk uprightly." (Psalm 84:11). God has given us light to walk by, and has protected us from danger. He has showered us with blessings, above and beyond what we have earned. Someone has said that "Grace is unmerited favor."

One day the preacher was invited to dinner at a home in his parish. As he was leaving he looked into the wistful blue eyes of the youngest member of the family, and then slipped into her tiny hand a shiny half-dollar. Money wasn't plentiful in that house, and the mother, touched by this generosity asked, "Oh, why did you do that?" The preacher replied, "It was to teach her of the grace of God." At first the family was perplexed, but as they pondered they understood: God gives to us not according to what we ask, or expect, or deserve. He gives abundantly because of His great love for us.

That is why He sent His Son to earth. Only Christ could fully interpret to us the heart of the Father.

Now we as Paul, can hear the Lord saying, "My grace is sufficient for thee." (I Corinthians 12: 9). The Bible gives a record of more than thirty-five times that Paul spoke of "grace." He was eve conscious of the fact that he was unworthy of God's goodness, that he was unworthy of the Son who suffered on the Cross for him, and for all.

When I use the words "the grace of God," I, as Paul, refer to the generosity of God and to the fact that, unworthy though we are, He gave us the greatest gift, His Son, Jesus Christ.

International Group To Study Church Program

When they open this fall, 26 colleges and universities in 16 states will have in their student bodies 100 selected men and women who will be studying there under an international scholarship program of the Methodist Church.

The 100 persons are from the United States, Alaska, Hawaii and 26 countries overseas. They will receive study grants under the $200,000 "Crusade Scholarship" program, which begins its twelfth year.

Under this program, the Methodist Church has since 1946 brought carefully chosen students from its overseas mission areas to the United States for graduate or specialized study. And, as this year, there have also been "Crusade scholars" from American territories and from continental U. S. (usually from language and ethnic minority groups).

In addition to the 100 studying in American schools, 26 persons will study under the Crusade scholarship program at educational institutions in Portugal, Canada, England, Australia, Brazil, Scotland, Malaya and Belgium.

Most of the Crusade scholars will return to their homelands and go into some phase of full - time church work. The program is, in a sense a specialized training course for the future professional leaders of Methodism and sometimes of other denominations overseas. Some of the scholars go to work for non - church agencies.

The fields of study range from theology to medicine, from home economics to industrial relations.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
Auburn and North Second Streets

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 8, 1957.
The Golden Text is: "O Come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand." (Ps. 95:6, 7).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth." (Gen. 1:26).
The Lesson - Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Science man is the offspring of Spirit. The beautiful, good, and pure constitute his ancestry. Spirit is his primitive and ultimate source of being; God is his father and Life is the law of his being." (63).

Reaction Is Evoked By Faubus Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here is some of the editorial comment:

New York Times — We cannot think of such methods of opposing a court order as characteristic of the America we have been brought up to love.

Boston Globe — The Arkansas National Guard may be powerful enough to interrupt the vacation of the President of the United States, but it cannot disrupt the unfolding will of the people expressed through their representatives in Congress.

Christian Science Monitor—The obligation rests heavily and immediately upon everyone concerned to move this situation out of the area of force and into the channels which civilized societies devised long ago for the national settlement of differences.

Miami, Fla., Herald — Only one outcome is possible. The supremacy of the federal government will prevail. It is unfortunate that the true substance of states' rights will be obscured and weakened by the fog of emotions stirred by developments at Little Rock.

Boston Herald — Inevitably the day will come, as it has come to other Southern communities, when Negro and white children sit side by side in the classroom and think nothing of it.

The (Memphis) Commercial Appeal — On the whole the clash is between an unrealistic law and rulings required by it and the responsibility of a state's chief executive to preserve order. Governor Faubus has raised a national issue intimately concerned with how a theory not acceptable by a people can be hastily translated into action ....

Kansas City Star (Ind) The melodramatic governor of Arkansas has created a real dilemma for federal law enforcement.

Arkansas Gazette — We Hope... that Mr. Faubus is prepared to accept his "day in court" if it is offered to him...and also indicate his willingness to abide by the court's final decisions.

Richmond, Times-Dispatch— It is greatly to be hoped that Gov. Faubus and those who share his views throughout the country will somehow manage to vindicate the right of a sovereign state to control its own affairs, will reverse itself again and restore to the states their longtime control of public education.

Louisville Times: "For every Little Rock (where one man seems to be the issue) there are perhaps a dozen Southern communities where school integration is proceeding peacefully under a dutiful, if not exuberant, acceptance of the law."

Celebrates 25th Anniversary

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (UP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman observed the 25th anniversary of his elevation to bishop today by celebrating a solemn high pontifical mass before 50,000 persons in Yankee Stadium.

WHICH IS WHICH—Lee and Lynn Morgan, left to right, are 6-year-old identical twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan, Jr., of Nashville. When Lee and Lynn started school in the first grade this week their teacher couldn't tell them apart. So teacher asked the Morgans to help her out of her dilemma. Now when Lee and Lynn go back to school Monday they'll be wearing brand new metal identification tags. (AP Wirephoto)

Ex-Monroyan Is Honored For Heroism

A former Monroe resident who saved her younger brother from drowning last February has been honored with the Jimmy Sedlier "American in the News" award.

The award, a wristwatch, will be presented to Mrs. Gloria Nubles Morace who rescued her brother, 16-year-old Billy Nubles, when he nearly drowned in Bayou DeSiard Feb. 11. The youth had been baiting a trot-line when his boat overturned and he hung the legs of his blue jeans on the heavy trot-line weights. Gloria managed to pull her brother out of the water and he was given artificial respiration by a Negro man.

News of the award will be broadcast next week on Sedlier's nationwide radio and television broadcast. Sedlier, a Hollywood columnist said in his letter to Mrs. Morace, "It gives me great pleasure to send you my 'American in the News' award for your courageous action in saving the life of your brother, Billy."

Mrs. Morace, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Nubles, and her husband are now living in Baton Rouge.

TENSION REIGNS

Act By Faubus Brings Forth Much Comment

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) —The Arkansas Christian Missionary Society Board today criticized Gov. Orval Faubus' use of the National Guard to prevent racial integration of Little Rock Central High School.

In a resolution, 13 members of the board said, "We deplore the action of the governor as unnecessary and unduly inflammatory, and we call on him to use the full weight of his office to implement federal law, or, failing this, to return to his first position of not interfering with orderly compliance."

The society is an agency of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) of Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) —An aide to Gov. Orval Faubus says the governor will appear on nationwide television tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. (CST) to explain his position in this city's school racial crisis.

Gov. Faubus will be questioned by John Secondari, chief of the American Broadcasting Co.'s Washington Bureau, and a panel of other newsmen.

The program is known as "Open Hearing."

ATLANTA (AP) — "Guns, bayonets, force, fear and hate" in current school desegregation struggles in other states were deplored in an official resolution of the United Church Women of Atlanta today.

The resolution, in apparent criticism of Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, also deplored situations "where state officials interpose themselves between the authority of the federal government and local governments, therby denying to the local governments the same rights of local determination they demand for themselves."

BIRMINGHAM (AP) — A group of Negro parents here are pondering whether to attempt to enroll their children in white schools after the City Board of Education yesterday formally received their applications.

The school board, in accepting the applications, adopted new rules and regulations based on the state's school placement law.

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — An Alabama circuit judge has taken under advisement a request that a temporary injunction aimed at a boycott of white merchants here be dissolved.

The petition was filed by Tuskegee Negro leaders after the injunction was issued Aug. 16.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The state Senate yesterday passed a bill aimed at preventing boycotting Negroes in the vicinity of Tuskegee from incorporating their own city.

It prohibits the formation of a new city within the police jurisdiction of an existing municipality.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today there will be no comment this weekend on the ruling of a federal judge rejecting a plea for postponement of his orders to integrate the Little Rock High School.

CREATED AT CONFERENCE

New Climate In Church Brewing

OBERLIN, Ohio, Sept. 7 (UP) —A "new climate in church relations" is being created at the 47 denomination Oberlin conference on Christian unity, a conference leader said today.

Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert said representatives of major protestant and orthodox churches are learning in their talks here that "the unity which they have by reason of faith in one Lord is of vastly greater moment than any of things that divide them."

Cavert is executive secretary of the U. S. Conference for the World Council of Churches, one of the sponsoring bodies for the Oberlin meeting. Other sponsors are the NNational Council of Churches of Christ of the U.S.A. and the Canadian Council of Churches. The eight-day meeting at Oberlin College will close next Tuesday, probably with a joint "message" to the churches.

Grappling With Issues

Cavert said in an interview that the conference marks the first time that North American churches have met for the sole purpose of grappling with "the issues that keep them divided into separate denominations." He said no one expected a single conference to resolve all differences or lead directly to reunion in a single big church.

He said that midway in the conference "it now appears probable that its most important result will be the fostering of a new climate in church relations.

"The usual attitude in the past has been either to ignore the differences between churches as if the differences were unimportant, or else to take a defensive posture with regard to one's own position. Instead of either of these familiar habits of mind, there has been at Oberlin a drawing together of leaders of widely separated churches in an effort to really to understand one another.

"They have been learning to see their particular positions in relation to the Christian community as a whole and to develop a common language of theological discourse for the future."

Must "Transplant" Pattern

The next step Calvert said is to "transplant" the pattern of frank and friendly discussion established here to "hundreds of communities throughout North America."

He predicted that one practical achievement of the conference will be establishment of a permanant national study commission to guide local communities in "giving continuous attention to issues affecting the unity."

He said the purpose of this strategy is to bring the "active concern for unity down from the elite level of theological scholars to the level of the pastor and members of the congregation on Main street."

Cavert warned against impatience for immediate results. The Oberlin meetings have made clear, he said, that there is no "quick short cut to the goal of unity."

MOVIE CHIMP KILLED—Cheeta, veteran of almost nine years of movies, was shot to death by his owner yesterday in Cyprus, Calif., after the chimp went berserk. The 11-year-old chimp broke out of his cage and escaped. Owner Ed Rogers and sheriff's deputies had roped the chimp but Rogers was bitten and the chimp was shot. (AP Wirephoto)

Claim Peace Restored In Cienfuegos

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 7 (UP)— Peace was reported to have been restored in Cienfuegos today after loyal Cuban army forces wiped out the last pockets of rebel resistance in the south coast port city.

United Press Correspondent Reeve Waring, who reached Cienfuegos at noon, said the situation there was "normal."

The army maintained a tight censorship lid on developments at Cienfuegos where members of the nava' garrison and civilian rebels staged a brief bloody revolt that was crushed by government planes and troops, with an official toll of 62 dead. Unofficial estimates said the casualty toll might reach 200.

Informed sources, however, said bus and air transportation would be resumed shortly between Havana and revolt-torn Cienfuegos.

Rumors of a new revolutionary "landing" at Caibarien, on the north coast of Las Villas province, got wide circulation in Havana today but were quickly proved false by a United Press telephone check.

The rumors of a "disembarkation" were believed to have stemmed from the forced landing of a Cuban navy flying boat in Caribarien harbor late Thursday. The amphibian was transporting navy reinforcements to Cienfuegos from Havana when it ran out of fuel.

The army, meanwhile, permitted Havana newspapers to report the funeral of Cmmdr. Luis Seijas, a casualty of the Cienfuegos revolt that broke out Thursday. The funeral was attended by President Fulgeio Batista.

Posse Stumbles On Millionaire's Body In Alabama

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 7 (UP)— A posse stumbled on the body of missing steamship millionaire Caroll B. Waterman in a rattlesnake-infested wood today and an assistant coroner said he apparently had killed himself with a shotgun.

Waterman, 48, had been in ill health, his family said. He had been missing two days.

Waterman was the son of John B. Waterman, founder of the Waterman Steamship Corp. which long was the biggest shipping firm in this Gulf port. It was sold in 1955 to McLean Industries, Inc., for $42,000,000 at which time Waterman resigned as vice-president.

Waterman's body was discovered in a remote part of thickly wooded Mobile county after a posse under Sheriff Ray D. Bridges investigated a report that an automobile was blocking a dirt road.

Assistant Coroner E. L. Brown said Waterman had been dead two days. A shotgun was found beneath his body.

Ag Department Has Complaints

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)— The agriculture department issued complaints today against two meat packing firms and one individual in the New Orleans-Arabi (La.) area, charging rebates, kickbacks, and other violations of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

Named in the complaints are Arabi Packing Co., Inc., and Dixie Packing Co., Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary.

Also named was V. L. Brousse, a packer and registered dealer at the New Orleans stockyards. He is president and largest individual stockholder of Arabi Packing Co., Inc.

The department set hearings in the case for early November.

Convict Editor Asks Discretion In Detainer Use

PARCHMAN, Miss., Sept. 7 (AP)— Convict editor Don Morgan of the penitentiary's Inside World today called for more discretion in the use of de ainers against prisoners.

He said detainers, notices filed in a prisoner's records to hold him for additional action, defeat rehabilitation.

Morgan, who has written two other editorials suggesting improvements within the prison, said in the Sep ember issue:

"Not all detainers placed against the inmates are of serious nature. Some do not make the slightest pretext of even being sensible."

In most cases a prisoner whose record include a detainer may not become a trusty or receive a parole.

Morgan, a short-termer himself said he suggested the changes because they are "so important to the prisoners' welfare. For even though they may not help the prisoner with but a short term left to serve, there is the hope they will benefit the prisoner left behind.

"Still more important is the fact that they may help the unfortunate men and women who will surely follow."

Punishment alone is not enough, Morgan said, either to prevent commission of crime or to help after the crime is committed.

"Punishment without treatment and understanding" does not cure, he said.

Morgan said his two earlier editorials, in July and August, "have not only caused considerable furor among the inmates of Parchman, but have also given them something to look forward to.

"Morale is as high as it has ever been."

Among Morgan's suggestions is establishment of a plant at the penitentiary to produce tags and signs for the state and jobs for the inmates.

Most of the inmates on the 18,000-acre penal farm work at farm chores. There is little opportunity to learn a trade.

Says Algeria Would Go Red Without France

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)— French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau told Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today that most of Algeria would go Communist if it became independent of France.

An authoritative source said this was a key point in Pineau's appeal for American support when the Algerian question comes before the U.N. General Assembly next month.

France will lay its self-government plans for Algeria before the assembly.

Dulles was not expected to commit the United States on the question immediately.

They conferred at Dulles' home, ranging over Algeria, Syria, Soviet aims in the Middle East, and disarmament, informed sources said.

Pineau said that if the Algerian liberation front were allowed to bring about self-determination it would lead to the partition of Algeria. The French-dominated areas around the cities of Algiers and Oran would declare their independence of the rest of Algeria, he predicted. The rest of the country would be at a serious economic disadvantage without a main port.

Consequently, he argued, it would not be long before the Moslem-dominated parts of Algeria fell prey to communism.

Desire For Adventure Prompts Act

By ELLEN J. HILL

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 (UP)— A Louisiana cajun and a photographer who got tired of the bayous and wanted to see the world were back home today with a television film of a scorching adventure—the flaming volcano crest of El Salvaor's Mt. Izalco.

The two men are Durock J. Hebert, 29, from Cut Off, La., known as "the fabulous cajun", and Frank Caralan, of New Orleans, the photographer who went along just for the film.

Hebert, a former dry goods and concrete salesman, and Caralan, left for El Salvador armed with nothing but a camera and desire for adventure. They hope to sell the film, which Hebert said is the first ever made at the crest of the 115 year old volcano which erupts every 8 to 15 minutes to a television adventure program.

Cajun Planning New Adventure

The fabulous cajun, whose exploits before the safari through the jungles of El Salvador, involved mostly polling pirogues through the bayous of Louisiana. But Hebert said he is already planning his next adventure. It will be a sea voyage to Pitcairn Island, where the decendants of Fletcher Christian and the other English seamen involved in the famous Mutiny on the Bounty still live.

Hebert set about his world adventures in a unique but orderly way. He wrote a television director for a list of 10 great adventures which had never been filmed.

The director sent the list, Hebert read the first adventure: "Mt. Izalco in El Salvador." He contacted Caralan and the two flew to San Salvador, the Latin American capitol.

Volcano Climb "impossible"

Raul Reyes, head of the tourist bureau of El Salvador, told Hebert and Caralan the climb to the rim of Izalco "was humanly impossible." But when the fabulous cajun hired guides, Reyes, decided to go along "on a personal basis."

Four of the men made it to the top, Hebert said.

"We stood on the rim of that volcano with hot, greenish sulphur pouring all around us. Rocks and flame came blasting out of that crater every seven to 15 seconds.

"My safari helmet was pitted like a sieve. My boots were almost burned off. One native slipped and grabbed the ground and burned his fingers to the bone. Another got hit by a rock and it dislocated his shoulder."

Hebert said, "whenever the crater blew, we would dodge behind boulders until the rocks and ash had fallen."

When the men reached the rim of the volcano, Caralan aimed his camera into the inferno for 15 seconds. Then they ran with while hot ashes pouring down on them.

Hebert is a businessman who turned to adventure for business reasons.

Several years ago he organized and sold a drygoods company; then a concrete firm.

Tried To Buy Freighters

He broke into the news in 1956 when he bid $13 million at a government auction for two super freighters.

"I was high bidder," he said, "but I couldn't come up with 25 per cent of the price, or about $3 million, so I didn't get the boats."

He didn't get the government freighters, but he is dickering now for a good price on a boat in Lima, Peru. It is there he plans to set off on an expedition to Pitcairn Island to film and interview the decendants of the English mutineers, armed only with the TV director's high adventure list.

Take a look at children's wear for fall and winter and you wonder whatever became of pastels. The newest color trend is to black, often in combination with white, red or blue.

WHAT DOES LAW SAY?

Texas Experienced Situation Very Similar To Present One In Ark.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) —What does the law say about a governor denying a federal court order?

Texas went through that conflict in recent times. The case so closely parallels the current Little Rock racial troubles that if you change a few names, it looks like the same case.

On Aug. 16, 1931, Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas called out the National Guard to enforce state oil production proration laws. He claimed he did it to preserve peace because certain counties were, as he said, "in a state of insurrection, tumult, riot and a breach of the peace."

Like Gov. Orval Faubus of Arknsas, his stated reason was to preserve peace. The current Arkansas conflict nevertheless has kept Negroes out of Central High School. Gov. Sterling's order likewise reduced oil production.

After various legal maneuverings, a federal judge in Texas issued a permanent injunction against interference by the governor and National Guard commander with oil production. The U.S. Supreme Court upheld the judge.

The District Court found there was no evidence that violence would break out in the oil fields.

It further held that court processes could not be interfered with by military orders, that courts could not be ousted by agencies detailed to aid them, and that court functions could not be transferred to agencies unknown to the Constitution.

No action was taken against the governor or others because Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, ruled, "It is also plain that there was no immediate remedy at law for redress of the injury."

He added the governor's orders were "an invasion under color of state law of rights secured by the federal Constitution."

Chief Justice Hughes also said in effect that a governor could call out troops to prevent violence, but a federal court could itself determine whether there was likely to be violence, and thereby overrule the governor.

Later, further laws were passed involving oil production proration. The authority to limit production no longer is questioned by oil operators.

Adenauer Wears Smile Of Almost Certain Victory

BONN, Germany, Sept. 7 (UP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer these days wears the confident smile of an almost certain victory in the Sept. 15 West German elections — perhaps by another landslide sweep.

With the polling only eight days off, it no longer is a question of whether "Der Alte" (the old man) can win again at 81. The only question is the victory margin.

West Germany's iron - willed leader takes it for granted that he will be chancellor again—at least until 1959, when he may run for the federal presidency after Theodor Heuss steps down from the post.

Even the opposition Socialists and Erich Ollenhauer, their hard-working chief, have stopped talking of a Socialist win. At best, they hope for an increase over the 29 per cent vote they rolled up in the 1953 elections.

Daughter Of Late Justice Dies In N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 (UP)— Miss Mary Cass Spencer, 91, daughter of the late Louisiana Supreme Court justice William B. Spencer, died today at her home.

Miss Spencer, professor emeritus of mathematics at Newcomb college, was born in Vidalia. Private funeral services will be held here tomorrow.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept 7 (UP)—Southern School News said today that 2,300 school districts in southern and border states are still segregated while 740 have been integrated.

Seven of those were in Missouri; six in Kentucky; five in Arkansas; four in Oklahoma, three in North Carolina and one each in Tennessee and Maryland.

The publication said that schools remain segregated in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Virginia although Negroes are enrolled in colleges in Virginia and Louisiana.

Reaction Is Evoked By Faubus Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The action of Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus in calling out the National Guard to block school integration in Little Rock has evoked strong editorial reaction across the nation.

Here is some of the editorial comment:

New York Times — We cannot think of such methods of opposing a court order as characteristic of the America we have been brought up to love.

Boston Globe — The Arkansas National Guard may be powerful enough to interrupt the vacation of the President of the United States, but it cannot disrupt the unfolding will of the people expressed through their representatives in Congress.

Christian Science Monitor—The obligation rests heavily and immediately upon everyone concerned to move this situation out of the area of force and into the channels which civilized societies devised long ago for the national settlement of differences.

Miami, Fla., Herald — Only one outcome is possible. The supremacy of the federal government will prevail. It is unfortunate that the true substance of states' rights will be obscured and weakened by the fog of emotions stirred by developments at Little Rock.

Boston Herald — Inevitably the day will come, as it has come to other Southern communities, when Negro and white children sit side by side in the classroom and think nothing of it.

The (Memphis) Commercial Appeal — On the whole the clash is between an unrealistic law and rulings required by it and the responsibility of a state's chief executive to preserve order. Governor Faubus has raised a national issue intimately concerned with how a theory not acceptable by a people can be hastily translated into action . . . .

Kansas City Star (Ind) The melodramatic governor of Arkansas has created a real dilemma for federal law enforcement.

Arkansas Gazette — We Hope... that Mr. Faubus is prepared to accept his "day in court" if it is offered to him. . .and also indicate his willingness to abide by the court's final decisions.

Richmond, Times-Dispatch— It is greatly to be hoped that Gov. Faubus and those who share his views throughout the country will somehow manage to vindicate the right of a sovereign state to control its own affairs, will reverse itself again and restore to the states their longtime control of public education.

Louisville Times: "For every Little Rock (where one man seems to be the issue) there are perhaps a dozen Southern communities where school integration is proceeding peacefully under a dutiful, if not exuberant, acceptance of the law."

Ex-Monroyan Is Honored For Heroism

A former Monroe resident who saved her younger brother from drowning last February has been honored with the Jimmy Sedlier "American in the News" award.

The award, a wristwatch, will be presented to Mrs. Gloria Nubles Morace who rescued her brother, 16-year-old Billy Nubles, when he nearly drowned in Bayou DeSiard Feb. 11. The youth had been baiting a trot-line when his boat overturned and he hung the legs of his blue jeans on the heavy trot-line weights. Gloria managed to pull her brother out of the water and he was given artificial respiration by a Negro man.

News of the award will be broadcast next week on Sedlier's nationwide radio and television broadcast. Sedlier, a Hollywood columnist said in his letter to Mrs. Morace, "It gives me great pleasure to send you my 'American in the News' award for your courageous action in saving the life of your brother, Billy."

TENSION REIGNS

Act By Faubus Brings Forth Much Comment

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) —The Arkansas Christian Missionary Society Board today criticized Gov. Orval Faubus' use of the National Guard to prevent racial integration of Little Rock Central High School.

In a resolution, 13 members of the board said, "We deplore the action of the governor as unnecessary and unduly inflammatory, and we call on him to use the full weight of his office to implement federal law, or, failing this, to return to his first position of not interfering with orderly compliance."

The society is an agency of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) of Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) —An aide to Gov. Orval Faubus says the governor will appear on nationwide television tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. (CST) to explain his position in this city's school racial crisis.

Gov. Faubus will be questioned by John Secondari, chief of the American Broadcasting Co.'s Washington Bureau, and a panel of other newsmen.

The program is known as "Open Hearing."

ATLANTA (AP) — "Guns, bayonets, force, fear and hate" in current school desegregation struggles in other states were deplored in an official resolution of the United Church Women of Atlanta today.

The resolution, in apparent criticism of Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, also deplored situations "where state officials interpose themselves between the authority of the federal government and local governments, therby denying to the local governments the same rights of local determination they demand for themselves."

BIRMINGHAM (AP) — A group of Negro parents here are pondering whether to attempt to enroll their children in white schools after the City Board of Education yesterday formally received their applications.

The school board, in accepting the applications, adopted new rules and regulations based on the state's school placement law.

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — An Alabama circuit judge has taken under advisement a request that a temporary injunction aimed at a boycott of white merchants here be dissolved.

The petition was filed by Tuskegee Negro leaders after the injunction was issued Aug. 16.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The state Senate yesterday passed a bill aimed at preventing boycotting Negroes in the vicinity of Tuskegee from incorporating their own city.

It prohibits the formation of a new city within the police jurisdiction of an existing municipality.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today there will be no comment this weekend on the ruling of a federal judge rejecting a plea for postponement of his orders to integrate the Little Rock High School.

CREATED AT CONFERENCE

New Climate In Church Brewing

OBERLIN, Ohio, Sept. 7 (UP) —A "new climate in church relations" is being created at the 47 denomination Oberlin conference on Christian unity, a conference leader said today.

Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert said representatives of major protestant and orthodox churches are learning in their talks here that "the unity which they have by reason of faith in one Lord is of vastly greater moment than any of things that divide them."

Cavert is executive secretary of the U. S. Conference for the World Council of Churches, one of the sponsoring bodies for the Oberlin meeting. Other sponsors are the NNational Council of Churches of Christ of the U.S.A. and the Canadian Council of Churches. The eight-day meeting at Oberlin College will close next Tuesday, probably with a joint "message" to the churches.

Grappling With Issues

Cavert said in an interview that the conference marks the first time that North American churches have met for the sole purpose of grappling with "the issues that keep them divided into separate denominations." He said no one expected a single conference to resolve all differences or lead directly to reunion in a single big church.

He said that midway in the conference "it now appears probable that its most important result will be the fostering of a new climate in church relations.

"The usual attitude in the past has been either to ignore the differences between churches as if the differences were unimportant, or else to take a defensive posture with regard to one's own position. Instead of either of these familiar habits of mind, there has been at Oberlin a drawing together of leaders of widely separated churches in an effort to really to understand one another.

"They have been learning to see their particular positions in relation to the Christian community as a whole and to develop a common language of theological discourse for the future."

Must "Transplant" Pattern

The next step Calvert said is to "transplant" the pattern of frank and friendly discussion established here to "hundreds of communities throughout North America."

He predicted that one practical achievement of the conference will be establishment of a permanant national study commission to guide local communities in "giving continuous attention to issues affecting the unity."

He said the purpose of this strategy is to bring the "active concern for unity down from the elite level of theological scholars to the level of the pastor and members of the congregation on Main street."

Cavert warned against impatience for immediate results. The Oberlin meetings have made clear, he said, that there is no "quick short cut to the goal of unity."

Mayor Guest Speaker At Jaycee Fete

A discussion of the history and background of the Junior Chamber of Commerce is to be given by Mayor W. L. "Jack" Howard at a dinner meeting of the Monroe - West Monree Jaycees Monday at 7 p.m.

Claim Peace Restored In Cienfuegos

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 7 (UP)— Peace was reported to have been restored in Cienfuegos today after loyal Cuban army forces wiped out the last pockets of rebel resistance in the south coast port city.

United Press Correspondent Reeve Waring, who reached Cienfuegos at noon, said the situation there was "normal."

The army maintained a tight censorship lid on developments at Cienfuegos where members of the nava' garrison and civilian rebels staged a brief bloody revolt that was crushed by government planes and troops, with an official toll of 62 dead. Unofficial estimates said the casualty toll might reach 200.

Informed sources, however, said bus and air transportation would be resumed shortly between Havana and revolt-torn Cienfuegos.

Rumors of a new revolutionary "landing" at Caibarien, on the north coast of Las Villas province, got wide circulation in Havana today but were quickly proved false by a United Press telephone check.

The rumors of a "disembarkation" were believed to have stemmed from the forced landing of a Cuban navy flying boat in Caribarien harbor late Thursday. The amphibian was transporting navy reinforcements to Cienfuegos from Havana when it ran out of fuel.

The army, meanwhile, permitted Havana newspapers to report the funeral of Cmmdr. Luis Seijas, a casualty of the Cienfuegos revolt that broke out Thursday. The funeral was attended by President Fulgeio Batista.

Posse Stumbles On Millionaire's Body In Alabama

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 7 (UP)— A posse stumbled on the body of missing steamship millionaire Caroll B. Waterman in a rattlesnake-infested wood today and an assistant coroner said he apparently had killed himself with a shotgun.

Waterman, 48, had been in ill health, his family said. He had been missing two days.

Waterman was the son of John B. Waterman, founder of the Waterman Steamship Corp. which long was the biggest shipping firm in this Gulf port. It was sold in 1955 to McLean Industries, Inc., for $42,000,000 at which time Waterman resigned as vice-president.

Waterman's body was discovered in a remote part of thickly wooded Mobile county after a posse under Sheriff Ray D. Bridges investigated a report that an automobile was blocking a dirt road.

Assistant Coroner E. L. Brown said Waterman had been dead two days. A shotgun was found beneath his body.

Ag Department Has Complaints

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)— The agriculture department issued complaints today against two meat packing firms and one individual in the New Orleans-Arabi (La.) area, charging rebates, kickbacks, and other violations of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

Named in the complaints are Arabi Packing Co., Inc., and Dixie Packing Co., Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary.

Also named was V. L. Brousse, a packer and registered dealer at the New Orleans stockyards. He is president and largest individual stockholder of Arabi Packing Co., Inc.

The department set hearings in the case for early November.

Convict Editor Asks Discretion In Detainer Use

PARCHMAN, Miss., Sept. 7 (AP)— Convict editor Don Morgan of the penitentiary's Inside World today called for more discretion in the use of de ainers against prisoners.

He said detainers, notices filed in a prisoner's records to hold him for additional action, defeat rehabilitation.

Morgan, who has written two other editorials suggesting improvements within the prison, said in the Sep ember issue:

"Not all detainers placed against the inmates are of serious nature. Some do not make the slightest pretext of even being sensible."

In most cases a prisoner whose record include a detainer may not become a trusty or receive a parole.

Morgan, a short-termer himself said he suggested the changes because they are "so important to the prisoners' welfare. For even though they may not help the prisoner with but a short term left to serve, there is the hope they will benefit the prisoner left behind.

"Still more important is the fact that they may help the unfortunate men and women who will surely follow."

Punishment alone is not enough, Morgan said, either to prevent commission of crime or to help after the crime is committed.

"Punishment without treatment and understanding" does not cure, he said.

Morgan said his two earlier editorials, in July and August, "have not only caused considerable furor among the inmates of Parchman, but have also given them something to look forward to.

"Morale is as high as it has ever been."

Among Morgan's suggestions is establishment of a plant at the penitentiary to produce tags and signs for the state and jobs for the inmates.

Most of the inmates on the 18,000-acre penal farm work at farm chores. There is little opportunity to learn a trade.

Says Algeria Would Go Red Without France

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (UP)— French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau told Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today that most of Algeria would go Communist if it became independent of France.

An authoritative source said this was a key point in Pineau's appeal for American support when the Algerian question comes before the U.N. General Assembly next month.

France will lay its self-government plans for Algeria before the assembly.

Dulles was not expected to commit the United States on the question immediately.

They conferred at Dulles' home, ranging over Algeria, Syria, Soviet aims in the Middle East, and disarmament, informed sources said.

Pineau said that if the Algerian liberation front were allowed to bring about self-determination it would lead to the partition of Algeria. The French-dominated areas around the cities of Algiers and Oran would declare their independence of the rest of Algeria, he predicted. The rest of the country would be at a serious economic disadvantage without a main port.

Consequently, he argued, it would not be long before the Moslem-dominated parts of Algeria fell prey to communism.

It's possible now to color - key your facial tissue to the bathroom or bedroom decoration, whatever it may be. Newest color in tissue, for example, is aqua. This new shade blends with either blue or green tones that may predominate in the room. Other colors of these tissues which are available include yellow, pink and white.

Desire For Adventure Prompts Act

By ELLEN J. HILL

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 (UP)— A Louisiana cajun and a photographer who got tired of the bayous and wanted to see the world were back home today with a television film of a scorching adventure— the flaming volcano crest of El Salvaor's Mt. Izalco.

The two men are Durock J. Hebert, 29, from Cut Off, La., known as "the fabulous cajun", and Frank Caralan, of New Orleans, the photographer who went along just for the film.

Hebert, a former dry goods and concrete salesman, and Caralan, left for El Salvador armed with nothing but a camera and desire for adventure. They hope to sell the film, which Hebert said is the first ever made at the crest of the 115 year old volcano which erupts every 8 to 15 minutes to a television adventure program.

Cajun Llanning New Adventure

The fabulous cajun, whose exploits before the safari through the jungles of El Salvador, involved mostly polling pirogues through the bayous of Louisiana. But Hebert said he is already planning his next adventure. It will be a sea voyage to Pitcairn Island, where the decendants of Fletcher Christian and the other English seamen involved in the famous Mutiny on the Bounty still live.

Hebert set about his world adventures in a unique but orderly way. He wrote a television director for a list of 10 great adventures which had never been filmed.

The director sent the list, Hebert read the first adventure: "Mt. Izalco in El Salvador." He contacted Caralan and the two flew to San Salvador, the Latin American capitol.

Volcano Climb "impossible"

Raul Reyes, head of the tourist bureau of El Salvador, told Hebert and Caralan the climb to the rim of Izalco "was humanly impossible." But when the fabulous cajun hired guides, Reyes, decided to go along "on a personal basis."

Four of the men made it to the top, Hebert said.

"We stood on the rim of that volcano with hot, greenish sulphur pouring all around us. Rocks and flame came blasting out of that crater every seven to 15 seconds.

"My safari helmet was pitted like a sieve. My boots were almost burned off. One native slipped and grabbed the ground and burned his fingers to the bone. Another got hit by a rock and it dislocated his shoulder."

Hebert said, "whenever the crater blew, we would dodge behind boulders until the rocks and ash had fallen."

When the men reached the rim of the volcano, Caralan aimed his camera into the inferno for 15 seconds. Then they ran with white hot ashes pouring down on them.

Hebert is a businessman who turned to adventure for business reasons.

Several years ago he organized and sold a drygoods company; then a concrete firm.

Tried To Buy Freighters

He broke into the news in 1956 when he bid $13 million at a government auction for two super freighters.

"I was high bidder," he said, "but I couldn't come up with 25 per cent of the price, or about $3 million, so I didn't get the boats."

He didn't get the government freighters, but he is dickering now for a good price on a boat in Lima, Peru. It is there he plans to set off on an expedition to Pitcairn Island to film and interview the decendants of the English mutineers, armed only with the TV director's high adventure list.

WHAT DOES LAW SAY?

Texas Experienced Situation Very Similar To Present One In Ark.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) —What does the law say about a governor denying a federal court order?

Texas went through that conflict in recent times. The case so closely parallels the current Little Rock racial troubles that if you change a few names, it looks like the same case.

On Aug. 16, 1931, Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas called out the National Guard to enforce state oil production proration laws. He claimed he did it to preserve peace because certain counties were, as he said, "in a state of insurrection, tumult, riot and a breach of the peace."

Like Gov. Orval Faubus of Arknsas, his stated reason was to preserve peace. The current Arkansas conflict nevertheless has kept Negroes out of Central High School. Gov. Sterling's order likewise reduced oil production.

After various legal maneuverings, a federal judge in Texas issued a permanent injunction against interference by the governor and National Guard commander with oil production. The U.S. Supreme Court upheld the judge.

The District Court found there was no evidence that violence would break out in the oil fields.

It further held that court processes could not be interfered with by military orders, that courts could not be ousted by agencies detailed to aid them, and that court functions could not be transferred to agencies unknown to the Constitution.

No action was taken against the governor or others because Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, ruled, "It is also plain that there was no immediate remedy at law for redress of the injury."

He added the governor's orders were "an invasion under color of state law of rights secured by the federal Constitution."

Chief Justice Hughes also said in effect that a governor could call out troops to prevent violence, but a federal court could itself determine whether there was likely to be violence, and thereby overrule the governor.

Later, further laws were passed involving oil production proration. The authority to limit production no longer is questioned by oil operators.

Adenauer Wears Smile Of Almost Certain Victory

BONN, Germany, Sept. 7 (UP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer these days wears the confident smile of an almost certain victory in the Sept. 15 West German elections — perhaps by another landslide sweep.

With the polling only eight days off, it no longer is a question of whether "Der Alte" (the old man) can win again at 81. The only question is the victory margin.

West Germany's iron - willed leader takes it for granted that he will be chancellor again—at least until 1959, when he may run for the federal presidency after Theodor Heuss steps down from the post.

Even the opposition Socialists and Erich Ollenhauer, their hard-working chief, have stopped talking of a Socialist win. At best, they hope for an increase over the 29 per cent vote they rolled up in the 1953 elections.

Daughter Of Late Justice Dies In N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7 (UP)— Miss Mary Cass Spencer, 91, daughter of the late Louisiana Supreme Court justice William B. Spencer, died today at her home.

Miss Spencer, professor emeritus of mathematics at Newcomb college, was born in Vidalia. Private funeral services will be held here tomorrow.

The bulky sweater fad is back in fall fashions for the school girl. Even dress tops look like sweaters -- complete with thick turtleneck collars or lumberjack sleeves. Coeds will appear on the tennis court in Shetland, at class in wool jersey and on dates in velveteen sweaters.

WHY GROW OLD

Make-Up Modern Magic If You Know Its Tricks

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your make-up base is extremely important. It can make a big difference in the way you look. In the first place it provides a base for your powder, thus prolonging the charm of your make-up. Also, it can add needed color and glow to your natural complexion. It can hide sallow or oily skin and cover freckles and other defects.

No one make-up base is right for every woman because each complexion is individual and different. Learn these general rules and do some experimenting. If you have a dry skin, you should use one of the creamy make-up bases which has sufficient oil. If your skin is very oily, you should use cake make-up or a vanishing cream.

It Vanishes

A vanishing cream does just what its name indicates. It disappears, leaving a thin, non-greasy film on the skin. This acts as a base for the rest of your make-up and keeps the skin from shining. The normal woman who has a normal skin can choose any type she prefers. She often likes a vanishing cream or a liquid powder. You should use a liquid powder only when you do not use a base.

It pays to experiment with the shade you use in both your base and your powder. Usually young girls and older women will find that the lighter shades are most flattering. Some women require more pink than others. Some look best in darker shades. All of this depends on your natural skin tone unless it is most unattractive (such as sallow skin). In such instances your make-up base can come to your aid with more color.

Great cahe should be taken in the way this make-up is applied. Too often we see women whose make-up base does not come all the way to the hair line or stops at the chin. Blend the base out slightly into the hair line and make it continuous a bit below the neck line.

Darker Shades on Defects

You can minimize defects by using a shade darker base on features or areas you wish to make look smaller, and a lighter one on those you want to bring out. For instance, if you have a large nose you would use a slightly darker base on the nose than you use on the rest of the face. If you have a receding chin, you should use a lighter shade on it.

Your face powder should blend with your base. If you have a dry skin, your powder should be very light weight. If you have a normal skin it can be medium but not too heavy. If your skin is oily, use a heavy powder.

You probably will need two shades in base and powder, one for daytime and one for night. At night you will use a lighter, pinker shade. Remember, too, that until you lose your summer suntan your base and powder should be darker than usual. You can simply add a little darker base and powder to the ones you generally use.

Many cosmetic houses will blend powder especially for you or give you small samples to try at home.

Make-up is modern magic which can make you look like a different person if you will learn a few of its tricks.

If you would like my leaflet concerning make-up, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 50. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this paper.

WHY GROW OLD

Make-Up Modern Magic If You Know Its Tricks

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your make-up base is extremely important. It can make a big difference in the way you look. In the first place it provides a base for your powder, thus prolonging the charm of your make-up. Also, it can add needed color and glow to your natural complexion. It can hide sallow or oily skin and cover freckles and other defects.

No one make-up base is right for every woman because each complexion is individual and different. Learn these general rules and do some experimenting. If you have a dry skin, you should use one of the creamy make-up bases which has sufficient oil. If your skin is very oily, you should use cake make-up or a vanishing cream.

It Vanishes

A vanishing cream does just what its name indicates. It disappears, leaving a thin, non-greasy film on the skin. This acts as a base for the rest of your make-up and keeps the skin from shining. The normal woman who has a normal skin can choose any type she prefers. She often likes a vanishing cream or a liquid powder. You should use a liquid powder only when you do not use a base.

It pays to experiment with the shade you use in both your base and your powder. Usually young girls and older women will find that the lighter shades are most flattering. Some women require more pink than others. Some look best in darker shades. All of this depends on your natural skin tone unless it is most unattractive (such as sallow skin). In such instances your make-up base can come to your aid with more color.

Great cahe should be taken in the way this make-up is applied. Too often we see women whose make-up base does not come all the way to the hair line or stops at the chin. Blend the base out slightly into the hair line and make it continuous a bit below the neck line.

Darker Shades on Defects

You can minimize defects by using a shade darker base on features or areas you wish to make look smaller, and a lighter one on those you want to bring out. For instance, if you have a large nose you would use a slightly darker base on the nose than you use on the rest of the face. If you have a receding chin, you should use a lighter shade on it.

Your face powder should blend with your base. If you have a dry skin, your powder should be very light weight. If you have a normal skin it can be medium but not too heavy. If your skin is oily, use a heavy powder.

You probably will need two shades in base and powder, one for daytime and one for night. At night you will use a lighter, pinker shade. Remember, too, that until you lose your summer suntan your base and powder should be darker than usual. You can simply add a little darker base and powder to the ones you generally use.

Many cosmetic houses will blend powder especially for you or give you small samples to try at home.

Make-up is modern magic which can make you look like a different person if you will learn a few of its tricks.

If you would like my leaflet concerning make-up, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 50. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this paper.

Veterans' Benefit Boost Averages About 10 Per Cent

By THOMAS M. NIAL

Veterans with serious service disabilities who've been getting extra Veterans Administration (VA) compensation because they have dependents will receive increases as of Oct. 1.

The increases to individual veterans will average about 10 per cent. They'll go to more than a quarter of a million veterans and will total about eight million dollars the first year.

The raises are provided for in a bill approved by Congress in mid August and signed by President Eisenhower a few days ago. The bill also provides for increases in the two types of VA compensation paid to veterans solely on the basis of their service disabilities.

The actual amount of the raises in the extra "dependents" compensation varies depending on (1) the degree of the veteran's disability; (2) the number and type of dependents, and (3) whether he was disabled in wartime or peacetime military service.

Here's how the three factors figure in:

1. Degree of the veteran's disability. Suppose a veteran receives a disability in service. The VA examines the disability and rates it on the basis of how much it interferes with his ability to make a living. The disability rating can range from 10 to 100 per cent — in jumps of 10 per cent.

Then, on the basis of the rating, the VA makes monthly payments. The greater the degree of disability the higher the payments.

For example: A wartime veteran rated at 10 per cent can now receive $19 a month while a wartime veteran rated at 100 per cent can receive $225 a month.

When a veteran is rated at 50 per cent or more disabled and he has got dependents, he's eligible to receive special monthly payments for his dependents in addition to his regular payments. The amount of the special compensation is based partly on the degree of his disability.

For example: A wartime veteran who has a wife and two children and who is rated at 50 per cent disabled is now eligible for $25 a month in addition to his regular payments. A wartime veteran rated at 100 per cent with a wife and two children is eligible for $50 a month extra.

2. Number and type of dependent. The amounts of special compensation paid to the seriously disabled veterans depend on whether they have wives, children, dependent parents, etc. In general, the more dependents a veteran has the higher the special "dependents" payments.

3. Wartime or peacetime military service. A veteran who is disabled in peacetime is entitled to only 80 per cent of the amount that a wartime veteran can receive for the same disability. This is also true of the special compensation a veteran may receive if he's more than 50 per cent disabled and has dependents.

Says U. S. Planes Shadowed Red Jet

LONDON (AP)—The captain of a Soviet jet airliner says two U.S. bombers tried to shadow his plane on its return from the United States but he ran away from both of them.

Moscow radio did not identify the types of bombers other than to say they were four-engined.

The broadcast said the TU104 returned to Moscow from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., in 11 hours 13 minutes flying time for the 5,570-mile flight. It made three stops on the return flight. The plane cruises at 450 to 500 m.p.h. and can make 560 m.p.h.

The U.S. four-jet B52 bomber is rated in excess of 600 m.p.h. U.S. weather reconnaissance units operating in the area of the TU104's route home, fly some converted propeller-driven bombers of World War II design with speeds of about 300 m.p.h.

"It was obvious that the Americans were very interested in data about our aircraft," the captain said.

"An American four-engined bomber attached himself to us and measured our climbing rate. When the crew noticed this aircraft, they somewhat increased the rate of revolutions of the turbines and the bomber rapidly vanished from view."

The captain was not identified. The senior pilot on the trip had been previously identified as Eugene

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Truman Approves Integration Order

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman, here for a week's visit, says he approves of Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies' action in refusing to delay school integration in Little Rock, Ark.

"He followed the law and the Constitution," Truman says. "It's a matter of the Bill of Rights."

Truman expressed his view to newsmen yesterday as he and Mrs. Truman arrived by train from their home at Independence, Mo.

But the former President declined to comment on Gov. Orval E. Faubus' use of National Guardsmen to prevent Negroes from entering Little Rock's Central High School. Neither would he say what he thought President Eisenhower's next move should be.

Although he did express approval of Davies' ruling, Truman said of the Little Rock situation: "I don't want to talk about it now. I don't think this is the time. I have spoken out about this before. I am not a man who doesn't speak out."

Regarding Faubus' use of National Guard troops, Truman said, "I don't want to muddy up the water."

Lodge Confident U.N. To Approve Anti-Red Resolve

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge says he is confident the United Nations will approve a resolution that will help bring on what he called the inevitable liberation of Hungary.

A special U.N. General Assembly session beginning tomorrow will be asked to approve a U.S. resolution condemning the Soviet Union for suppressing the Hungarian revolt.

"I think we're going to get a good vote," he said yesterday in a radio-TV interview (NBC Meet the Press).

The United Nations has already approved one resolution condemning Russia's part in the revolution.

The special session before the regular Assembly meeting begins Sept. 17 will debate a five-nation committee report on the uprising severely criticizing Russia.

Lodge said the second resolution was being offered in the debate because "we hope to keep the issue alive."

"We hope that by doing that we will help all the forces that are working in the long pull for liberation," he added.

"We don't think that passage of this resolution will mean that the Soviet army will be out tomorrow, but neither do we think they are going to be there forever. And in the liberation of Hungary, which we think is inevitable some day, we think the United Nations resolution will play a part."
